Cass County Fair Breaks All Past Records

Fine Parade Witnessed by Thousands of Residents of County Marks the Closing Day.

Friday was the last day of the Cass county fair for the year 1930, and an ideal day for the exhibition, and as it was the last day there were special attractions, such as the parade and Plattsmouth day, there was a large crowd. There was a large crowd during the latter part of the forenoon, and as the time approached for the starting of the parade, parking space was very scarce, and cars extended to the very limits of the city. Easily a crowd of eight thousand were in the city at the time of the starting of the parade.

In the parade was first a band, after which were the horses, led by the sorrel belgian of Elbert Wiles which took sweepstakes and first and second in his class, followed by horses of Carl Day and son, then came teams one by J. C. Rauth and followed by a young lad driving a team with harness on, and many other numbers of black stallions, then colts, mules and ponies. Then was sandwiched a band, followed by the Sunnyside school float, and other school floats. "The Little Brown Church" was typified by one of the schools, then came the float of the Alvo schools, built on the big International truck of Coatman and Skinner, of that town, with their banners of "America the Beloved." The Nehawka float was especially fine. One school typified "The Old Oaken Bucket," another, Home Sweet Home, while another was "Rock of Ages." This was followed by a delapidated old Ford which was known as the Open Air Taxicab company of Amos and Andy. One of the banks of the Wabash was the character which one float represented. Next came Charles Joyce's big truck with the Nehawka band, then came the Weeping Water schools with their Red and White and en-sign, "Fight," followed by the Weeping Water band. The Red Cross was there with its deeds of mercy, and made a very pretty feature of the parade, as did also the Boy Scouts which headed the parade.

One float bore the inscription "Nebraska, My Native Land," while another said "There is music in the air." Coming after this was a float containing a dozen or fifteen boys and girls backed up to represent negroes and singing Old Black Joe. Then came the automobile dealers with their showings of cars and trucks, followed by the McOwen shows who were showing in Weeping Water during the fair week.

Building Fine Feeders.
Matt Thingan and son, Victor Thingan who are manufacturers of some very convenient feeders for live stock had a number of the feeders on the grounds and were able to dispose of a number of them.

Building Crib, Brooders and Houses.
The Binger Lumber company had on exhibition south of the store of Chris Rasmussen, a series of buildings for the farm which consisted of cribs, chicken houses, brooder houses and hog houses, which attracted much attention and elicited many inquiries as to their cost and from these the company was able to book a number of orders for the houses.

Farmers Lumber Company.
The Farmers Lumber company of Cedar Creek, managed by Raymond Lohnes, had on Main street two houses, one a chicken and brooder house combined, twenty feet square, with plate glass for lighting and well ventilated, which was marked, delivered on skits at your farm for $135. While by its side was also a hog house about the same size, having four compartments, which were neglected to ascertain the price. But they will tell you. On the two houses Mr. Lohnes was able to book six orders for future delivery.

ENJOYS FINE OUTING
Postmaster J. W. Holmes, who has just returned from the convention of the National Association of Postmasters, at Detroit, reports that the gathering was one of the most interesting that he has enjoyed and had many very able discussions were given by the members of the postal service, the chief being by Postmaster General Brown. The matter of deficiency in the department was discussed and the general opinion of the postal authorities was that a raise in the first class postal rates would be necessary.

The members of the convention were taken over the city of Detroit and on a very enjoyable lake voyage that took them through to Lake Erie and the many interesting cities along the great lake sections.
While in the east Mr. Holmes visited at the auto factories in and near Detroit to view the plant operations of this great industry. Incidentally while in the east he also secured a new Plymouth of the 1931 model and drove the car home to this city and is well pleased with the excellent car.
While at Detroit Mr. Holmes took the occasion to visit South Bend, Indiana, where his brother, Troy S. Holmes, is living, and had a very fine trip over the most pleasing Indiana city.

May Let Contract for Paving No. 75 This Fall

Contracts for the Grading and Paving of Highway From Union to Nebraska City Soon

The contracts for the grading and paving of highway No. 75 from Union south to Nebraska City looks good for this fall according to F. H. Kleitsch, division engineer of the state department of public works, visited in Nebraska City Friday.

"The department of public works of Nebraska is anxious to have all contracts for 1931 projects let as soon as possible in order that work may be provided for laborers during the winter months and thus help out the unemployment situation," Kleitsch stated.
The division engineer explained that by letting contracts for projects for 1931 at this time much of the grading can be done during the winter, culverts and bridges built and everything put in readiness for laying concrete early in the spring. Kleitsch was accompanied to Nebraska City by C. V. Johnson, federal highway engineer for this district of Nebraska and they went over the route of the new improvement.
"There are several matters that will have to be taken up with the federal department and the Missouri Pacific and an agreement reached before the contracts can be awarded by the state department of public works," Mr. Kleitsch said. "The matter to be taken up with the railway company officials is the building of an overhead crossing over the tracks in Wyoming precinct and until this question is definitely settled nothing can be done by the department of public works toward the letting of contracts," he concluded.
While at Nebraska City the two engineers made a trip over the pave-

Mr. and Mrs. William Rice, Sr., attended the county fair at Weeping Water Friday and also visited with their daughter, Mrs. John Fitzpatrick and family. They report the fair the best that has been held in the county.

FORMER KLAN HEAD HELD

Cary, Ind.—Ralph C. Bradford, republican leader and former Ku Klux Klan head, was arrested late Friday by United States Marshal Hall on two indictments charging conspiracy to violate the narcotic laws and conspiracy to violate the liquor laws. The indictments, the contents of which were kept secret, were returned recently by the federal grand jury in South Bend. Bradford was arrested in the office here of his attorney, Harry Long. Bond had already been set at $25,000 by Federal Judge Slick, and Bradford was taken to the marshal's office to arrange for the bond.
With Bradford was arrested also Henry Le Boute of Gary, hoodlum and ex-convict, named in the same indictments. Bond for him was fixed at $10,000. A third man accused in the same cases, is being sought. Federal officials refused to reveal his name.

GOVERNOR AT DAWSON

Dawson—Addressing persons assembled here Thursday for the forty-fourth annual old settlers' picnic, Governor Weaver declared he welcomed the banking question as one of the principal issues in the impending gubernatorial campaign.
The executive also assailed his democratic opponent, Charles W. Bryan, for "hiding in the bushes to snipe someone off with his political shotgun" after action had been taken in connection with banking matters.
Weaver said the principal trouble with the bank guaranty law was that it coupled unlimited liability with limited assessment.
