J. N. Shannahan, general chairman, is desirous of including every county in the state in the celebration and has invited H. A. Schneider of Plattsmouth, to serve as Cass county's representative on the Nebraska Jubilee committee.

Mr. Schneider as county committeeman will keep in close touch with the general committee in Omaha and will keep residents of this county informed concerning the various contests and free attractions to be held in Omaha during the Jubilee.

The Ak-Sar-Ben stock show and horse show, November 1 to 8, is another important feature.

Entries continue to pour into the offices of Charles R. Gardner, secretary of the Ak-Sar-Ben stock show and horse show, to be held in Omaha, November 1 to 8.

Mr. Gardner visited both the Iowa and Nebraska State fairs, securing pledges from the majority of prize winning stock owners that they would have entries in the Omaha show in November.

Our state interest is evidenced by several letters received last week from county agents and others interested in 4-H calf and pig clubs.

R. A. Stewart of Battle Creek, Neb., wrote that Madison county expects to have 30 calves in the Ak-Sar-Ben stock show and a number of pig club entries.

As the evening drew to the close the guests produced well filled baskets and from which dainty and delicious refreshments were served.

WESLEYAN WOULD EXPAND

The board of trustees of Nebraska Wesleyan university has authorized a program for building and other improvements requiring $500,000. The program will be subject to the approval of the Nebraska Methodist conference and is expected to be presented either Friday or Saturday. The plans include a dormitory for girls, enlargement of the teachers' college and the building of a combined observatory and broadcasting station. ## DOING BIG BUSINESS

The sand and gravel business handled in the local Burlington yards has grown to be very large and keeps the crew of the sand train busy in handling and weighing the cars on the large scales placed in the yards here two years ago.

The sand and gravel which is sent in here each day runs from eighty to one hundred cars and are taken from here to the various points where they are destined.

The work at the sand and gravel pits is kept up day and night and two shifts of workmen are kept busy looking after the handling of this important industry which has grown to be one of the most important in this section of the state.

Work on Bridge Points to Early Completion

With Schedule Being Maintained the Structure Should Be Ready in Late November

From Friday's Daily—
The residents of this portion of Nebraska and Iowa are to have in a very few weeks a traffic bridge over the Missouri river, if the work schedule is maintained as seems probable, according to which the bridge should be ready for service by at least the first of December.

The steel construction has gone on very pleasingly and this portion of the work did not suffer the delays that the concrete work on the piers suffered through the high water of June and part of July. The steel work is in charge of the Omaha Steel Co., of which John W. Towle, also an officer of the bridge company, is the head.

The new bridge is attracting a great deal of attention through Iowa and all of the cities and communities along the Harding highway to the Mississippi river are keeping in touch with the situation and awaiting the time when the structure will be open and give them a direct route to the west and one that will cut down a very large amount of mileage between Chicago, Omaha, Lincoln and Denver for the auto travelers from the east and west. This bridge also gives a more convenient connection with the King of Trails from the north and south.

This interest in the bridge from outside communities is shown by the large number of visitors that are here almost every day to look over the bridge site and watch the progress of work. Large numbers of Omaha people are here each Sunday to watch the progress of the bridge work.

NORTHSIDERS WIN

From Thursday's Daily—
Last evening the long looked forward to baseball game between the North and South side business men was staged at the Tourist park on Washington avenue and in the conflict the Northsiders emerged the victors by the score of 15 to 9.

The game was played with the large baseball and saved the lives of the veterans who have been out of the game for a number of years and have become unused to the old time baseball. The number of the heads of the business houses taking part was rather disappointing as E. A. Wurl, Henry Gook and R. W. Knorr were the only veterans to come forth for the battle, Hilt Martin of the Red and White being a player on the regular town team.

The Southsiders were minus the services of the occasion, Carl Ofe, and made necessary sending Otto Keck to the mound and who had the Northsiders guessing for a while but in the growing dusk there were many errors that allowed the Northsiders to pile up a large lead. For the south side team Frank Krejci led the receiving.

The North side team had John Svoboda in the box and "Wink" Sprecher back of the bat and John Wurl was effective in the pinches and with some excellent fielding by his team was able to keep the Southsiders away from the scoring in the last part of the game.

DISCUSS BRIDGE WORK

The members of the board of county commissioners of Cass and Sarpy counties were at Louisville on Tuesday to discuss the matter of the construction of a bridge over the Platte river at that place to replace the present bridge which has grown wholly inadequate for the handling of traffic and is also of an old type that has long outgrown its usefulness.

The citizens of Louisville have formed a bridge company to take care of the problem by financing a structure estimated to cost some $175,000 and which bridge is to be paid for in tolls, or the half of the bridge cost that is borne by the two counties while the state will be asked to pay the remaining half of the bridge cost as is provided under the Davis law, under which the Platte river bridge near here was also erected.

The general sentiment seems to be that Louisville is entitled to a new bridge and that this is the time to secure it.

Injunction Hearing Draws Large Crowds

Action Brought by Elbert Wiles to Prevent Taking of Farm Land for Highway No. 75

From Friday's Daily—
This morning the hearing of the petition of Elbert Wiles of near this city for an injunction against the department of public works of the state of Nebraska to prevent them from taking a part of the farm of Mr. Wiles for road purposes, was opened.

Mr. Wiles in his petition claims that the plans made by the state for the construction of the highway will cut through a large part of his farm just south of this city and that this road construction will damage his farm to a large degree and far in excess of the amount of damages that he can recover for the loss sustained.

The law under which the condemnation proceedings is taken, was attacked by Mr. A. L. Tidd, attorney for Mr. Wiles, and being ineffective and that the proceedings are not constitutional and that the plaintiff is entitled to have the permanent court order to prevent the state, county or federal highway of- ficials from entering his farm for the purpose of making and changing the highway as now contemplated.

The state is represented by Assistant Attorney General George W. Ayers of Lincoln, veteran legal advisor of the state and County Attorney W. G. Kieck representing the county of Cass.

Under the application made by the state department of public works several weeks ago County Judge A. H. Duxbury appointed as the appraisers for the land sought as a highway, Frank P. Sheldon of Nebraska, O. A. Davis of Murray and Charles Troop of this city, but who have been restrained under the temporary order from placing any value on the land sought for the use of a highway.

Purebred Herd of Highest Bating Secured for Stock Farm Near Murray

From Friday's Daily—
This morning T. H. Pollock returned home from Ashland, Wisconsin, where he has been for the past several days and while there he concluded the purchase of one of the finest herds of purebred cattle in that section of the great dairy state.

The purchase was made of the entire herd of fifty-one Guernsey cows and heifers from the estate of H. D. Ewer, of Ashland, and represents some of the best stock to be found in Wisconsin.

SNAKE DEN

A couple of weeks ago when H. L. Scattergood was visiting their daughter near Arnold, Nebraska, they met with what proved to be a very unusual as well as thrilling event.

One day while Mr. Scattergood and son-in-law, J. W. Erickson, were out looking over the farm they were walking quite close to the fence. On looking down at the ground they espied two rattle snakes close at hand. Harold Scattergood and Leroy Meyers who had been out hunting happened along at this time and with their guns shot the two serpents. On turning around they noticed another snake sticking its head out of a hole. This serpent was also shot. After this they got a spade and began digging and it wasn't long till they had uncovered what proved to be a rattle snake den with one old snake and twenty-nine small ones. They were all killed but one small one which succeeded in making a getaway. On counting the dead snakes they found they had killed twenty-eight small ones and four large ones making a total of thirty-two.

This would be a very interesting as well exciting event for people in this part of the country.—Eagle Beacon.

HUNTING SEASON OPENS

From Saturday's Daily—
The zero hour for the wild ducks and geese will occur on Monday when the official hunting season for Nebraska sportsmen opens on the game birds. The covers of the hunt have been busy for weeks getting ready for the affray and now the only thing necessary is to have the wild ducks and geese make their appearance along the Platte and Missouri where the hunters have their blinds arranged and are ready for the coming battle. There have been very few ducks here so far this season but with the cooling breezes sweeping down from the northwest the hunters are hoping that the birds will start in their long flight southward and lay their route along the Platte and Missouri rivers that the hunters here may get a chance to show their prowess.

CONTINUES TO IMPROVE

From Saturday's Daily—
The reports from the Methodist hospital at Omaha today state that Parmele Dovey, who was operated on there yesterday for the removal of dead blood gathered from his gun shot wounds, rallied very nicely from the operation and seemed to show an excellent reaction from the effects of the operation. With his continued improvement the lad now has good chances of recovery providing some unforeseen complication arises. The many friends of this fine little lad will join in the hope that he may soon be able to be entirely out of all danger from the effects of the gun shot wounds.

FRIDAY, THE 13TH

From Friday's Daily—
To the superstitious, today has been a real menace, as the date combines two supposedly unlucky dates, Friday and the thirteenth day of the month. This date brings together what is ordinarily considered just about as unlucky a combination as possible. So far we have not learned of any serious accidents or bad luck during the day, however.

Stockholders of Defunct Loan Associat'n Sue

Ask Judgment of $4,425 From Officers of Livingston Loan Ass'n. and Standard Ass'n.

From Saturday's Daily—
An echo of the failure in 1922 of the Livingston Loan & Building Association in this city, was found in the office of the clerk of the district court today when an action was filed covering the stockholders of the association against the former officers of the Livingston Loan & Building association, the Standard Savings & Loan association and the state department of trade and commerce of the state of Nebraska.

The title of the case is Adam Knorr, H. A. Schneider, Florence Turpin, treasurer St. Mary's Guild, L. W. Niel, secretary Plattsmouth Lodge No. 6, A. F. & A. M., Mia U. Gering, treasurer St. Mary's Guild, Ed S. Tutt, Barbara Gering, John M. Meisinger, Philip Thierolf, E. J. Richey, Golda Noble Beal, Joseph H. Kanka, George K. Tidd, Standard Savings & Loan Association, Clarence G. Bliss, secretary of the department of trade and commerce.

In the petition of the plaintiffs it is represented that the action represents the interest of all stockholders of the defunct association.

It is alleged by the plaintiffs through their attorneys, W. A. Robertson and W. G. Kieck, that on April 17, 1923, an agreement was made by the defendant officers of the Livingston Loan & Building association with the Standard Savings & Loan association of Omaha for the sale of the assets of the said Livingston association to the Standard for the sum of $25,000 which amount it is alleged was never paid. That on June 30, 1923, a supplement agree was made by the officers where by 17.7 per cent of the $25,000 was to be repaid to the Standard to cover losses which amounted to the sum of $4,425. It is further claimed by the plaintiffs that they were unaware of this transaction until a hearing in June 1923 when Earl S. The plaintiffs ask the judgment for the sum of $4,425 with interest at seven per cent from June 30, 1923.

SHOP OFFICIALS HERE

From Thursday's Daily—
Yesterday E. J. Roth, general manager of the fruit express companies of which the Burlington Refrigerator Express Co., is a part, as well as H. A. Bangham of Chicago, general agent of the companies in their lines west, were here to look over the local plant of the Burlington Refrigerator Express Co., and to visit with Superintendent W. T. Distel and Storekeeper H. S. Dalton.

The party of officials spent the day here and were taken by Mr. Distel to Creston, Iowa, where they inspected the ice houses owned by the company at that place and then continued on into Chicago and from where Mr. Roth will go back to his headquarters at Washington, D. C.

The local shop has been operating at fullest capacity here for the past few months and the workmen are engaged in putting in nine hours a day in the shop and with a large number of cars to be handled for service on the road the work has kept up in fine shape and made a very lucrative source of employment for many of the local people.

SIPT ALLEGED ASSAULT

The office of Sheriff Bert Reed has been busy the past few days investigating the report brought here by passing tourists that a woman was being beaten up by another woman and caused a great deal of fear to the party of officials spent the day here and were taken by Mr. Distel to Creston, Iowa, where they inspected the ice houses owned by the company at that place and then continued on into Chicago and from where Mr. Roth will go back to his headquarters at Washington, D. C.

The investigation made by the sheriff and his force was very thorough and it was finally traced down that the affair was a family mix up in which the parties had acquired too much fighting whiskey and accordingly had gotten into a brawl that attracted the attention of the passing auto parties. The parties are from Council Bluffs.
