The Union Business Men's club will meet at the lower Clarke hotel on June 17th where they will enjoy another good time and will devise ways and means for the further benefit of the city in many ways.

J. B. Roddy and Fred Ntuzman departed on last Sunday for the west where they were looking after some land transactions, both in the western portion of the state and their business as well carrying them into Colorado.

Reports from the bedside of John Armstrong who is still at the hospital is to the effect that he is showing some good improvement. His many friends are hoping that he may soon be able to return to his home entirely well again.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Moore were visiting in Lincoln for last Tuesday and Wednesday and also attending the Drugists convention which was in session at that time. They also were guests at the banquet which was held in the evening.

David Kendall and O. A. Pearsley shelled and delivered corn to the Stites elevator on last Monday and on Tuesday, W. L. Stine, delivered corn, they wanting to get it off while there was not so much work to do by the farmers and truckmen.

During the Civil war in the troublesome time of 1863, three boy babies were born who were to become members of the staid inhabitants of Union in the years to come, they being E. J. Maugay, born June 7th, while R. D. Stine was born June 10th and J. W. Woodard was born in October, they all being sixty-six years of age this summer, and all doing fine.

E. M. Griffin of Plattsmouth was a visitor in Union for the day last Sunday and a guest at the home of his son, H. M. Griffin, and family, and here also met John Griffin and family, a brother, of Nehawka. All enjoyed the day most pleasantly and on the return of John Griffin and wife to their home in Nehawka, Hattie Griffin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Griffin, accompanied them for a few days visit.

C. E. Longman and family of Fort Collins, Colorado, who was a caller at Union last Monday afternoon while on his way to Shenandoah and other points in the east, stopped here and in conversation with the writer said that he was a neighbor of W. R. Bryan and that that gentleman had been rather ill for some time but was at this time getting out again. It will be remembered that Mr. Bryan was formerly a resident of near South Bend, as well as Plattsmouth, an earnest worker in the Christian church and also a candidate for county treasurer in the democratic ticket several years ago.

Many Enjoy First Banquet. On last Monday at noon was held the first banquet of the Union Business Men's Club, at the Hotel Clarke, which had been arranged from last week.

There were a goodly number of the business men present, and a most enjoyable and profitable time was had. The dinner which was furnished by the Clarke hotel was all that could be desired and was served in the very best style. Captain Leo Farrell of Omaha who is a trainer of infantry at the station at Ft. Crook, who was passing through the city and stopped for a short visit with his friend Dr. W. H. Achtenbach, and accepted an invitation to attend the banquet. He made a very pleasing address, with many sparkling stories as an illustration. He was followed by Dr. Boyles of Nebraska City, who was the fun maker of the occasion. His address was well received. Charles I. Seeley of the Weeping Water Republican was present and responded to a call for an address and spoke of the advantages of the formation of the club, and extended the wish for their success. The last speaker was Rev. W. A. Taylor who spoke as a representative of the largest business in the world, the business of Jehovah. He said the preaching of the gospel was indeed the greatest business in the world and cited the reply of the Master when a child when sought by his parents and when they found him in the temple in discussion with the doctors of the law, and they chided him for causing them so much grief when they thought him lost, he replied "Wist ye not that I was about my Father's business." Co-operation was the gist of the address of Rev. Taylor and he asked the members of the club to come to his office, the church, and co-operate with the greatest of business, the preaching of the gospel. Come and attend church. There were present for the occasion and another meeting to be held next Monday at the same place, were Rev. W. A. Taylor, W. E. Moore, Frank Bauer, Tony Sudduth, H. M. Griffin, A. L. Becker, D. R. Franz and his guest, Dr. G. H. Gilmore of Murray.

Putting on Larger Motor.

The Missouri Pacific who has been running a train for the past week instead of their motor car, have taken an old car to the south where it will be used on a branch line, while they have just received a larger one which will be used on this line, and which will be capable of hauling, besides itself, another car. At times the business on this line was too heavy for the little car, could care for it nicely.

REAL PIONEER VISITOR

Mrs. H. S. Wright, of Fruitdale, South Dakota, is in the city visiting at the Valley home, guests of her two nieces, Misses Louise and Grace Vallery. Mrs. Wright is the oldest sister of J. R. Vallery, and the earlier years of her life were spent in Cass county, but left for the great northwest in 1876, where she has since made her home. Mrs. Wright and Miss Vallery were pleasant callers at the Journal office yesterday evening, and it sure makes a very interesting story to listen to the trials and hardships of the many people that took part in the rush for the northwest during those years of which she was a member. She is a real pioneer of that part of the country, but very few of such early settlers are left to tell the tale. She is eighty-three years old, in excellent health, and as her family, husband, son and daughter, have all departed this life, she is conducting a boarding house in the town of Fruitdale, and enjoys the work. Mrs. Wright is certainly a remarkable lady for one of her years.

Morrow is Silent on Religious Quarrel

Ambassador to Mexico Silent When Asked if President Is Taking Any Part.

Mexico City—Archbishop Leopoldo Ruiz and Bishop Pascual Diaz talked for half an hour Monday with the secretary of President Emilio Portes Gil, but otherwise made no public move toward opening negotiations for the settlement of the religious controversy. It was believed that their visit was to fix a time for an interview with the president.

The bishops continued to refuse to receive callers to make any statement. Everything possible has been done to keep their place of residence secret. The Rev. Dr. Edmund Walsh, vice president of Georgetown university, who has been in Mexico City for five weeks confers daily with the bishops.

United States Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow declined to make any statement on the religious situation. He read an article in a local newspaper quoting a Catholic priest as saying President Hoover had taken an extra official part in efforts to settle the controversy and had sent instructions to Mr. Morrow in that regard, but the ambassador only smiled and refused to confirm the report. Mr. Morrow saw the president at Chapultepec castle early Monday afternoon and later called at the foreign office.

Dr. Walsh denied reports that he had been appointed an envoy of the vatican. "As the existing differences lie entirely between the Mexican government and the Catholic church in Mexico," he said. "The holy see has very properly appointed a Mexican prelate of high standing (Archbishop Ruiz) to bring to successful termination negotiations which resulted from the constructive and praiseworthy statements made by the president of the republic on May 8."—State Journal.
