Ben Martin and Bert Frans who are both lovers of the chase were out last Friday evening and for the night, tramping through the woods. They were able to bag a big coon, and counted the excitement as ample pay for the hours of chasing through the woods, and climbing over ridges and fences. However they enjoyed the sport.

Surprise Their Friends.

The friends of Mr. and Mrs. Hans L. Hanson gathered and going to the home on last Wednesday evening surprised this excellent couple and also made a very merry evening, for them, and also all others who were in attendance. Cards were the feature of the evening and following playing, the friends, who had come with well filled baskets, provided a very delightful repast.

Will Make Home in Chicago.

Dr. W. W. Claybaugh who has been at the hospital for a number of weeks with some slight improvement, but still far from his normal conditions before the stroke came, is deliberating as to what to do, and has considered the matter of going to Chicago where he may make his home with a daughter, but has not entirely made up his mind as to just what he will do.

Has Finger Lacerated.

While Ralph Pearsley was operating the machine at the movies he had the misfortune to get one of his fingers in the machine and received a very severe cut thereon. The member was dressed and while still very sore it is making good progress towards entire recovery.

Makes Excellent Selection.

The past four years of good schools under the direction of Superintendent James Marsell, has proven his worth as an instructor and organizer, and the better workings of the schools have evidenced his efficiency as an instructor. The board of education at their meeting last Monday evening proved their belief in Superintendent Marsell by the offering of the position of superintendent of the Union schools at the highest salary which the board is allowed to pay.

Dorothy Moore Poorly.

Little Dorothy Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Moore who has been in not the best of health for some time, was taken to Omaha where she underwent a clinic to ascertain if possible her condition and to direct a course of treatment that she may receive back her former good health.

Will Engage in Business.

Clifton B. Smith who has been at Kansas City where he was taking a course in the ethics of insurance was able after having passed on a series of very creditable examinations returned to Union on last Thursday and has since been getting his office in readiness for occupancy and operating the business which he has chosen as insurance solicitor. He has secured the Mrs. Elkensberry building and which should make a good place for his business.

Received Much Supplies.

Union's contribution to the car which Cass county is sending to the sufferers from the drought in the south and the east, has been liberal and was taken to Weeping Water where the car was to be shipped, and was stored at the store of Ray Fahrlander until the truck was ready to take it to the car for loading. Union can be depended upon to do their portion to relieve suffering, and we must rely on education to stamp out personal violations.

CANNON FACES NEW PROBE

Washington—The searching gaze of a senate committee will be turned again this week on the 1928 political activities of Bishop Cannon. Closely following a decision of twelve ministers of his church not to recommend trial of the selling bishop on a series of unnamed charges. Chairman Nye of the senate campaign funds committee disclosed Monday he had summoned three Virginia bank officials to appear Wednesday and bring with them records of any expenditures made by Cannon in the 1928 anti-Smith drive in the old dominion.

The churchman is said to have received $65,000 from E. C. Jameson, New York financier, for use in the campaign against Smith. Cannon refused to tell the senate lobby investigation committee last year how the money was spent. He walked out of the committee room and no further action ever was taken.

Junior Red Cross Aiding in Relief Work

Children of Foreign Lands Are Joining in Aid to the Drought Sufferers of United States

Four thousand, one hundred and sixteen pounds of currents sent to this country by the Junior Red Cross organization of Greece, are to be distributed in 39 drought-stricken counties in Arkansas, in the form of 98 boxes, weighing 42 pounds each. A gesture of good will and sympathy from Greek school children to boys and girls of the same age in the distressed region, the fruit will be distributed to county school superintendents who have received suggestions from the Home Economics Division of the Arkansas State Dept. of Education on various ways to use currants, such as in sandwiches, sauces, boiled dressings and puddings. The instructions say in part: "Currants are an important source of minerals particularly iron. They will make an important contribution to the diet of children at this time."

One of the features of the Junior Red Cross program throughout the world is fostering good will and understanding between school children of all races and nationalities, and this incident is a particularly striking example of international interest in human needs wherever they may occur no matter how far distant from home.

Arkansas Red Cross State Relief Headquarters, Little Rock, reports an estimate that 280 tons of food are being received by sufferers from local chapters in the state each day, in connection with food orders issued to families who take them to their local merchants. The average supply of food received for family of four for 30 days weighs 125 pounds, including flour, meal, lard, salt, beans, rice, molasses, coffee, sugar, baking powder, and canned tomatoes. Soap is always an additional item.

Various resolutions and letters are being received from groups and individuals on the scene of disaster, giving their opinion of the service being rendered by local Red Cross volunteers estimated to number 34,000 throughout the affected area of 20 states. C. H. Norman, Cashier of the Bank of Crossett, Arkansas, writes: "Situation we are in, the area and being in close touch with the needs and problems of these afflicted farmers, I would feel derelict of my duty if I failed to express to you my admiration for the wonderful work the American Red Cross is doing to alleviate our farmers and the suffering caused by this great disaster. In this particular section, our farmers heretofore have always been self sustaining and for some time it was with reluctance that they would even seek or accept a penny. But as the drought grows and the prospect for work of any kind become hopeless, they bowed to the inevitable and without the aid of the Red Cross I shudder for the outcome. The hugeness of the task was beyond local capacity to handle. I am sure that I voice the unanimous sentiment of our people when I say thank you and long live the Red Cross."

BUTTER MAKERS BUSY

Market prices on dairy products have shown a downward tendency of late, attributed to the effect of the fine weather. This does not have any discouraging influence on the producers, though it does on the buyers, eggs, which are gathered and marketed. Cows continue to yield milk, and that, too, is carefully collected, and turned into butter, cheese and a lot of other things that are good to eat or use in some other way.

How the dairy industry is spreading in Nebraska is shown by a few items published in local papers. The stockholders of the Tekamah Co-operative Creamery Co., which has five months of active experience back of it, found that its output for the short time had been 79,393 pounds of butter, all of which is on the ready market. The Dehler Co-operative Creamery Co. reports having produced 655,650 pounds of butter in 1931. A ton a day is not a bad record. In addition this creamery shipped 108 carloads of eggs. Quite a respectable business.

These are only two of a great many co-operative creamery enterprises that are prospering in Nebraska. Ole Hansen's great plant at Orleans is a model of its kind, one of the most successful ever established. Nebraska is coming to be what nature intended it for, a great dairy state.

Nebraska's total butter output for 1929 was 97,110,000 pounds. To this should be added 6,550,000 pounds of dried or powdered buttermilk; 8,735,000 pounds of evaporated or condensed milk; and 3,059,000 gallons of cream.

Nebraska in 1929 moved from 26th to 14th place as a cheese producer, the production for that year being 3,306,000 pounds of cheese, and 1,287,000 pounds of cottage cheese. A fair contribution to the table.

Omaha churns approximately half the butter produced in Nebraska in 1929. The aggregate value of the output from the local creameries in 1929 was $24,097,800. Freight charges alone on the shipments of the local creameries for the year amounted to $2,240,000. This will give an idea of how dairying has expanded in Nebraska within a very few years.

DEMAND INSTANT ACTION ON MARGARINE TAX BILL

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10.—Legislative right-of-way for a bill to fix a 10-cent a pound tax on all colored butter substitutes was demanded of the house rule committee today by representatives of agricultural states. Headed by Chairman Haugen of the house agriculture committee, a delegation of 60 urged action at this session on a proposed amendment to the oleomargarine act to overcome a treasury department ruling which permits the use of a palm oil in butter substitutes with a tax of only 1/4 of a cent a pound.

Schafer Bros. Stock Sale is a Great Success

Many From All Sections of Nebraska at Farm West of Murray for Big Yearly Event

The fourteenth annual gilt sale of the celebrated Duroc Jersey herd of the Schafer Brothers was held on Tuesday at the farm of Otto Schafer, six miles west of Murray, being attended by a very large number of prospective purchasers of the choice stock from all parts of eastern Nebraska and western Iowa.

The sale was conducted by Rex Young, the veteran Cass county auctioneer, who handled the sale of the stock in his usual able manner and brought great satisfaction to both the purchasers and Messrs. Otto and Phillip Schafer, who staged the sale. There were forty-five of the purebred gilts offered at the sale and these were strong sellers with many bidders, the average for the sale being $33 per head and embraced some of the choicest of the offerings of the Schafer herd.

There were also offered at the sale some of the Holstein cattle from the farm and which brought brisk demand as did the five head of horses that were sold as a part of the sale. The Duroc swine offered were picked from a herd of 100 head and constituted some of the most outstanding animals of the large herd and the animals were all treated and ready to be taken to the herds of the purchasers with the assurance of being some of the best stock that could be purchased in this part of the west.

MEN ESCAPE INJURY AS LANDSLIDE STOPS

Niobrara, Feb. 9.—A small landslide near Niobrara nearly caught Grimes and Doura Mayberry, who were driving their team along a road near Maiden's Leap when the rock and dirt came hurtling down toward them. The horses became unmanageable and would not move. However, the rock stopped while only a few feet from them and they were uninjured.

The four creatures which supplied the sweetie's clothes were a worm, a rat, a calf and a sucker.

BEAUTIFUL NEBRASKA CONTEST

The Plattsmouth Woman's club is entering the "Beautiful Nebraska Contest." Many people in Plattsmouth and vicinity have pictures of scenery adjacent to Plattsmouth. Will you not come to our assistance and donate your pictures and negatives to help us "tell the world" that the scenery around Plattsmouth is the loveliest in the state?

Your pictures may be left at the Bates Book Store. Aim and rules follow: Aim of contest: To promote a better appreciation of Nebraska scenery. Rules of contest: Views of Nebraska scenery may be sent in by any woman who is a member of the Nebraska Federation of Women's Clubs. Pictures must be natural scenery; no buildings, statues, etc. considered. Pictures may be any size, but MUST be accompanied by negative of same. Contestants entering picture need not have taken picture herself.

Three pictures will be selected from each of the six districts and prizes of $2.00 each will be awarded at district conventions next spring.

Name of contestant, and address, together with a description of picture and its location must be written on back of each picture submitted. Contest closes March 1, 1931. CIVIC COMMITTEE.

2 OF OWN TEETH PULLED BY WISCONSIN DENTIST

Frederic, Wis., Feb. 9.—Dr. H. E. Witte, dentist, today was minus two of his teeth. Making some kind of remarks as dentists always do about "open wide now, this won't hurt," the doctor stood in front of a mirror, injected a local anesthetic, applied the forceps and pulled out his own offending teeth.

SET FARM GAS TAX HEARING

Lincoln, Feb. 10.—To determine public sentiment toward tax exemption to Nebraska agriculturists on gasoline used in farm implements, the state legislature will hold a public hearing in Lincoln next Monday night.

The meeting, said Representative A. W. Sprick, (R.) of Pontiac, chairman of the house committee on revenue and taxation, will be particularly concerned with the merits of two bills, S. P. 62, introduced by Senator C. W. Johnson (R.) of Potter, and H. R. 131, introduced by Representative J. S. Steele (R.), of Ogalala, and others.

Both bills provide that a definite fuel be designated for agricultural use. It advocates the use of a black color for identifying this fuel from others. However, tests disclose that a color substance had not been found by state chemists which could not be easily removed from gasoline.

ASK MEDAL FOR ROGERS

Little Rock.—The Arkansas house of representatives Monday adopted a resolution asking congress to bestow the distinguished service medal upon Will Rogers for his patriotism and service in behalf of drought sufferers of the southwest.

TAFT'S WIDOW WILLS $5 MILLION TO DAUGHTERS

Cincinnati, Feb. 9.—Mrs. Jane Ingalls and Mrs. Louise Semple, only children of the late Mrs. Charles P. Taft, were bequeathed the entire Taft estate, estimated at over $50,000,000 with the exception of $1,000,000 given to the Institute of Fine Arts.
