

Alvo News

F. E. Dickerson was a visitor in Omaha on last Thursday driving over to the big city to look after some business matters in connection with the store here.

Charles Godbey, who returned from the hospital a short time since has been showing good improvement since and was able to be down town and greet his friends last week.

Mrs. Jane Ruby, grandmother of Mrs. E. M. Coatman, who has been visiting for the past three weeks with friends and relatives in Weeping Water, returned home with the granddaughter, Mrs. Coatman, early last week.

S. C. Boyles and wife departed a week or more since for McCook, Neb., where they were spending some time at the home of their son, Dale Boyles and family of that place. They made the trip via the train as the weather was not the best.

Business called W. H. Warner to Lincoln early last week, he making the trip with a friend in the latter's auto. Mr. Warner, who is over 80 years of age, is feeling pretty good, thank you, and ready most any day for a good day's work.

The Ladies Aid of the Methodist church of Alvo were meeting on last Thursday with Mrs. Charles Godbey, where the ladies took up the work which called them together and following which they had a social hour with good eats and an excellent program.

August Johnson, who has been having considerable trouble with one of his legs for a long time, was taken to the hospital at Lincoln about two weeks since and has been receiving treatment since. Mr. Johnson was able to return home on Friday of last week.

Earl Bennett will hold a sale of his farming equipment on January 15th, which will give him a few days to get straightened out before taking charge of the store. He has already moved to Alvo and gotten settled, which gets that much of the work out of the way.

J. H. Weychel and son, Harry, were over to Lincoln early last week, going to see Dr. Neely, who has always been the family physician of the Weychel family, and who is treating Mr. Weychel, who has been quite sick for some time. While feeling much better, Mr. Weychel is not in his former health.

On last Wednesday the Missionary society of the Methodist church were meeting at the home of Mrs. A. I. Bird, where they were having a good meeting, looking towards the year's work as well as at the same time enjoying the gathering together and were very pleasantly entertained by the genial hostess, Mrs. Bird.

Ben Swanson, who has driven a Buick auto for the past thirteen years and at all times gotten good service from the wagon, exchanged and received a Pontiac, making the trade with the dealer at Havelock. Ben is a good hand with an auto and takes good care of it, which insures it working well for a long time.

Mrs. H. B. Lorenmeler entertained the members of the Woman's Reading club of Alvo at her beautiful country home on Thursday of last week and had a large number of the members present and an excellent time with a most-worth-while program and a social hour was greatly enjoyed by all present, which was made the more pleasant by the delightful luncheon that was served by the genial hostess. All voted Mrs. Lorenmeler a fine entertainer.

there is a rush of work outside, therefore he thought it best to dispose of the store notwithstanding it was a good paying proposition.

Getting Things in Shape
With the moving of the store of Ed Nelson, it required a good deal of time to get the goods properly arranged and in their proper place. With every day things are assuming better appointments and the store is looking much the better and presenting a very inviting appearance.

Conducting Religious Revival
The district superintendent of the Methodist church of this district, in co-operation with the resident pastor at Alvo, the Rev. Street, are conducting a revival at the Methodist church here having a good attendance with much interest manifest.

Onk Fischer Very Sick
Uncle Onk Fischer, well advanced in years, has been very sick at his home in Alvo for the past two weeks, with pneumonia. On Wednesday of last week the fever had subsided slightly, which inspired hope of recovery, as he had been very critically ill for some time. He was so sick that no one was allowed to enter the sick room except the physician and the attendants.

Home Last Friday
William Kitzel, who has been at the Lincoln General hospital for some time, where he underwent an operation for appendicitis, has been showing good improvement and was allowed to return to his home on last Friday. Since his coming home, he has been showing good progress.

Right and Very Proper
Last Wednesday, January 8th, marked the passing of the 35th milestone of the honored Mayor of Alvo, and genial hustler, Art Dinges, and having some business in Lincoln to look after which he could combine with the celebration of the passing of the birthday, he and the good wife went over to the big city, where they looked after the business and met a few friends and relatives. We are, with his many friends, extending congratulations of this felicitous event.

Alvo Needs a Doctor
The city of Alvo has been without a physician since the death of Dr. Leonard Meier, which occurred some time since. As a result, whenever anyone is sick, a doctor has to be called from another town.

Mrs. Anna Shelhorn Enters into Last Rest

The death of Mrs. Anna Shelhorn, one of the well known and greatly loved pioneers of Louisville, occurred at her home in the south part of town on Tuesday morning, at 2:34 o'clock, after an illness covering a period of many weeks. She was 77 years, 2 months and 26 days old.

Mrs. Shelhorn's maiden name was Anna Sophia Brandt. She was born in Waukesha, Wisconsin, October 11, 1852. She was married in Wisconsin to John Shelhorn February 9, 1879, and that same year she and her husband came to Nebraska and settled on a farm in College Hill district. They continued to farm until the death of Mr. Shelhorn November 19, 1906. For about ten years following, Mrs. Shelhorn and two sons, Fred and John, lived on the farm, moving to Louisville about 13 years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Shelhorn were splendid citizens and did much to uphold the community in which they lived and their example of industry, kind neighborly spirit and sterling character made them the object of the love and respect of all who knew them.

Six children survive. One daughter, Caroline, wife of Charles Williams, died a number of years ago. The children living are: Mrs. Lena Williams, of Renfrow, Oklahoma; Albert, Mrs. M. L. Williams and Mrs. Dan Schoeman, of Louisville; Fred, of Plattsmouth, and John, of Omaha. Twenty-one grandchildren and fourteen great-grandchildren also survive.

Mrs. Shelhorn was a home-loving woman, devoted to her children and their families and she was greatly loved by her family and during her weeks of illness, she received the most devoted care and nursing. Her daughter, Mrs. Williams, of Oklahoma, has been here through the winter assisting in the care of her mother.

The funeral occurred on Thursday afternoon, a short service being held at the Evangelical Lutheran church, the pastor, Rev. T. Hartman officiating. The minister's words were uplifting and full of consolation to the sorrowing family. Interment was in the Lutheran cemetery at the family lot.—Louisville Courier.

WALNUT EMBEDDED IN TRUNK OF TREE

Last week Walter Lenz brought to this office a chunk of walnut wood, perhaps 14 or 15 inches in diameter. He had been sawing wood and he noticed that sprouts grew when he hit the center of the piece of wood. The saw worked so hard on the piece of wood was turned around and sawed from the other side. When the wood was sawed in two, a walnut was found embedded in the center of the trunk of the tree. It is a mystery how it got there but the position is that there must have been a crack in the trunk and the walnut having fallen there, the tree as it grew embedded the walnut which from all appearances had been there for a long time. Just why the walnut was so hard to saw is another mystery, but Walter said that it was almost like sawing into steel.—Elmwood Leader-Echo.

OPEN NEMAH BRIDGE TODAY

Falls City, Neb.—Everything is in readiness here for a big celebration Saturday when the new bridge over the Nemaha river will be opened. State Engineer Cochran, Norman J. Heinzelman, civic leader here, and George Lyon, the mayor, will speak at the bridge opening ceremony.

The bridge is 308 feet long and has a main span of 160 feet. The floor is thirty feet above low water mark, nearly eight feet higher than the floor of the old bridge which was razed by floods last spring.

The structure was speedily completed. The contracts were awarded this year, with a $100 penalty for each day after the first of the year until the bridge was completed. On Dec. 31 Engineer Cochran was informed that the job was done.

August Krecklow has been nearly swamped with business counting that which comes to the garage and also the work which he has to do trucking to Omaha and return.

Elmer Pearson has installed a sterilizing cabinet for his razors and other barber tools in compliance with the ruling of the barber law which went into effect on January 1st.

Miss Rachel Flaischman, who has been at Ashland for the past number of weeks, where she has been assisting at the home of her sister, Mrs. Charles Gade, returned home last week.

Frank Wannamaker, of Weeping Water and John Flaischman and family, of Louisville, were guests for the day on last Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Flaischman, of Manley.

The scare from the having of small pox by a number of families in this neighborhood has in a measure subsided and the families of Wm. Otte and Martin Nelson have been released from quarantine, while the families of Grover Rhoden and Eli Keckler are getting along nicely and will soon be entirely well and all will be serene again.

Elmer Wiles and wife have been making a visit in the western part of the state, where they were guests at a number of places and visited for a time at the home of Arthur Jones, who is a brother-in-law, and who is expecting to move to Plattsmouth from the western part of the state to make his home. Mr. Wiles says he does not blame any one from moving back east that lives in the western portion of the state, for he does not like that country out there a little bit. Mr. Jones has been making his home near Miller, Nebraska.

Old Lee Home to be Restored by Foundation

Fredericksburg, Va.—A discovery which will enable the Robert E. Lee Memorial Foundation, of Greenwich, Conn., to restore exactly the old atmosphere of Stratford Hall, home of the Lees in Westmoreland County, was made by Miss Ethel Armes, expert in historical data, and national executive secretary of the foundation, when she found at Montross Court House a complete inventory of the Stratford estate. It was dated Aug. 17, 1758, and will be an authentic guide in refurbishing Stratford.

During the search, Miss Armes located a volume of essays, meditations and sermons, in the handwriting of Hannah Ludwell Lee, daughter of Thomas Lee, builder of Stratford and first native born Governor of Virginia. The volume is owned by Miss Mary Lee Murdock of Westmoreland County, who has promised Miss Armes that it will be given to the Stratford Historical Library.

The inventory of the Stratford estate reflects the typical household possessions and pictures of the place and the spelling and grammar of the period.

It shows the "Blue Room," with its chairs, prints, bed and curtains, and chimney furniture; the "Green Room," with bed, bedstead, curtains and furniture, chairs with cane bottoms, stool chairs, a two-armed chair, small tables a fender, shovel and tongs. This, together with "flower pieces and old pictures," was probably typical of the furnishings of the early eighteenth century. The "Red Room" is furnished with one line, "the whole furniture." In the "White Room" were: Bed bedstead, mattress and furniture, bed bedstead and furniture, close stool, chair, par and little table, and chairs.

The dressing room, it seems, was a catch-all for household goods. It held a large walnut "linen" press, with drawers, a chest of drawers, old chairs and a small table, chimney furniture, bed and furniture, sheets, bedspread, gowns, towels, cloths and napkins, "most of these old and torn."

London was (Virginia roads considered) the nearest port for many of these estates, and European influence still shows. It is evident in the architecture, the furniture, which resembles a medieval castle.

The great hall, with its guns and armor and its split shutters where a gun might be poked at an hostile Indian, is furnished with couches, chairs, chandeliers in walnut tables and books. The English influence is obvious.

The contact with England is again manifest in the library, with chairs, chimney furniture, scrutors, guns and iron rod, sword, bed and furniture. It is interesting that books and liquor called for the heaviest expenditures. In showing a copy of this extraordinary find, Miss Armes said: "The library of Stratford was the third in importance in the colony. In the matter of the classics it was said to be unexcelled in the colonies. Gov. Harry Byrd's ancestors had the largest library in Virginia at Westover. The Rosegill Library of the Wormley's was second, and Stratford third. Stratford library was rich in philosophies, essays, poetry and ancient classics, and became the source of education for the six patriot sons of Thomas Lee. Among them were Richard Henry Lee, Francis Lightfoot Lee and Arthur Lee. The George Lee who signed this document, a first cousin of the Stratford Lees, was Clerk of the Court of Westmoreland County.

"Mention of 'The Smith's Shop,' 'The Horse Mill,' in which was an old millstone in the barn some pieces of an old charriot, shoemakers and curriers tools," recall activities of the estate, and the now quaint objects which were a commonplace there. It is also interesting to note the "Negroes, mares and colts," listed together at $25, who were held for or than '35 cattle, young and old, appraised at $35."

Miss Armes described the original of the inventory: "It is in manuscript, written on parchment in a clear, legible hand and bound in a double ruled book with red title, and marked Volume IV, evidently one of a series composed by the young lady at Stratford in the 1740's, before her marriage to Gwynn Corbin of Packatone. As mistress of Packatone, once a superb mansion on the banks of the Potomac, now a ruin, she helped to dispense lavish hospitality."

"It was at this home of Hannah Lee Corbin, in 1828, that the Stratford portraits were placed, at the time her grand-nephew, Major Henry Lee, was appointed Commandant-General to Algiers. Her only sister, Alice Lee, married Dr. William Shippen of Philadelphia, the first Surgeon-General of the Continental Army in Washington."
