DENIES CLAIM. Walter E. Palling filed answers in federal court at Lincoln Monday to interrogatories propounded by counsel for Erwin J. Larson, who is seeking to collect damages awarded him by a jury some months ago. Mr. Palling says in effect that he can't pay the judgment, because he has nothing but his homestead and what he can make from it, about $1,500 a year, and some land left him by his wife, which doesn't produce anything like the 3,000 alleged to be the income from it. Norris Talcott, executor of the estate of Mrs. Maggie Palling, says the income to Mr. Palling from the land is approximately nothing, and that it was all he received from the estate. Larson lost a leg in a collision between his motorcycle and Palling's car, and a jury awarded him 7,000 damages. His attorneys now are trying to show that Palling, a former banker at Greenwood, is able to pay.
