FARM BUREAU NOTES

Notes for this Department furnished by County Agent

Soil Erosion Tour.

Under the direction of Dr. Condra, Dean Bugr, Professor Eddy, Kine, Russell, Stewart, and Director Brokaw, the bankers who were taking a three day Short Course, were brought thru Cass county and were shown methods used in checking soil erosion.

They visited the farm of Fred Rehmeier where he told them how he had taken a run-down farm and built it back until it was paying.

On the farm of Isaac Wiles they were shown a ditch which had been graded shut and seeded to sweet clover and oats last spring. This year the sweet clover is holding it from washing.

From there to the home of Frank Spangler, where they saw another farm which was built up and is now on a paying basis.

At noon they were served dinner at the Congregational church in Weeping Water where Mayor Troy L. Davison welcomed them and Mr. J. Teegarden gave a very interesting talk. After dinner they were taken out to the Meyer farm, east of Weeping Water, where they saw what he done with a large soil saving dam.

From there to the home of Edwin Shoemaker's, where Mr. Shoemaker told them how he had kept records for the last fifteen years.

Then a stop was made at the W. B. Banning fruit farm, east of Union. And the cost of producing an orchard was told by Mr. Banning.

The last stop in Cass county was on the farm of Chas. Garrison, where they saw 40 acres of Cossock's alfalfa which was sown August 25, 1927 on oats ground which had been well prepared. This 40 acres was terraced under the direction of Ivan

Woods of the Extension Service, and limed at the rate of 1 ton per acre and seeded at a rate of 10 pounds per acre. The total cost of preparing the seed bed, liming and terracing and seed was $339.

Mr. Garrison seeded this to alfalfa because it had begun to wash and was badly infested with Tan weeds. Last year Tan weeds showed up in many places in the fields but this spring you can not see any.

How to Make a Dustless Duster.

Dip a soft cloth until saturated in a solution of one tablespoon of turpentine, 1 quart of hot water, and 3 tablespoons of raw linseed oil. Wring out as dry as possible. Wipe painted or varnished surfaces with this. The turpentine cuts and cleans, and the oil renews the polish of the wood.

Cheese cloths or the legs of old white hose are good for this purpose as they absorb the oil and turpentine evenly and produce little lint.

A glass jar is a safe place to keep these dusters when not in use.

Dressing-Up the Windows.

With the change of season there is the opportunity for carpets and change in curtains. Clean, attractive curtains give a pleasing impression. The windows and hangings of a room are unconsciously noticed first upon entering. The first impression is often a lasting one so naturally every housewife wants her curtains to be attractive.

The size and shape of the windows determines the kind of curtain. Ruffled curtains make a long window appear shorter. Valances and novel tie-backs also cut the height. Curtains that are held tight by back at the top and bottom, and which hang four to six inches below sill give the impression of a longer window.

Choice of materials will be limited by the amount of light needed in the room. Curtains of glazed or crepe cotton may be hung in light rooms. Dark rooms appear lighter with curtains of transparent material such as lawn, dotted swiss, marquisette, dimity and theatrical gauze. The materials that are chosen should be serviceable. Simple embroidered designs, and hemstitching will add to the attractiveness of the curtains.

Controlling the Peach Leaf Curl.

A great many peach trees in the eastern portion of Nebraska are affected this spring with a peculiar curling of the leaves. This condition is not caused by cold weather or frosts as some people say, but by a fungus commonly known as peach leaf curl. After a few weeks the infected leaves die and the trees are forced to develop new leaves. This is quit a drain on the tree, especially if fruit has been set in the case of most orchards this year. Badly infected trees will go into the winter in a weakened condition and may not come thru alive. Unfortunately it is too late to control this disease. A simple spray with lime sulphur at the rate of 3 gallons to 50 of water applied any time after the leaves are off and before the new leaves start in the spring will effectively control the disease.—L. R. Snipes, County Extension Agent, J. H. Baldwin, Asst. County Extension Agent.

SUFFERS BROKEN ARM

From Tuesday's Daily—
Janet, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. R. P. Westover, suffered a very severe accident yesterday at St. Joseph, Missouri, where she is in company with her parents and aunt, Miss Jessie Robertson, have been visiting since Sunday. The little girl was playing and had climbed into a small tree and suddenly fell from the tree and caused the double fracture of the bones of the left wrist. The injury was dressed temporarily at St. Joseph by Dr. Westover and the little girl brought on home where an x-ray disclosed the very severe nature of the break. The little girl was then taken to Omaha where a specialist examined the break but was unable to get a satisfactory setting and the little one will be taken up again Wednesday to have the member treated and the bone set under the use of the x-ray. The little one is resting as easily as possible altho she still suffers from the effects of the pain and the shock of the accident.

NELSON-TOWLE

Miss Violet Nelson, daughter of H. P. Nelson of Kanorado, Kansas, was united in marriage to Harold Towle of Phillipsbury, Kansas, Saturday morning May 18th, at eleven o'clock by the Rev. Maple of Burlington, Colorado. Violet is a graduate of the Kanorado high school with the class of '29 and was very popular in school affairs. The groom is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Towle, formerly of South Bend and is connected with the Rock Island railroad in the welding department.

Immediately after the ceremony they left in company with the bride's brother, John Nelson, for Phillipsbury, where they spent the week end with the groom's parents, returning to Kanorado Monday, where their many friends gave them a rousing reception.

The happy couple will make their home in Kanorado for the present.

RECEIVES SCHOLARSHIP

Miss Dorothy Baumgart of Crookston, Nebraska, who graduated the past week from the high school at her home town, was given the scholarship offered by the state colleges and which will entitle her to a part of her tuition free in case that she should decide to take up further educational work. Miss Baumgart is a granddaughter of Mrs. J. V. Egenberger and also of Louis Baumgart of this city.

Plant Life First in the Scale of God's Creation

The Glory of Plant Life and Its Usefulness Touched Upon by Civic Committee.

The first notice we have of that part of the world around us which bears forth the vegetable kingdom, is in the first chapter of the Bible, where we are told that on the third day of creation God said, "Let the earth bring grass, the herb yielding seed and the fruit trees yielding fruit after his kind, whose seed is in itself upon the earth."

At the command of the Almighty the mysteries of vegetable life began to start into being; shrubs and flowers adorned the fields, lofty trees waved in the forests, and herbs and grasses covered the ground with verdure. It was only after the earth had thus been robed in beauty that it brought forth abundant cattle and creeping things and every living thing after its kind. Thus vegetable ranks first in order in the scale of creation, being designed for the support of animal life they are universally diffused over our globe through the extreme of heat and cold—even in the water of the sea as well as on the land.

Wherever the eye is directed you see the most dissimilar forms of plant life, some are cast ashore by the waters of the sea, in shape of leathery astrags of thongs or collected in ocean meadows. Others crawl out of crevices of dark and loathsome mines where the light of day never penetrates; in rivers and quiet waters are found living threads of green; mud throws up its jelly-like scum; filthy brood of all kinds bring forth their dregs of microscopic plants; corn crops change to field soot; rust and mildew blight our grain; and all matter in decay is seen to teem with moldy life. All these forms belong to the lower order of plant life.

If we rise higher in the scale this never-ending diversity opens a world of beauty to our eyes. The bark of ancient trees is covered with velvet; their branches are hung with gray-beard tapestry; a grandeur and gloom overspread the forest world. The scene changes in the more open landscape. There heaths and moors wave with a tough and wiry herbage; the meadows are clothed with an emerald mantle amid which springs up flowers of all hues and forms, brushes throw about the many fashioned foliage and twining vines scramble over and choke them.

The forms of plant life change at every step, every altered condition new plants start up. The mountainside has its own races, the valleys have theirs; the tribes of the sand the granite and the limestone all are different; and the sun does not shine upon two degrees on the surface of the globe the vegetation is identical; for every latitude has a flora of its own. In short the forms of seas, lakes, rivers, peninsulas, hills, valleys, plains and mountains, are not more indefinitely diversified as the plant life which adorns them.

In all ages of the world, flowers the crowning glory of plants, have been regarded as things of beauty, and emblems of innocence and virtue. Many of the finest poems in all languages are drawn from them. Our Lord alludes to the "Lilies of the Field" to convince his people of his care for them. He said, "Consider the Lilies of the Field, how they grow, they toil not, neither do they spin, and yet I say unto you that Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these. Wherefore, if God so clothe the field which today is, and tomorrow is cast into the oven, shall he much more clothe you, O ye of little faith."

Professor Gray, the eminent botanist quoting this passage remarked,

Progressive farmers are buying hail insurance year after year and charging it to production costs, just as they do seed or labor.

For 50 Years

We have been Clothiers to the men of Cass County.

For 50 Memorial Days we have clothed the men who wore the blue and later the boys who wore the kiki.

To the new generation we can say "your fathers and your grandfathers have been clothed from this store." The same high standard of quality that appealed to them is here for you too.

Let us be YOUR clothiers!

Special Values for this day of valor.

When Christ himself directs us to consider with attention the plants around us—to notice how they grow—how varied, how numerous, and how elegant they are, and with what exquisite skill they are fashioned we will surely find it profitable and pleasant to learn the lessons which they teach, "whatever man finds of flavor or of scent in fruit or flower—or what he views of beautiful or grand in nature—from the broad majestic oak to the green blade that twinkles in the sun prompts the remembrance of a pleasant God.—Mrs. F. #### MORE STUDENTS GRADUATING

Among the former Plattsmouth residents who are to graduate from the higher educational institutions this year are Clifford Cecil, who is to receive his degree at Drake university at Des Moines, where he will receive the degree of doctor of divinity, in the Christian church ministry and Willis Hartford, who graduates from the Iowa state college at Ames, Iowa, this year after a four years course in this great industrial school. Mr. Cecil is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Cecil and Mr. Hartford of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Hartford of this city and both young men are graduates of the Plattsmouth high school.

A former resident here, now living at Lincoln, an who graduates this year from the University of Nebraska, is Miss Edith Quinton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Quinton and who is now completing her four year course at the university. Miss Quinton was one of the most brilliant of the students in the years she was in the local schools and her many friends here will be pleased to learn of her successful completion of her work at the university.

WILL MOVE TO ARLINGTON

Rev. and Mrs. H. L. Grassmuck and son, Robert, are soon to leave this city for Arlington, Nebraska, where they are to make their home in the future and where Rev. Grassmuck has purchased a beautiful five room home that they will enjoy as their residence in the future.

Rev. Grassmuck, who has served in the ministry of the Christian church for several years and was in charge of the local church for some time, will take up another line of work and work and expects to be engaged as state field man in christian educational work in the future as soon as the family are settled in the new home.

The many friends of this estimable family here in this city will extend their very best wishes for the future happiness and success of the Grassmuck family. Rev. and Mrs. Grassmuck desire to express their deep appreciation of the kindnesses of the friends here during their residence in this city.

VISITS FRIENDS HERE

From Tuesday's Daily—
Rev. J. H. Steger, former pastor of the St. Paul's Evangelical church of this city and who is now located at Columbus, Nebraska, was here for a short time last evening visiting with the old time friends. Rev. Steger has been attending the annual conference at Steinauer, Nebraska, of the Evangelical church, was enroute home to his charge and took advantage of the occasion to stop for a visit here where the Steger family made their home for a great many years.

TAKE ENFORCED LAYOFF

The car repair shops of the Burlington Refrigerator Express Co., in this city, are enjoying an enforced vacation for several days as the result of the exhaustion of the appropriation of the company for shop work and which makes necessary a shutdown of activities at several of the shops operated by this company on different railroad lines. The local shops have a great many cars on hand for repairs but have been compelled to operate very light for several weeks and to take the layoff to await the additional appropriations that would permit the handling of the work.
