Death Takes Deputy Sheriff at Nebr. City

Funeral Today for Andrew Massey, Who Wounded Officer in Gun Battle.

Nebraska City—Howard McCallum, Otoe county deputy sheriff, wounded Tuesday afternoon in a gun-fight on the court house lawn, died here Wednesday night.

A bullet wound close to his heart received in a gun battle on the lawn of the Otoe county court house Tuesday proved fatal.

Meanwhile arrangements were being made for the funeral Thursday afternoon of Andrew Massey, twenty year old Nebraska City man who was killed in the duel. Massey's father, Charles Massey, said, "I'm glad the boy is dead—he caused me no end of trouble and worry." The Massey family requested that the county bury their son and brother.

The gun battle took place after Deputy McCallum had had an argument in the court house over suspicion that the Masseys, father and son, had a part in a break-in at a junior high school the night before. McCallum pushed young Massey out of the sheriff's office, got a gun and followed him out on the lawn where the fight occurred.

From their positions behind trees the two kept firing. Sheriff Carl Ryder, who was giving his prisoners their noon meal nearby, was attracted and entered the affray. When Massey attempted to flee he was shot down.

MRS. HASTAIN RETURNS FROM EASTERN TRIP

Mrs. R. H. Hastain returned Thursday evening from an extended eastern trip. She visited first an old time friend, Mrs. Frederic Harrington, just out of Boston. These two ladies spent the lonely months of the time their husbands were in France during the late war, together and had not met until this visit. Mrs. Harrington's husband was killed in action and she has since remarried. They have a beautiful suburban home.

Mrs. Hastain also visited Bridgeport, Connecticut, which she enjoyed very much and a sight-seeing trip to New York was very interesting. She visited her aunt, Mrs. S. H. Atwood and family, in Washington, D. C., and took many sight-seeing trips in that vicinity. The weeks sped all too swiftly and she fully enjoyed herself, but after all found that there is no place like home.

After getting the house in hand again and eradicating the ravages of Friend Husband's housekeeping, she went to Lincoln Sunday for a short visit with her mother, Mrs. Nellie P. Agnew.—Louisville Courier.

Clubs Chum to Death in Fight in Box Car

Survivor Tells of Quarrel Over Distance Between Towns—Fled at Daybreak

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 12—A coroner's inquest is to be had tonight into the death of 16-year-old Arthur Warner, who was fatally clubbed in a box car near Fairbury, Neb., Tuesday by his traveling companion, Ray Abbott, 18, also of Lincoln. Abbott, in tears, gave a full confession.

Officials of Jefferson county, in which the fatal clubbing occurred, have claimed jurisdiction and County Attorney Arthur J. Denny said that either second degree murder or manslaughter charges would be filed. County Attorney Max Towle of Lincoln said that the coroner's jury would determine which county should act.

The slaying followed a quarrel about the distance between two towns, Abbott related. The two met by chance, he said, several weeks ago in the Lincoln railroad yards. Young Warner, who had run away from home, told Abbott that he was from Billings, Mont.

The two went to Bethune, Colo., where Abbott had relatives. They worked for a time on farms near there. Then Abbott was summoned to Lincoln by his parents, and young Warner decided to go with him.

The quarrel broke before they reached Fairbury. In a desultory conversation, they began arguing about the distance between Bethune and Denver. Angry words were exchanged. Suddenly, Abbott related, Warner struck him a blow on the head with a club.

The car was in utter darkness. Abbott groped about until he found Warner, he said, then seized the club from him and struck. Warner fell from the first blow, he said. He struck twice more.

Abbott flees Car.

At Fairbury it began to grow light. Abbott saw his companion lying in a pool of blood on the floor, he said, and became frightened. He left the car and went to a doctor to have his own injuries treated, saying that he had been hurt by a rolling car door.

Warner was found in the freight car when it reached the Lincoln yards. He was taken to a Lincoln hospital, where he died yesterday afternoon.

When Fairbury officers heard of the death of Warner they communicated with Lincoln officials and the arrest of Abbott at his home here followed. After hours of questioning, Captain Olson said, the youth confessed. Abbott did not know that the Warner boy had died, the officer asserted.

Mother Told by Phone.

Body of the boy victim lay unidentified for several hours in a morgue. It was identified by his school teacher and his father, Carl A. Warner. Mr. Warner said the boy had run away from home last August.

Identification of the body came after Mrs. Warner read in a newspaper of the boy's death. She telephoned the mortuary, asking if the body was that of a red haired and freckled youth. Told that it was, she screamed and dropped the phone. Mr. Warner then went to the mortuary and completed the identification.

Abbott is son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Abbott, 3708 North Eleventh street. His father is a truck gardener.

HONOR LEE MAYFIELD

Harry A. Newman post of the American Legion at Louisville, at their armistice day banquet at that city, paid honor to one of the outstanding residents of the cement city, Lee J. Mayfield, editor and publisher of the Louisville Courier. The Legion committee named to select the leading citizen of the community paid this honor to Mr. Mayfield.

The "leading citizen of Louisville" was the token engraved on a silver plaque that was presented to Mr. Mayfield on the occasion of the banquet and which will be a much treasured remembrance of the community's opinion of the editor.

The speakers at the banquet included Harry O. Palmer and Arthur L. Palmer of Omaha who responded for the army and navy and G. T. Mann for the marines.

The honor to Mr. Mayfield is one that is well bestowed as he has been a tireless worker for Louisville, both personally and through the medium of his paper, being a leading figure in the work of securing the new cement plant at that place as well as leading the fight for the new bridge over the Platte river, a sewerage system for the city and in the past for every improvement that has come to the splendid little city along the Platte. He is a lifetime resident of his home community and knows well the people of his city and surrounding territory and by whom he is esteemed as an outstanding figure.

Passing of Long Time Resident of Cass County

Mrs. A. H. Weichel of Elmwood Dies and Is Laid to the Last Rest in Her Home Community

The news of the passing of Mrs. A. H. Weichel came as a shock to the community, who were not aware of her sickness, nor that she had gone thru an operation. Her passing leaves sorrow to the many relatives and friends where she has lived so long and who loved her for her fine character and as a neighbor and friend.

Minnie M. Kitzel was born February 16, 1870, at Plattsmouth, Nebraska. She departed this life Nov. 8, 1930, having attained the age of 60 years, 8 months and 12 days. She was the oldest daughter of George and Bina Kitzel.

When two years of age she came with her parents to a homestead near Alvo, Nebraska, where she received her early training and grew to young womanhood.

On December 25th, 1890, she was united in marriage to Albert H. Weichel. They located on a farm near Elmwood which is their present home. To this union four children were born. One son, Joy of Omaha, and three daughters: Mrs. P. R. Elliott of Elmwood, Mrs. P. W. Royer of Lincoln and Delores June at home.

Mrs. Weichel united with the Methodist church in 1910, transferring from the Calahan Evangelical church to Elmwood. She lived a consistent life. She was a devoted wife, a kind and loving mother. She was always willing to sacrifice for her family and others. The comfort and well being of her family and loved ones was her last thought and concern. They were requested by her repeatedly to get their meals, their rest and to go on about their usual work, she would manage to get along without their help. She will be greatly missed within and without her family circle. Her father, her mother and her two brothers, George and Oscar, preceded her in death.

She leaves to mourn her departure, her husband, and her four children, three grandchildren, one sister, Mrs. Lulu Stone of Alvo, two brothers, Will Kitzel of Alvo, and Bert Kitzel of Waverly and a host of relatives and friends.

The funeral services were held at the Methodist church Monday afternoon with Rev. J. A. Klein and Rev. H. A. Norenberg in charge. The music was furnished by Miss Ethel Costman, Mrs. Gladys Schlichtmeier, Miss Catherine West and Miss Lubertha Klein, with Miss Pearl Costman at the organ.
