RABIES CASE HERE

Some twelve days ago L. E. Lancaster, residing in the south part of the city, with his son, was bitten by the pet dog of the household and at the time there was nothing thought of the matter and the animal was killed, but later Dr. G. L. Taylor, veterinarian, was notified of the bite and he had the head sent to Lincoln for an examination and with the result that Wednesday the state university authorities reported that the examination disclosed that the dog had been suffering from rabies. In the time between the attack of the dog on Mr. Lancaster, a message was received here of the death of a brother of Mr. Lancaster in Ohio, and he had gone back to the funeral and returned home to find the report of the state authorities here. Both Mr. Lancaster and son are now undergoing treatment and it is thought that there will be no fear of the development of any serious complications from the attack of the dog.

Chief of police Jess Elliott has killed a number of dogs in that section of the city that might have been bitten by the Lancaster dog and all of the canines in that locality are under observation as to any developments that might pretend an attack of the rabies among them.

SHALL SANTA COME HERE?

For the last few years we have had a pre-Christmas visit from Santa Claus in Plattsmouth and at the noonday luncheon of the retailers yesterday it was decided if possible we should get him to come again this year.

Of course, he will be here on Christmas Eve but we believe that every boy and girl in Plattsmouth would like to have him come sometime before Christmas time so they could see him and tell him their Christmas wishes.

Santa Claus will visit only where the children want to see him come. Do you want him to come to Plattsmouth this year? If you do, just send a post card to Santa Claus Headquarters, c/o Chamber of Commerce, Plattsmouth, Nebraska.

If our children want Santa to come we will do our utmost to get him down here for a pre-Christmas visit. If we can get him to come, it will be a wonderful day for both the children and their fathers and mothers.

Let us know right away if you would like to have Santa come. If sufficient interest is manifested, we will send a radiogram invitation to Santa Claus right away and will keep you posted in this paper as to what he says.

The investigation was conducted by Mr. Kieck and before a jury composed of Carl Kunsman, William Starkoehn, George Born, John E. Kaffenberger, Lee Nickles and George Fornoff.

The verdict of the jury was that the man came to his death by being struck and fatally injured by an auto, the driver of which was unknown to the members of the jury.

The man was found on the highway by a driver of a Red Ball truck and who was here to testify today as to the finding of the man and the facts in the case.

He stated that when he and his brother had found Srecca on the shoulder of the paving that Srecca had been conscious and was able to talk to them all of the way into Ashland and at that time had stated that he had been walking all day and was going to South Dakota and reaching near where he was found, had become very tired and laid down along the paving to rest and did not know what had injured him. The injured man was complaining of his hips and back as he was taken to Ashland and left at the Setma hotel until he could be taken to the hospital where he died later.

Papers and identification cards which Srecca had on his person showed that he was a member of Lodge No. 243, I. O. O. F. of Kadoka, and that he also belonged to the Redebah Lodge and Muscovite, and was an encampment member. The Ashland I. O. O. F. lodge took care of Srecca. He was a wanderer, they said, and spent most of the time hiking about the country, during the summer, but always returned to Kadoka for the winter months.

Although the best of medical attention was given, he died Thursday morning. The Ashland I. O. O. F. conducted funeral services Friday morning and the body was interred in the Ashland cemetery.

Blue and White and Tecumseh in a Scoreless Tie

Platters Play One of Greatest Games of the Season to Check the Hopes of Visitors

From Saturday's Daily—
Yesterday afternoon an upset for the leaders and near leaders in the struggle for leadership in the south-eastern Nebraska high school football happened, the Plattsmouth team held Tecumseh to a scoreless tie while Nebraska City crushed Falls City by the score of 12 to 6.

The game in this city with Tecumseh was one of the kind that you can long talk over, a thrill with almost every play and a great and overpowering defense of the Plattsmouth team that hurled back the visitors from the shadow of the Plattsmouth goal making them like a scoreless ending of a most hectic contest.

The visitors viewing the striking figures of Auburn scouts in the crowd that lined both sides of the playing field, did not work their bag of tricks until the close of the game, but which were of little avail against the inspired battle of the Platters.

The first half was one in which the Plattsmouth team showed much better than Tecumseh and the struggle was from mid-field to the Tecumseh danger zone up to the whistle at the half. Plattsmouth blocked the attempt of Tecumseh to punt as G. Hirz came through the visitors line and with the ball in their possession the Platters looked to score as a pass from Robert Hirz to Galloway was good for much yardage but the attempt to again advance the ball on a pass failed as the visitors intercepted.

The Platters suffered a great deal in the first quarter on losses from fumbles in the pass back to the ball carrier, one fumble being recovered by George Stoll while Wiles the receiver of the ball, was able to recover the ball on the second slip.

In the Plattsmouth offensive in the earlier stages of the game Chet Wiles was used as the ball carrier and in the line smashes this war torn football veteran was good for short gains, while later Gilbert Hirz was the chief spoke in the Platter attack when he drove the ball into Tecumseh yard and at one time made several yards despite the fact that two of the Tecumseh heavyweights were hanging on him.

The visitors had a brilliant shift end run with plenty of speed on the part of the runner and a splendid one of interference, this play netting them their largest gains and which several times threatened to allow them a score save for the fast work of the locals, Sam Arn and Clarence Forbes featuring in this department.

In the last quarter of the game as the clouds were lowering and the game in its dying moments the visitors made a bid for victory that seemed to be sure, a long run gaining them territory and bringing the ball to the Platters fifteen yard line and where several desperate attempts were made to pass, or drive the ball over and which brought disaster to the visitors, the ball netting through the Tecumseh line and tackled the ball carrier on an attempted run, the carrier dropped the ball and the pigskin was once more in the hands of the blue and white and Wiles punted out to the Platter forty yard line. This play brought a sigh of relief as Tecumseh was on the local four yard line when the crash came to their hopes.

The visitors then started another offensive and Coach Dean Higgins sent in one of his passing aces to attempt to take from the air what the husky Plattsmouth team had denied them in the straight football. A pass gained ground for Tecumseh down into the local territory and where they were once more filled with the urge to score but their hopes were dashed as Frank Yelick broke through to throw their ball carrier for a loss and then Gib Hirz did the same trick to be again followed by Yelick on another attack and the ball was carried out to the local thirty yard line as the locals rolled back the enemy offensive.

The game ended with the ball almost mid field and the result a tie all.

The next game will be on Thanksgiving day at Nebraska City when the Platters journey down to play the Ottawans in a morning game, starting at 10 o'clock and which will permit the locals to be home for turkey dinner.

The Plattsmouth team can feel well pleased over their game Friday as all members of the team clicked in excellent shape and barring a few passes that were missed the Platters played a stellar game and in the honors of which all can join.
