FUNERAL OF BEN BECKMAN

The funeral services of the late Ben Beckman, well known resident of the vicinity of Murray, were held on Sunday afternoon at that place and was one of the largest attended services that has been held in that community, the friends of many years gathering to pay their last tributes of love and respect. The floral remembrances as well as the presence of the friends attested the esteem in which this splendid gentleman has been held in the community.

A short service was held at the home on the farm at 1:30 and which was attended by the relatives and at which a quartet composed of Mrs. J. W. Holmes, Mrs. Vance Pittman, Raymond Cook and L. D. Hiatt, gave a special number, "I Need Thee Every Hour."

The services at the United Presbyterian church, at Murray, at 2:30, were in charge of Rev. Stewart, pastor of the church, who gave to the bereaved members of the family circle words of comfort, and spoke of the life of the departed, who in his kindly, quiet way had done much for his community and his friends.

During the services, the quartet gave two numbers, "Rock of Ages," and "Does Jesus Care," while Raymond C. Cook gave as a solo, "Lead Kindly Light."

The body was borne to the last resting place by six grandsons, this being one of the last requests of Mr. Beckman, that they take him to the last long rest.

Dearest Father, thou hast left us—
And thy loss we deeply feel.
'Tis the Lord that hast bereft us
Of the one we loved so well.
Lonely the house, and sad the home
Sincere our dear one is gone—
But, oh, a happier home than ours
In Heaven is now his own.

Card of Thanks

We sincerely wish to thank the kind neighbors and friends for their assistance and for the lovely floral contributions at the time of the death of our father and grandfather. The white faced cattle that are fed at the farms near Murray by Messrs. Glen Boedeker and William Wehrbein, are being featured on the Chicago live stock market and for the first time in their shipments, the Cass county cattle have topped the market.

The last shipment sent there on Sunday brought the price of $16.75, the top of the market on the day's run.

The cattle shipment was accompanied by Victor Wehrbein and who had for the sale of the cattle and have the pleasure of seeing the Cass county fed bovines top all others in price.

This is a very fine showing for the cattle feeders and shows that that are able to get the very best results in their handling of stock.

TELL MYSTERY OF MT. KATMAI

Seattle, Aug. 19.—In possession of much new information about the Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes and the crater of Mount Katmai on the Alaska peninsula, Rev. Bernard Hubbard, geology professor at Santa Clara university, and Roderick Chisholm, former football star, were on their way home to San Jose, Cal., today. They arrived here Sunday.

The explorers climbed to the summit of Mount Katmai and looked 3,000 feet down the crater walls to a lake about three miles in diameter. Great fields of snow detached themselves from the rim and slid down into the water at intervals. Father Hubbard said:

Streams of yellow sulphur shot out from beneath the surface of the lake, evidence that the volcano was not entirely inactive.

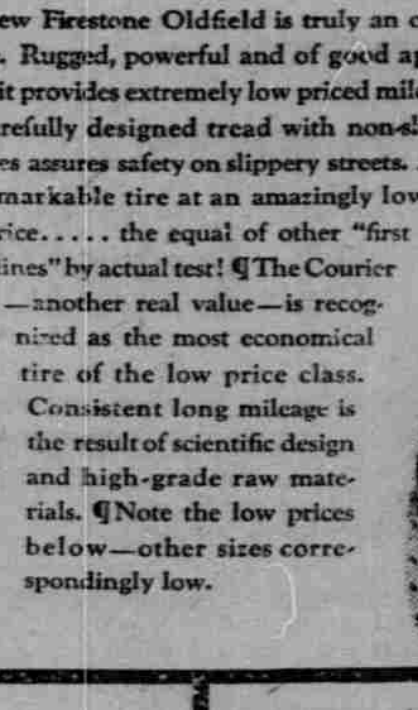

Using picks and ropes they descended the wall to the surface of the lake. A crescent-shaped isle, found several years ago, had disappeared.

The floor of the Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes is firm enough for airplanes to land upon, Father Hubbard declared.

Motion picture films and photographs were brought back to the explorers.

Heart Is Radical, but Pocket Conservative, Williamstown Lecturer Explains

Williamstown, Mass.—Dr. Andre Siegfried, who has already revealed American life to the French in his justly popular book, "America Comes of Age," sought to lift the curtain on some of the mysteries of French politics in his second lecture before the members of the Institute of Politics.

French governments may fall so fast that prime ministers crowd each other on the way in and out, but the Republic is in no particular danger, Dr. Siegfried explained, because "the political heart of the French is situated to the left, but the pocket of the French (and every one of them has a pocket) is situated on the right."

After the steam blows off there is nothing to be concerned about, he said, because everybody goes quietly and peacefully to a safe and nothing is changed.

Dr. Siegfried remarked further that because most French people desire to be considered progressive nobody will call himself a conservative, and consequently French politics is apparently radical, but basically conservative.

"It is in a sense that as a proprietor the Frenchman will stubbornly oppose any form of social revolution such as the Russian revolution," he explained.

"Of course, he may speak of revolution but he does not want it. You may meet in the south of France people calling themselves revolutionaries, Socialists or even Communists who are comfortable proprietors of land and who would never think that revolution means that they should be deprived of their own private property.

"Nation is for 'Small People'" "It is easy to say who gives the tone to French political life; not the ruling classes, obviously, whatever may be their culture. In the political field the Republic belongs to the small people, and they mean, indeed, that the Republic should belong to them."

"The political idea of the Republic is to maintain the right of everybody to assert himself, outside of the rich and the powerful—an aim which is rather social than material and which very clearly describes the spirit of the present regime.

"As a democracy obviously is inspired by the will to maintain the genius of the race, the French Nation feels that she lives by individualism, and has a profound and probably sound instinct which teaches her that she should do nothing which might risk or impair individualism."

DAWES SEES M'DONALD

Blair Atholl, Scotland—Ambassador Dawes, on arriving here late Monday night, told newspaper men that he had no statement to make regarding his talk at Lossmouth with Ramsay MacDonald.

It was assumed that the purpose of their meeting was to continue their conversations on ways and means of naval disarmament by the powers. Arrivals of New York have the right train, the American ambassador was met at the station by the premier who escorted General Dawes to his home, "The Hilllocks," his first visit to the MacDonald home, although he had conferred with the premier at the nearby town of Forres soon after his arrival in England to take up his post.

AIRPORT FOR FREMONT

Fremont, Neb.—Nebraska Flying Service, Inc., of this city and International Airports of New York have just made a contract whereby Fremont will have a first class airport three-quarters of a mile west of town. The field will be graded and stalls arranged so that twenty ships may be landed in time for the Nebraska good will air tour next month.

CANADIANS MAKE PROTEST

Winnipeg, Manitoba—The Winnipeg Evening Tribune Monday quoted G. Pieper, president of the Greta board of trade, as saying that American wheat, which is selling at 25 and 30 cents below Canadian prices, has been coming over the border into Canada since the beginning of the season's threshing. Greta is in southern Manitoba near the United States border.

Mr. Pieper stated that last week about 1,000 bushels from across the line reached the Greta elevators. The reason, he said, is that United States wheat pays only 12 cents duty, while we pay 42 cents to export grain to the states.

"As their prices are 24 cents below ours," he continued, "the Canadian duty does not offer our producers much protection."

Judge James T. Begley departed this morning for Omaha where he attended the funeral services of his old time friend, Judge A. E. Langdon of Papillion, one of the leaders of the Sarpy county bar.
