Two Members, One Visitor. At Monday noon meeting of the Union Business Men's club which was held in the library building and served by the ladies of the Methodist church, there was the usual large crowd present and all enjoyed the excellent dinner and sociability which marks these meetings. The meeting was presided over by the vice president, W. E. Moore, in absence of Dr. Achenbach, who called for introduction of those who were there for the first time. W. B. Banning introduced Paul Applegate, who has made his home near Union for many years and is one of the staid farmers which give value to the soil by his excellent cultivation, and good citizenship, he was greeted with an enthusiastic welcome. Following the good natured crowd greeted Louis Burbee, the fine young business man, and whose co-operation the club was pleased to have. Then came the introduction of Robert Troop of Plattsmouth, by his friend and member, who in the introduction, has to say that Robert Troop was born September 22nd, 1847, in Scotland and with the parents came to America when he was one year of age, settling in Davenport, Iowa, where he grew to manhood and at the time of the outbreak of the Civil war, went to the front giving unstintingly his services for the country which he loved so well. For four years he was one of the boys who did his best for his country, fighting in twenty-six pitched battles, was one of the boys in blue who fought around and captured Vicksburg on the Mississippi river, was taken prisoner in the southwest, imprisoned for eleven months in the Confederate prison at Tyler, Texas.

This place was situated on the prairie with no shade but a stockade made of boards sixteen feet high and guarded with patrols who had a rifle in the surrounding woods. There was something of a circus actor turned hand springs and other stunts many a time for a meal of something more than mere corn and a very decided lack of water. He with a number of companions dug a tunnel through the stockade and made their escape one night and had almost reached the Union lines when the bloodhounds overtook them and chased them to trees on the banks of the Red river. The boys could hear the baying of the hounds and the playing of the bugles of the army but a short distance away at the same time. They were returned and finally exchanged. Following the termination of the war, Mr. Troop returned to Davenport and as the Union Pacific was building came west in 1866 and worked on the bar west across Nebraska. Returning he was married and came to Nebraska to make his home in 1875 and since resided in Cass county. When he was asked to stand up he was showered with thunderous applause, and greeted following by many who were pleased to meet him.

A New Manager Now. With the resignation of Ralph Pearsley as manager of the Trunkenholz filling station who has made an excellent man for the position but who has other business demanding his attention, the position has been filled by the appointment of Leucan Banning who is well acquainted with the trade and having the business capacity and experience, we are sure will make a man who will make a success of the business.

FIRE SITUATION BETTER. Seattle, Wash.—Battled to a standstill by thousands of men and checked by rain or higher humidity, the forest fire situation in the Pacific northwest continued to show improvement Tuesday.

Forecasts of more rain Wednesday encouraged the Washington Forest Fire association to order burning of slashings which have been a serious fire menace all summer in western Washington, while forest officials in central and eastern Washington reported the situation had improved so that it appeared unnecessary to call upon United States troops to aid the civilian fire crews.

The city of Nelson, B. C., was still in peril from the Hall creek fire, which raged in heavy timber eleven miles north of the town. High winds were fanning flames which threatened the district around MacDonald, Saskatchewan.

PUT WILLIAMS IN SENATE RACE. Lincoln—Secretary of State Marsh received unofficial word Monday that Lieutenant-Governor Williams had written friends in Lincoln that he proposes to be a candidate for United States senator at the primary election next year regardless of whether Senator Norris stays in the race or drops out.

Lieutenant-Governor Williams wrote from Centralia, Wash. He left Nebraska several weeks ago to consult surgeons at Rochester, Minn., and when advised to take hospital treatment went to Boulder, Colo. He was next heard from in the state of Washington.

Turns Fort Leavenworth to U. S. Felons

Will House 1,800 Prisoners; Three New Penitentiaries Will Be Built at Huge Cost

Washington, Aug. 20.—Two moves toward relieving congestion in federal penitentiaries were disclosed Tuesday by President Hoover and Attorney General Mitchell.

The first, as announced by the President, contemplates use by the Department of Justice of three military prisons for incarceration of criminals until completion of the pending $6,250,000 construction program.

Subsequently the attorney general said the budget bureau had received that program calling for a new penitentiary in the northeast, industrial reformatory in west and three short-term jails in sections yet to be selected.

President Hoover had conferred with Secretary Good and Mr. Mitchell regarding the availability of the military prisons. They determined the disciplinary barracks at Fort Leavenworth could be turned over to the Department of Justice temporarily as soon as the 600 military prisoners there could be transferred.

Barracks Available. The disciplinary barracks at Governor's Island and at Alcatraz also were said to be available if necessary, but at present the Justice department does not contemplate their use.

Attorney General Mitchell said the Fort Leavenworth barracks could accommodate 1,800, and after these barracks are turned over in about two weeks they probably will be operated as a part of Leavenworth penitentiary.

As soon as organization is completed, prisoners will be transferred there from the Atlanta and Leavenworth penitentiaries, in each of which there are now 3,700 prisoners, although the prisons were designed to hold half as many.

The new penitentiary will cost $3,000,000, the reformatory $2,000,000, and the three jails $250,000.

Mr. Mitchell said the program first would have to be authorized by the budget bureau and congress, and then would take about six years for completion.

The attorney general hopes the use of the Leavenworth barracks will meet the situation until the new penitentiary is completed.

It will be designed to accommodate 2,000 prisoners, while the industrial reformatory would accommodate 1,000 prisoners and each of the jails not more than 500 prisoners.

He said the reformatory would be conducted along the lines of the present federal reformatory for first offenders at Chillicothe, Ohio, which is a non-walled prison.—Omaha Bee-News.

The governor will attend the banquet of the Independent Grocers' association at the Cornhusker hotel here Friday evening and talk to its members. PROGRESS IN FOOD PRODUCTION AND DISTRIBUTION

The economy, efficiency and high standards of quality made possible by mass production are to be brought to consumers of food products.

The large company has acquired some 50 national, known, non-competitive food specialists. Other companies plan projects of a similar nature.

This is a logical change from the wasteful food production and distribution methods of the past. What mass production has done for automobiles, electricity and clothes can do for food. And the American dinner table should benefit, by receiving better and more dependable products at a lower and uniform price.

ABANDON KILLINGS SURVEY

Washington—The proposed survey by the department of justice to determine the number of citizens and officers killed in the enforcement of the prohibition law was said Tuesday by Attorney General Mitchell to have been dropped. Efforts were initiated by the department to find out how many civilians had been killed by prohibition enforcement officers, state, federal and municipal, and how many officers had lost their lives in enforcing the law.

Answers to the inquiry, the attorney general said, showed that municipal and state officers had not kept a record of prohibition killings and that any figures garnered would be entirely useless. For this reason the survey was given up.

It had been planned to turn the result of the survey over to the result of the survey over to the national law enforcement commission.

Five Battalions of Infantry to be Disbanded

Unlisted Personnel to Be Transferred to Air Corps Under Expansion Plan

Washington—Five battalions of infantry were ordered disbanded by Secretary Good Tuesday so their enlisted personnel could be transferred to the air corps in connection with the five year army aviation expansion program.

The cavalry, field artillery, engineer corps, ordnance, and chemical warfare service sections also were ordered to furnish a total of 1,094 enlisted men to the aviation service. These transfers are to be made as the third annual increment of the air corps' personnel under the five year expansion plan.

The battalions selected for disbandment are: First battalion Third infantry, Fort Strang, Massachusetts; Third Moultrie, South Carolina; First battalion Tenth infantry, Fort Thomas, Kentucky; Third battalion, Sixth infantry, Jefferson Barracks, Missouri; and Second battalion, Seventeenth infantry, Fort Des Moines, Iowa.

Under the transfer from the other arms of the service, 321 men will be drawn from all the cavalry units in the country; by reducing the Fifteenth field artillery from a regiment to a battalion, 647 men will be taken from the field artillery; 141 men from the engineer corps; 75 men from the ordnance department, and ten men from the chemical warfare service.

Meanwhile at the war department offices of the general staff are seeking means of paring down the army's expenditures as proposed by President Hoover. A vast compendium of facts and statistics is being assembled from all army units and services through the United States and American possessions in the office of Brigadier General Cimonds.—State Journal.

STOWAWAY'S LUCK HARD

Hamburg, Germany—Albert Buschko found it easier to stowaway on the Graf Zeppelin for its last flight to Lakehurst than he is now finding it to escape the penalty.

He escaped overboard from the steamship Thuringia, as it entered this port Tuesday but was soon fished out by a passing lighter and was locked up again on the liner on which he was reported from the United States. His steppath was waiting for him but was not allowed to take Buschko home until the courts have dealt with him.

Fired Employee Charges Lax Guaranty Quiz

Wants Sorensen to Take Over Bank Investigation from Hand of Shallenberger

Lincoln, Aug. 19.—R. T. Jones, Scottsbluff, recently dismissed by Attorney General Sorensen, chief of the guaranty fund audit, who also had employed him as special investigator, placed his grievances today before Attorney General Sorensen.

He came here, he stated, to demand that the attorney general take hold of the reins in the investigation.

"I am appalled at the attitude of depositors," Jones said, "who insist that Mr. Sorensen, as one who is free from dictation, be at the hands of the government, and Mr. Shallenberger, shall take hold of the situation."

It is the consensus of opinions at a recent Bridgeport meeting of depositors, Jones stated, that the investigation was not being conducted in the manner the legislature intended it should.

Quotes Lawmakers. Senator C. W. Johnson of Packer and Berne Coulter, speaker of the house of representatives, attended this meeting, Jones stated, and voiced themselves in this manner.

The erstwhile state employee further assailed his former chief relative to the conduct of the investigation, declaring he was simply "defending his own hobby" in concluding that lax banking supervision had wrecked five institutions upon which reports have been made.

Blames Guaranty Fund. The condition of the banks, Jones declared, was the result of mishandling by the guaranty fund commission in liquidating assets.

closing of banks to frozen assets and poor securities," Jones further commented, adding "why, any 10-year-old knows those things are what close banks."

In response to Jones' request, Attorney General Sorensen declared his office had been taking an active part in the investigation through Lee Bayes, special counsel, and will continue to do so. Jones concluded his interview with Mr. Sorensen by challenging the state to debate the question of repudiating the guaranty fund deficit.—Omaha Bee-News.

RESUME COTTON INDUSTRY

Manchester, England—Lancashire went to work after three weeks of paralysis of the cotton industry. The drone of machinery as 500,000 mill hands resumed their tasks, and smoke pouring from tall chimneys all thru the factory towns proclaimed the end of the stoppage that cost workers and employes many millions of pounds.

Only the card rooms, where workers are to return Tuesday, were silent. The wage dispute which caused the stoppage is in the hands of a board of arbitration, whose deliberations begin Wednesday.

Meanwhile workers will be paid the old scale of wages until a settlement is reached. A proposed reduction of the present scale by 12 1/2 percent caused the cotton workers to quit three weeks ago.
