Move to Rebuke Nebraska Chief of Grand Army

For Advising That No More Encampments Be Held in New England
 Portland, Me., Sept. 12.—A resolution presented by the Maine delegation to the G. A. R. today called upon the Sixty-third national encampment to "rebuke" the recommendation of Commander-in-Chief John Reese of Broken Bow, Neb., that no more encampments be held in New England.
 The commander's recommendation was contained in his address at the opening of the encampment yesterday.
 He said the New England Passenger association had refused to allow delegates and visitors to return to their homes by a different route from that they travelled in coming to Portland. The railroads made a rate of single fare for the round trip, according to Commander Reese.
 The resolution to rebuke was not voted upon, but was turned over to the committee on resolutions.
 The resolution termed the recommendation as "ill advised, uncalled for, unpatriotic and wrong," and said it does not represent the sentiment of the encampment and "deserves the rebuke of the entire organization."
 It was read by Samuel F. Emerson of Showhegan, Me., department commander.
 Responding to a question from the floor, Past-National Commander Dr. Pilcher of Brooklyn, N. Y., chairman of the committee on resolutions, said the resolution should not have been read before the encampment until the committee considered it.
 Colonel Lindbergh from the home of Ambassador Morrow at North Haven, today invited Commander-in-Chief John Reese of the G. A. R. to go for an airplane ride. The 84-year-old leader of the veterans accepted. Colonel Lindbergh, it was expected, would come to the Portland airport with Mrs. Lindbergh this afternoon.
Reunion Plan Rejected.
 The encampment laid on the table the proposal for a reunion of soldiers of the north and south.
 The committee on resolutions had "disapproved" the resolution for such a reunion and moved it be laid on the table.—World-Herald.

Cottage Built of Newspapers in Eight Years

65,000 Copies of Dailies Are Pressed Into Suitable Building Material
 A house made of old newspapers, stocked with furniture of the same material, is the result of eight years' patient work by Ellis F. Stenman of Pigeon Cove, Mass., who, with the help of Mrs. Stenman and two other members of the family, has succeeded in showing that there are constructive uses to be made of this waste material.
 Impressed by the wastefulness of large numbers of newspapers blowing about the streets, he began a series of experiments, which finally led him to the conclusion that the paper house was a possibility. Some 65,000 dailies were used, he stated, besides several thousand rotogravure sections, which form a deep colored border around the top of the rooms.
 The walls are made of 215 thicknesses of newspapers pasted and folded, and subjected to a pressure of about two tons, the surface being strengthened with three coats of varnish. The roof shingles also are made of compressed papers.
 The house is entirely of paper except the floors, the rafters, the windows and door sills.
 The furniture made of newspapers largely in cylindrical form, is singularly perfect in construction, having somewhat the appearance of bamboo.
 In one room the pieces are octagonal, a charming settee with eight legs, a beautifully finished octagonal table, a tall floor lamp, chairs, a bookcase and radio. Mr. Stenman states he is now working on a piano.
 One desk is made exclusively of old dailies, the surface being Lindbergh's flight to Paris and of the later flight of Colonel Lindbergh to South America. The papers forming the desk have been rolled up into cylinders, varnished on the outside, and assembled into desk form by gluing. By breaking the varnish seal, these papers may be unrolled, and the story of the flights read again.

Simmons Leads Off in Debate on the Tariff

States His Objections to the Bill in List of Nine Specifications—Attacks All Features.
 Washington, Sept. 12.—Nine "outstanding objections" to the pending tariff bill were enumerated in a speech in the senate today by Senator Simmons of North Carolina, who opened fire on the republican measure for the democrats by declaring it would add billions of dollars to the annual tax burden imposed upon the consuming masses.
 "Objection not only to administrative and special features of the bill but at proposed increased rates as well, the veteran minority tariff leader gave the following reasons why he could not support it:
 "It contains many rates and increases upon agricultural products that are useless and ineffective.
 "It is replete with exorbitant rates on articles which farmers buy.
 "It contains numerous instances of higher rates on articles used by the masses than on articles of identical value, but purchased principally by persons of wealth or more than average means.
 "It does not conform to President Hoover's request for increases on industrial products only when there has been a slackening of employment due to imports. In many cases increases have been granted to industries which have been very prosperous under the present tariff act.
 "It is full of consistencies and unfair discriminations, on many articles even though the imports under the present tariff act have been negligible.
 "It encourages inefficiency by many of its increases in rates.
 "Its excessive increases on many articles imperil our trade with European countries.
 "By liberalization of the flexible provisions, enlarging the powers and discretion of the president, the latitude allowed the president in the imposition of additional duties is dangerously expanded."
 Declaring the amendments to the present law made by the house and those proposed by the finance committee majority were not fixed upon a basis of the difference in cost of production here and abroad, but were determined "largely in response to the appeals that demands of the beneficiaries of the high and excessive rates" proposed, the North Carolina senator challenged the contention of the majority and the cost of production measuring rod was no longer practicable of application.—World-Herald.

Norris Loses in Fight to Revive Election Probe

William S. Vare Case Set Aside Until Regular December Session
 Washington—Deferment of the Vare case until the regular December session so that tariff can hold right of way in the special session was voted Wednesday by the senate.
 The motion of Senator Watson, the republican leader, to postpone until Dec. 3 a decision whether William S. Vare, of Pennsylvania, should be granted a senate seat prevailed by a vote of 41 to 34. Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska had sought immediate consideration of his resolution to deny Vare the seat because of "fraud and excessive expenditures" in his 1926 primary campaign.
 The vote was not regarded as a test of strength of Vare's right to the senate seat, which has been withheld from him for three years pending a decision by the senate. Republican leaders urged the postponement until December solely on the ground that consideration of the Vare case would interfere with action on the tariff bill at the special session. When it is taken up, the Norris resolution will be kept before the senate until voted upon.
Claims a Filibuster.
 Five democrats voted with thirty-six republicans for postponement of the resolution, while nine republicans and twenty-five democrats opposed delay of the Vare case.
 Three hours of sharp debate preceded the vote on the Watson motion, the republicans charging that Senator Norris' move to bring up the Vare case now was actually a filibuster against the tariff bill.
 The Nebraskan retorted by proposing to vote on his resolution to deny Vare a seat at once. Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, who is leading those favoring Vare's seating, objected. "The charge of a filibuster, shouted Senator Norris, "is a smokescreen put up by those who would delay the Vare case in order to help Vare. The Vare case presents a real demand for purification of politics and for upholding the respect of this body. The objections for an immediate vote shows very well where the delay is coming from."
Committee Report Wanted.
 Senator Reed contended the senate should have before it the report of its elections committee on the two year inquiry into the contest brought by William B. Wilson, Vare's democratic opponent in the 1926 election, before acting on the report of the special committee which investigated Vare's three cornered republican senatorial primary campaign.
 Chairman waterman of the elections subcommittee which made this investigation, said it would be ready to report upon the arrival here of the other members of that committee. Senator Shortridge, republican, California, the chairman of the elections committee, promised to call his committee together as soon as the subcommittee reported.
 The senate will have before it in December both contests against Vare, that of his primary campaign in which his ticket was reported to have spent $785,000, and that of his election in which his democratic opponent charged fraud.—State Journal.

Congressman Burns to Death in His Sleep

Potion Taken to Ward Off Insomnia May Have Kept O. J. Kvale From Awakening.
 Battle Lake, Minn.—Trapped by fire while he slept in his summer cottage near here, O. J. Kvale, farmer and congressman, from Minnesota, was burned to death Tuesday night when the home was destroyed.
 Only a smouldering ruin marked the site of the cottage when the fire was discovered Wednesday. So badly charred was the congressman's body that identification was in doubt for a time.
 The theory that an exploding stove started the fire was advanced by Dr. I. T. Kvale of Wilmar, son of the congressman, while Coroner Vigen believed a gasoline lamp, in use at the cottage, may have blown up. Neither theory be substantiated.
 Dr. Kvale declared that his father probably was in a deep sleep when the fire had started and had little or no chance to escape from the burning building. Mr. Kvale, his son said, had suffered from insomnia since the death of Mrs. Kvale three years ago and frequently was forced to take a sleeping potion. He believes his father resorted to this means of obtaining sleep Tuesday night and that the fire broke out after he had retired.
 Mr. Kvale, who was sixty years of age, was the only farmer laborer in the house. He succeeded Andrew J. Volstead as representative from the Seventh Minnesota district, defeating the famous prohibition advocate in 1922 with the farm labor and democratic endorsement.
 Retirement of Mr. Volstead, however, gave little satisfaction to wets who had sought his defeat, for Mr. Kvale maintained he was drier than his predecessor.—State Journal.
