Japan Maintaining a Neutral Attitude

Positive Measures Not Yet Regarded Necessary in Chinese-Russian Rupture

Tokyo—The Japanese cabinet was understood Friday to have decided that positive Japanese measures as yet were unnecessary in the rupture of diplomatic relations between Russia and China over the Chinese Eastern railway. The cabinet heard a report on the crisis by Foreign Minister Shidehara.

Meanwhile a policy of strict neutrality and watchfulness will be maintained. Several diplomats called on the foreign office, including counsel for Edwin L. Neville of the American embassy and representatives of the British and Italian embassies. It was understood that all discussed the situation in Manchuria.

Official quarters doubted rumors of frontier skirmishes relayed by Japanese correspondents in Harbin, none of which was confirmed. Official reports did confirm dispatches saying that soviet airplanes had made demonstrations over border towns and also that soviet gunboats had moved down the Amur river to its junction with the Stangart.

The Japanese general staff estimated that the Russian concentration opposite Manchull was equivalent to one division with cavalry while an army corps, based at Harbarovsk, was moving its main strength in the direction of Pogranichnaya.

Military authorities persist in their belief that war will be avoided, but admit the possibility of border skirmishes growing out of the proximity of opponents, some of whom are noted as well disciplined.

It was learned that no measures have yet been taken for the protection of Japanese in North Manchuria who were estimated at 5,000 in the Chinese Eastern railway zone exclusive of the Chang Chung terminus where 15,000 are protected by the northernmost Japanese post of the Manchurian garrison.

The Japanese postoffice has stopped forwarding mails by way of Siberia, and several thousand letters now held here will be rerouted by way of either the Suez Canal or America.—State Journal.

Dairy Farming Brings Wealth to 'New South'

Value of Cattle in Dixieland Has Increased $16,568,000 Since 1925

Louisville, Ky.—Dairying, according to bankers who ought to know, is a formidable, but friendly, rival of industry in promoting the prosperity of the "New South." Here in the state which numbers more dairy cows than any other in the South, among them the champion 3-year-old butterfat producer of the world and the champion county group of heifers, the extraordinary strides which dairying has taken in the territory, below the Ohio and Potomac Rivers are markedly noticeable.

Dairying, in its way, is a hand-maiden of industry since it is directly responsible for the establishment—all within a comparatively few years—of 381 dairy product plants, turning out butter, cheese and condensed and powdered milk.

Ten states south of the Ohio and Potomac, plus Arkansas and Louisiana, had on their farms 3,721,000 dairy cattle on Jan. 1, 1929. This was but a 1 per cent numerical increase over Jan. 1, 1928, but the value of these cattle grew 16 per cent—from $181,981,000 to $211,549,000. Obviously, the type of dairy cows is improving in Dixie, and the movement against the "scrub sire" is credited by colleges of agriculture with being responsible in great measure for this. Better cows mean not only more milk but more butter fat.

"Worthy of commendation," says James Speed, Kentucky editor of the Southern Agriculturist, "is the fact that the value of the South's dairy cattle exceeds by $16,568,000 the value of all cattle in the southern states as shown by the census of 1925."

Specific instances of how the dairy industry has improved the situation of the cotton-growing farmer might be cited on every hand. Dairying has liberated many southerners from "one-crop slavery," and has given them the new freedom that comes with increased prosperity.

Kentucky leads the South in the number of cattle with 493,000. Tennessee is second with 437,000 and Mississippi is sixth on the list in the matter of cattle value. Virginia and Arkansas each have 282,000 dairy cows, but Virginia is third in the value list and North Carolina, with 294,000 cattle, ranks fourth.

SIXTH DISTRICT MAY PASS OUT
Lincoln, July 15.—Though Nebraska may lose a congressional district in the reapportionment next year, it won't be the Fourth. Congressman Sloan ventured while in Lincoln Monday.

The present Fourth, he said, may be dissected and parts of it added to other districts, but its identity will be retained.

"Should any districts be dropped," the solon predicted, "it will be the Sixth, which is the last added."

Washington, July 17.—Urging a revision of the old maxim "In time of peace prepare for war," Assistant Secretary of War Col. Patrick J. TOPS CHICAGO MARKET

Cass county fed cattle topped the Chicago live stock market on Tuesday when a two car shipment of cattle from the farm of Will Wehrlein and W. G. Boedecker was offered and brought $16.50, the days top price. These cattle are the first shipment of the season from Murray and represent a part of eleven car loads of stock that Mr. Boedecker and Mr. Wehrlein have been feeding at their farm and which they purchased last fall in the sandhills of Nebraska.

The enterprising stock feeders of Murray are planning to send these shipments each week or ten days to the Chicago market. Messrs. Wehrlein and Boedecker have had some of the best stock on the Chicago market in different shipments and their stock brings a good price.

In speaking of the stock the Chicago Daily Drovers Journal has the following:

W. G. Boedecker representing the firm of Boedecker and Wehrlein of Cass county, Nebraska, was here Wednesday with a shipment of 36 choice 1241 lb. steers which sold to Messrs. Greenwald New York shippers at $16.50, the day's top price. They had been on full feed of corn and alfalfa hay for the last five and a half months and were an outstanding drove of steers.

Mrs. Fleet Parsons of Omaha is here to spend a few days at the home of her sister, Mrs. W. P. Sittman and family and enjoying a short vacation.

FORMER RESIDENT HERE

From Saturday's Daily—
J. E. Kraeger of near LaPorte, Colorado, arrived here last evening and will enjoy a short visit in this locality with the relatives and the old time friends as well as attending to some business affairs while back in old Cass county. Mr. Kraeger resided in this county for a great many years in his younger days and was one of the leading farmers of this community, moving in 1914 to the west and has resided in eastern Colorado since that time. He has very large land interests near Grant, Nebraska, and has been there looking over the crops in Perkins county and reports that the wheat is very fine and making a good average while corn is very good but not as strong as in this section although the wheat there is much better than here.

Mr. Kraeger motored on to this city from Grant to enjoy his visit and will then return to the west. Mr. Kraeger was a caller at the Journal while here and his visit was much enjoyed as it has been a number of years since the old friends have had the pleasure of meeting this genial gentleman.
