

The Plattsmouth Journal

PUBLISHED SEMI-WEEKLY AT PLATTSMOUTH, NEBRASKA
Entered at Postoffice, Plattsmouth, Neb., as second-class mail matter

R. A. BATES, Publisher

SUBSCRIPTION PRICE $2.00 A YEAR IN FIRST POSTAL ZONE
Subscribers living in Second Postal Zone, $2.50 per year. Beyond 600 miles, $3.00 per year. Rate to Canada and foreign countries, $3.50 per year. All subscriptions are payable strictly in advance.

Memories: His side of the story.
Time, tide and trains wait for no man.
For that matter, many a true bill seems to be spoken in jest.
How many of us have read, "It is more blessed to give than to receive."
It is estimated it costs $5,000 to educate a boy, not counting the lawyers' fees.
The predominating characteristic of the efficiency expert seems to be self-sufficiency.
The future is coming, but we will not enjoy its visit much unless we are ready for it.

Christmas over, the New Year greetings are in evidence.
The British believe in being thorough, even in small matters.
Strange how many preachers seem to have run out of Biblical texts.
Fable: Once there was a man whose check stubs agreed with the bank balance.
A high school paper claims flappers are a necessity. Necessity, we add, knows no law.
Time heals all wounds, and eventually Americans will agree on everything except the definition of good coffee.
There isn't complete sex equality even now. No woman feels free to approach a stranger and say: "Gotta match?"
High school girls in Maine are playing football. And, according to the fashion experts, they've got pretty good lines.
The Republican Senators are not defending their President. They seem to feel that "Hoover brought it on himself."
Cornell scientists have discovered what is said to be a cure for the dope evil. But sports writers will still continue to pick losers.
Knute Rockne might try next pitting his Notre Dame squad against those Chicago gangsters and see what it could do with them.
A scientist has made a movie of molecules in action. There may be suspense in such a film but the solution is apparent at once.
The average motorist just now is less interested in the color of the 1932 license plate than in the ability to purchase the 1931 variety.
To the scientist who said the germ for the common cold is too small to be seen by the microscope, the witty cynic says, "Oh, no! bacilli!"
The law of supply and demand does not change. Obviously, the most rational way to restore prices caused by over-supply is to reduce the supply.
The case of Judge Lindsey, charged with disturbing the peace in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, has been dismissed for lack of prosecution.
A beauty queen was recently chosen in a contest among Eskimo girls in the Arctic Circle. As far as the other contestants were concerned, the whole affair was on ice.

Then there's the farmer who, when asked how business was replied, "Oh, just sow, sow."
Conditions in Italy must be a great deal less roseate than the friends of Fascism have been claiming.
There is an increased feeling in business circles that the country is at or near the "bottom" of the depression.
The disappointed amateur detective has turned pharmacist so that he might know what it is to work out a solution.
A Yale professor asserts that the age of the earth is 1,852,000,000 years—old enough to know better in a lot of things.
The Senate idea of "co-operation" is a condition under which the body gets its own way and abuses anybody who disagrees with it.
There seems great difficulty in framing a platform which can be accepted by a French ministry and also by the chamber of deputies and senators.
"The wets," says a paragrapher, "are bent on making prohibition an exact science." Judging from some of the stuff around lately, it would be nearer correct to say "extract science."
Believe it or not, but the most comfortable moment in a girl's life is when she can kick her dancing pumps all the way across the bed room and put her tired dogs in a pair of comfies.
If it's all the same to the weather man, we will be glad to go right ahead through the remainder of this winter without snow or freezing temperatures. Uniform warm temperature will be a godsend to thousands of families.

Perhaps there were other Christmases when the tissue paper and the holly berries, the noisy horn and drum did not seem mere foolishness. Don't you remember when you first played the role of Santa Claus, or can't you picture again the brightly lighted tree, and your family gathered about? Can't you hear the echo of young voices, yours among them?
Yes, you have stored deep in your memory the recollection of at least one Christmas when you too, experienced the joy of the day. And how you cherish it!
For this reason, won't you help make Christmas a glad time for some little boy or girl in a home of poverty, and for whom life at best holds but scant promise. They are just little children now, these boys and girls. So little will make them happy. But when the years roll on, bringing perhaps their burdens and their sorrows there will be one bright treasure in memory's box that you made possible.
Won't you try it? No, Christmas, doesn't mean much to you this year. You just can't get back to the old spirit. And yet, when you minister to a little child, when you help bring the smile to baby lips, somehow you too will experience a measure of the Christmas joy.

WON'T YOU TRY IT?

Christmas may not be a merry or a happy time for you. It may be there is no special pleasure to which you look forward. Perhaps there are sad memories attached to the occasion. Perhaps your loved ones are in some distant state, and the miles between cannot be bridged. It may be there are vacant chairs about your fireside, or perhaps the laughter of some little child there has been stilled.
Whatever the reason, it is not easy for you to enter into the Christmas spirit. The festive decorations no longer make their old appeal. You are weary of the lights and tinsel. Somehow, there is a sense of loneliness about this season, and in your heart you will be glad when it is past. None would censure you. You know best your own self and your inmost feelings.
But listen. You were not always thus.
Think back across the years. Can't you remember one carefree time of preparation, and one glad, bright Christmas day?
Perhaps it was far back in your childhood. Perhaps there was not much in the old stocking. Trifles were not so abundant in those days. Money was scarce. But what is that when one is young and carefree? Your boyish dream had come true, and with your playfellows you were gloriously happy.
Perhaps there were other Christmases when the tissue paper and the holly berries, the noisy horn and drum did not seem mere foolishness. Don't you remember when you first played the role of Santa Claus, or can't you picture again the brightly lighted tree, and your family gathered about? Can't you hear the echo of young voices, yours among them?
Yes, you have stored deep in your memory the recollection of at least one Christmas when you too, experienced the joy of the day. And how you cherish it!

For this reason, won't you help make Christmas a glad time for some little boy or girl in a home of poverty, and for whom life at best holds but scant promise. They are just little children now, these boys and girls. So little will make them happy. But when the years roll on, bringing perhaps their burdens and their sorrows there will be one bright treasure in memory's box that you made possible.
Won't you try it? No, Christmas, doesn't mean much to you this year. You just can't get back to the old spirit. And yet, when you minister to a little child, when you help bring the smile to baby lips, somehow you too will experience a measure of the Christmas joy.

There is growing sentiment against using X in the spelling of Christmas. But the dyes have always been fighting the use of XXX in Christmas.
It might be a good idea to save enough out of your Christmas money to buy a new auto license, otherwise you may be afoot next year.
"He who speaks nothing but the truth," said Hi Ho, the sage of Chinatown, "must live long in silent contemplation in order to discover it."
Well, it looks like we intend to remain friendly with Germany, for some time, at least. The state department has just purchased a home for the American embassy on the Unter Linden in Berlin at a cost of $1,800,000. Also, we are paying cash for it despite the fact that Germany still owes us money.
China's national legislature, the "legislative yuan," has enacted 6,000 laws in two years. That is a record which makes our own proud legislative mills look decidedly rusty. The output of the yuan should spur our patriotic lawmakers to get busy at once and hold up this country's prestige with a flood of bills for longer hotel bedsheets and noiseless soup spoons; also bills against jaywalking, Sunday minnie golf, vertical bubbly fountains, tall-lightless saddles, launtyrinal grapefruit, and Russian tunics on fat women.

Up to November of this year, according to Federal Reserve Board figures, there was 740 bank failures with total deposits of $312,000,000. During the whole of 1929, 642 banks with deposits of $235,000,000, failed. In the severely depressed year of 1921, 561 banks closed their doors. They had deposits of $196,000,000. While it is true most failures occur in cities of less than 3,000 population and that fact is used as an argument for chain and branch banking, the largest bank failure in the history of the country was the recent collapse of an institution doing a branch banking business. We refer to the Bank of United States in New York City, which had deposits of $205,000,000.
There is growing sentiment against using X in the spelling of Christmas. But the dyes have always been fighting the use of XXX in Christmas.
It might be a good idea to save enough out of your Christmas money to buy a new auto license, otherwise you may be afoot next year.
"He who speaks nothing but the truth," said Hi Ho, the sage of Chinatown, "must live long in silent contemplation in order to discover it."
Well, it looks like we intend to remain friendly with Germany, for some time, at least. The state department has just purchased a home for the American embassy on the Unter Linden in Berlin at a cost of $1,800,000. Also, we are paying cash for it despite the fact that Germany still owes us money.
China's national legislature, the "legislative yuan," has enacted 6,000 laws in two years. That is a record which makes our own proud legislative mills look decidedly rusty. The output of the yuan should spur our patriotic lawmakers to get busy at once and hold up this country's prestige with a flood of bills for longer hotel bedsheets and noiseless soup spoons; also bills against jaywalking, Sunday minnie golf, vertical bubbly fountains, tall-lightless saddles, launtyrinal grapefruit, and Russian tunics on fat women.

FEDERAL FOOD LOANS

Although finally refused by the House, the Senate's demand for appropriations to permit loans to drought-stricken farmers for food has aroused an extremely bitter controversy. Most of that bitterness has been unjustified. The Secretary of Agriculture pointed out that loans to farmers for purchase of foods is simply a dole, and would set an unwise precedent. It was this statement that stirred several Senators to severe condemnation of the Administration.
As a matter of fact, there are several precedents for such Federal policy, if it seemed desirable in this case. Relief for Porto Ricans, for Mississippi Valley flood sufferers, for starving European populations after the war, all were financed in part by Federal funds. Drought is as much a calamity of nature as fire, flood or earthquake, and much more so than a world war. Federal loans for this purpose would set no precedent whatever for a "dole."
The question of the wisdom of food loans is quite different. Federal agencies have developed the proper machinery for loans to farm co-operatives for seed, implements and fertilizers. They do not have any established means of distributing relief funds to individuals for their consumption needs. Red Cross and local charitable organizations are much better equipped to do this.
The policy favored by the Administration, therefore, seems the wiser, and its final adoption is fortunate. If the Secretary of Agriculture had been more discreet in his defense of the Administration's position, the futile controversy could have been avoided.

After being in session three weeks, Congress has adjourned for the holidays. It has enacted promptly Mr. Hoover's emergency relief program, appropriating $116,000,000 for construction and $45,000,000 for drought relief. It also appropriated $150,000,000 from half-billion-dollars revolving fund for farm relief, and the Farm Board will continue its policy of attempting to stabilize crop prices by taking surpluses off the market.
Unfortunately, the Wagner bill dealing with unemployment remains to be passed. So does every other constructive measure before Congress that strikes at the causes which lie behind the emergency relief program. It is a question whether the Seventy-first Congress is to make any serious attempt to grapple with these. It may make some progress, but it is too unsympathetic with any recession from the present opposition to liberal causes to justify many expectations of it. We somehow expect the international trade situation to improve without turning our hand to help it do so. We could do that by lowering our tariffs, as we could ease the international tension by adopting a more healing policy as to the war debts. Mr. Hoover is incapable of leadership out of the present welter. He stands steadfastly by the status quo, disastrous as that is. It is to a special session, or to the new Congress which convenes next December, that the country must look for something better than such munificent handouts as the present Congress has just voted.

North Americans, South Americans and Central Americans, whenever and wherever they get together, like to tell each other they are brothers under the skin, having a community of interests and struggling with the same eternal problems. This is considered good diplomacy and better dollar diplomacy, but there is more truth in it than is commonly supposed by the high-hatter gentlemen with their tongues in their cheeks.
Consider the platform of Brazil's new government:
Financial reform.
Simplification of administrative processes and war on political parasitism.
Reduction of administrative expenses.
Simplification of local procedure.
Honest elections.
Advancement of public instruction.
Constitutional reforms relative to judicial and electoral procedure.
Reformation of the powers and responsibilities of the legislative and executive branches.
Where have the people of the United States heard these eight planks enunciated before?
They sound strangely like the eight planks of the platform now before virtually every community in the United States: Sound money, less gorging at the public trough, lower taxes, speedy justice, honest elections, return to the three R's, take politics out of the courts, fewer laws.

After being in session three weeks, Congress has adjourned for the holidays. It has enacted promptly Mr. Hoover's emergency relief program, appropriating $116,000,000 for construction and $45,000,000 for drought relief. It also appropriated $150,000,000 from half-billion-dollars revolving fund for farm relief, and the Farm Board will continue its policy of attempting to stabilize crop prices by taking surpluses off the market.
Unfortunately, the Wagner bill dealing with unemployment remains to be passed. So does every other constructive measure before Congress that strikes at the causes which lie behind the emergency relief program. It is a question whether the Seventy-first Congress is to make any serious attempt to grapple with these. It may make some progress, but it is too unsympathetic with any recession from the present opposition to liberal causes to justify many expectations of it. We somehow expect the international trade situation to improve without turning our hand to help it do so. We could do that by lowering our tariffs, as we could ease the international tension by adopting a more healing policy as to the war debts. Mr. Hoover is incapable of leadership out of the present welter. He stands steadfastly by the status quo, disastrous as that is. It is to a special session, or to the new Congress which convenes next December, that the country must look for something better than such munificent handouts as the present Congress has just voted.

LEGISLATIVE "RELIEFS"

Legislation cannot be the sure cure-all for economic ills. That this is so was never more sadly evident than in these difficult times. There is suffering in the cities, but it is not confined to them. The farmer has witnessed the approximation of ruin-out price levels while a Farm Board, created under a so-called Relief Act, made dubious experiment to avoid, or influence, a something fixed and inexorable.
All of this, as pertinently has been pointed out by a Vice President of the Chicago Board of Trade, has a direct bearing upon the various campaigns now under way to help the poor. Economic maladjustment growing out of political experimentation lays depressing burdens upon all of us.
Vice President Carey insists that much of the present pitiful distress among the poor and unemployed is due to fear on the part of many businessmen; fear of socialistic encroachment on business; fear that such laws as the agricultural marketing act, which allows a board $500,000,000 with which to attempt price stabilization, will next be extended to various other industries.
Here is one reason why money is locked up, while the poor suffer. It demonstrates what most likely will happen when Government tampers with business.
There are legislative reliefs which do not relieve—quite the reverse. In the meantime we must help our needy, the undeserving victims of a form of political experimentation beloved by charlatans and demagogues since the war began.

We have seen a lot of girls who were worrying about having too much legs in their stockings, but never have seen one who gave any evidence of losing sleep worrying over having too much nonsense in her head.
Giving modern frails presents that were appropriate to the girls of a generation ago would be considered as silly as giving the goldfish water wings.
It's funny how much money some people will spend for vases, and then feel like martyrs if they have to spend any of their time in them.
It always spoils the afternoon for a woman to think that after such a good time at bridge and getting so filled up with the DEELicious refreshments she has to go home and slap together something to appease a husband, inconsiderate enough to come home hungry.

The honey moon gets ready to go bye-bye when he begins to think of it as a synonym for expenses when he calls her dear.
Just judging from the ads the modern feminine sleeping garments are so hot that daughter must be able to keep warm without making mother get up in the middle of the night to get her another blanket.
Many a modern husband sees his wife's back at a formal reception who would rather see her back in the kitchen.
The man who tackles the job of pleasing one woman hasn't any time to waste on other dames if he sticks to his job.
And we suppose a ritzy pair of those supporters isn't anything like as an acceptable present, as it was a year ago when its charm wasn't wasted beneath long skirts.

More or less true
The honey moon gets ready to go bye-bye when he begins to think of it as a synonym for expenses when he calls her dear.
Just judging from the ads the modern feminine sleeping garments are so hot that daughter must be able to keep warm without making mother get up in the middle of the night to get her another blanket.
Many a modern husband sees his wife's back at a formal reception who would rather see her back in the kitchen.
The man who tackles the job of pleasing one woman hasn't any time to waste on other dames if he sticks to his job.
And we suppose a ritzy pair of those supporters isn't anything like as an acceptable present, as it was a year ago when its charm wasn't wasted beneath long skirts.

York's citizens are devout believers in witchcraft and black magic. A report issued by a health survey remarks that "witchcraft workers and evil-eye healers are still flourishing and exploiting the ignorant and superstitious, particularly the foreign-born, in New York City."
Ignorance, apparently, can be found in the city as well as the country. Our New York writers can find, within few blocks of their offices, conditions quite as shocking as those in Pennsylvania which horrified them recently.

FARM BUREAU NOTES
Copy for this Department furnished by County Agent

Farm Record Books Collected.
December 29 is the date set for meetings with Farm Record Book co-operators to collect their books. Three men from the College of Agriculture will be in the county every day. There are 132 books placed in the county this year so it will be necessary to collect about 20 a day. One hundred and ten books were completed in the county last year and the summary completed covered 109 of these.
A copy of the summary may be had by calling or writing the Farm Bureau office. This summary will give a very good idea of the benefits derived from keeping a book.
Time will be given at the various meetings to the new co-operators in accounts. If you wish to keep a record book for 1931 notify the Farm Bureau office and an appointment will be made at the meeting nearest your home.

Sewing Machine Clinics.
A sewing machine clinic will be held at each of the Weeping Water, Elmwood, Louisville, Alvo and Morrill halls on January 13, 14, 15, 29 and 30. This will be an all day meeting lasting from 10:00 a. m. until 4:00 p. m. under the supervision of Paul R. Hoff of the Agricultural College Extension Service. Miss Baldwin, assistant county agent, has granted these dates to the housewives of these communities, that those interested may attend and receive the benefits of this service.
Any woman who will bring her sewing machine and stay with it all day is eligible to enroll. She will clean and adjust it herself under the direction of Mr. Hoff.
Applications are being received by Miss Baldwin who is making all local arrangements for these meetings. A guarantee of fifteen machines is necessary for a successful meeting and not more than twenty can be accommodated. Anyone having a machine that runs hard, breaks thread, makes poor stitches or has any of the troubles common to sewing machines may expect to leave the sewing machine clinic with a perfect running machine and the knowledge of how to keep it so.
Enrollment must be at the Farm Bureau office not later than January 3, 1931, in order that detailed plans for the meetings may be completed.

Application For Tree Seedlings.
The Farm Bureau office is again handling the applications for tree seedlings available for cooperative windbreak and woodlot planting on farms in Cass county. A charge of $1.00 per hundred trees for handling, packing and shipping is made by the Extension Service. The following varieties may be secured, in bundles of 100 trees only: American Elm, Mulberry, Cottonwood, Green Ash, Catalpa, Silver Maple, Boxelder, Chinese Elm, Caragana, Russian Olive, Honey Locust, Scotch Pine, Austrian Pine and Jack Pine.
An applicant may secure a maximum of 400 trees for a windbreak and a maximum of 100 trees for a woodlot. Due to a limited supply of stock, not more than 100 Russian Olive or more than 100 Chinese Elm can be furnished with one order, and then only with other trees.
Trees will be shipped, transportation prepaid, to the address given by applicant, in April 1931. Notice cards will be sent a few days in advance of shipment.
If you are interested in securing trees for planting this spring, now is the time to place your order.—D. D. Wainwright, Cass Co. Extension Agent, Jessie H. Baldwin, Ass't. Co. Extension Agent.

A BIRTHDAY SURPRISE
On Dec. 20th at the pleasant country home of Mrs. Sarah McNatt, a very pleasant birthday party, the birthday anniversaries of Miss Geneva McNatt of Plattsmouth, and C. J. McNatt of Butte, Montana, being celebrated. The evening was spent in a general good time. The music was furnished by the Graves orchestra.
Those present were Messers and Mesdames S. W. Bell, J. I. Fitch, A. T. Campbell, Joe Campbell, John Hendricks, Harold Hull, J. E. Lancaster, Oscar Campbell, Bill Baker, Joe Shera, Pat Campbell, Norville Hawthorne, Ray Campbell, Sherd Graves, Matt Wooster, Mrs. Wm. Shera, Mrs. James Conn, Misses Ruth Albert, Georgia Hopkins, Lancaster Hutchison, Irene Simons, Dorothy Campbell, Ruth Hull, Alice and Alda Campbell; Harlan Conn, Bobbie Shera, George Hull, Alfred and Frank Conn, Harold Lancaster, Jimmy Graves, Paul Shera, Elmer Fitchhorn, Albert Scudder, David Lancaster, Artemer Barkhurst, Glenn Hutchison, Hershel Furlong, Fred and Ben Hull, Perry Graves, Mrs. Sarah McNatt, the Misses Geneva and Emma McNatt and C. J. McNatt.

Tell your lawyer you want your law brief printed here at home. The Journal is equipped to do this work at reasonable prices.

SPEAKER'S OFFICE INVADDED

Washington—Speaker Longworth's office has been invaded either by souvenir hunters or petty thieves. His stop watch and several other articles are missing. The stop watch is used in timing members making speeches on the floor. Miss Mildred Reeves, secretary to the speaker, said: "Now the members can speak as long as the desire unless a new stop watch is produced. In the meantime the speaker will use his Ingersoll."
The stop watch was missed Saturday morning and Tuesday Sergeant-at-Arms Rodgers was asked to search for it.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS

The State of Nebraska, Cass county, ss.
In the County Court.
In the matter of the estate of Ransom M. Cole, deceased.
To the creditors of said estate: You are hereby notified, that I will sit at the County Court room in Plattsmouth, in said county, on the 16th day of January, A. D. 1931 and on the 17th day of April, A. D. 1931 at nine o'clock in the forenoon of each day, to receive and examine all claims against said estate, with a view to their adjustment and allowance. The time limited for the presentation of claims against said estate is three months from the 16th day of January A. D. 1931 and the time limited for payment of debts is one year from said 16th day of January A. D. 1931.
Witness my hand and the seal of said County Court this 17th day of December, 1930.

LEGAL NOTICE

In the District Court of Cass County, Nebraska.
Daniel G. Golding, Plaintiff, vs.
Charles L. White, et al., Defendants.
To the Defendant, Charles L. White: You are hereby notified that on the 16th day of July, 1930, the plaintiff filed his suit in the District Court of Cass County, Nebraska, the object and purpose of which is to foreclose lien of a tax sale certificate on Lots 572 and 573, in the Village of Greenwood, in Cass County, Nebraska, and equitable relief.
You are hereby required to answer said petition on or before Monday, February 2, 1931. And failing so to do, your default will be entered and judgment taken upon the plaintiff's petition. This notice is given pursuant to an order of this Court.
DANIEL G. GOLDING, Plaintiff.
By A. L. TIDD, His Attorney, d22-4w

ORDER OF HEARING

and Notice on Petition for Settlement of Accounts
In the County Court of Cass county, Nebraska.
State of Nebraska, Cass county, ss.
To all persons interested in the estate of Mary L. Wiley, deceased: On reading the petition of Perry Nickles, Administrator, praying a final settlement and allowance of his account filed in this Court on the 29th day of December, A. D. 1930, and for final settlement of his account and discharge as such Administrator:
It is hereby ordered that you and all persons interested in said matter may, and do, appear at the County Court to be held in and for said County, on the 16th day of January A. D. 1931, at ten o'clock a. m., to show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted, and that notice of the pendency of said petition and the hearing thereof be given to all persons interested in said matter by publishing a copy of this order in the Plattsmouth Journal, a semi-weekly newspaper printed in said county, for three successive weeks prior to said day of hearing.
In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and the seal of said Court, this 20th day of December, A. D. 1930.
A. H. DUXBURY, County Judge.
(Seal) d22-3w

ORDER OF HEARING AND NOTICE OF PROBATE OF WILL

In the County Court of Cass county, Nebraska.
State of Nebraska, County of Cass, ss.
To all persons interested in the estate of Robert Troop, deceased: On reading the petition of Lois R. Troop praying that the instrument filed in this court on the 18th day of December 1930, and purporting to be the last will and testament of the said deceased, may be proved and allowed, and recorded as the last will and testament of Robert Troop, deceased; that said instrument be admitted to probate, and the administration of said estate be granted to H. A. Schneider, as Administrator with will annexed:
It is hereby ordered that you, and all persons interested in said matter, may, and do, appear at the County Court to be held in and for said county, on the 16th day of January A. D. 1931 at ten o'clock a. m., to show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted, and that notice of the pendency of said petition and that the hearing thereof be given to all persons interested in said matter by publishing a copy of this order in the Plattsmouth Journal, a semi-weekly newspaper printed in said county, for three successive weeks prior to said day of hearing.
Witness my hand, and seal of said court, this 18th day of December A. D. 1930.
A. H. DUXBURY, County Judge.
(Seal) d22-3w

Headache! Everybody has it once in a while. It may be due to a thousand and one different causes. The way to cure a Headache is to find and remove the cause. Suppose it takes days or weeks to find the cause—what will you do in the meantime? Continue to suffer?

DR. MILES' ANTI-PAIN PILLS

They relieve quickly. Use them for muscular pains and functional pains even when these pains are so severe that you think you are suffering from Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica, Lumbago. Get them at your Drug Store. 25 for 25 cents 125 for $1.00

Auctioneer
C. P. BUSCHE
Louisville, Neb.
Farm and Live Stock Sales
a Specialty
Best of References by Many Successful Sales