County Commissioner E. B. Chapman of Union was a visitor in Weeping Water for a short time on Tuesday of this week, and after having looked after the matters calling him here went on to Manly where he had some county business to look after.

Mrs. John Knabe of Omaha was a visitor in Weeping Water with her many friends and also was guest for the day at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Earl Murdoch and family. Mrs. Knabe said while she was a resident of Lincoln she liked to come to Weeping Water to visit on a county of having so many friends here.

Enjoyed Visit of Son.

Mr. and Mrs. I. N. Hunter of Weeping Water and among the very finest of people, were enjoying during the early portion of this week a visit from their son, Earl Hunter who was accompanied by the good wife, who are making their home at Hastings and where Earl is engaged in the insurance business. The parents and son and the wife all enjoyed the visit very much and they met while here also many friends of other days.

Very Sick with Pneumonia.

Grandfather Kilbrink, living a number of miles west and south of Weeping Water on the O street road is very seriously ill with pneumonia and is being cared for by Mrs. Browne during the day, and by Mrs. Frank E. Wood who is one of the very best graduate nurses, during the night. The patient is very ill and everything possible is being done that he may recover.

Entertained Her Friends.

Miss Anna Hart the deputy postmistress of Weeping Water and an excellent woman entertained her friends to the number of some twenty on last Friday when she served a delightful six o'clock dinner at the Fair Haven hotel, and following this they all went to the home of Miss Hart on the south side where they enjoyed the fascinating game of bridge during the evening. There were five tables and all enjoyed the evening as well as the kindly friendship of the genial hostess.

Fire at Peter Olsen's.

On last Friday the fire alarm was turned in and the report was that the fire was at the home of Peter Olsen, and before the fire department could get out and that was but the case mostly of seconds for it only required a few minutes, the neighbors and family had succeeded in getting the blaze extinguished. The loss was trivial but the excitement was great during the time.

in the line of freight and passengers were around interviewing the people with the intent of getting them to sign a petition asking that a certain bill be supported by the law makers of Nebraska which would give the matter consideration in the light of railroads versus the trucks. The petitions were sent to the representatives at Lincoln, and on the heels of this came another petition which is being sent to the members of the house and senate asking that the interests of the owners of the trucks and the farmers be considered. Both petitions contained many names. Just what the outcome of the matter will be only the remaining few days of the present legislature may determine. We will have to wait and see.

Has Very Narrow Escape.

Stirling Amick who is a hustler and no mistake, and who has been selected as captain of the Weeping Water fire fighting squad, was hurrying to the Peter Olsen fire on last Friday evening when there loomed up in front of the speeding Chevrolet, two cars traveling at only a moderate speed and Stirling, feeling that it was needful that he get to the fire to direct the fighting of the flames turned out to pass the two cars and as he had passed one and was passing the other a truck loomed up in front coming his way at a rapid pace.

Ship Seedlings March 25-April 9.

Shipments of seedling trees from the Agricultural College Extension Service to Nebraska farmers will start Saturday, March 28, and continue until April 9. Southeastern Nebraska farmers will get the first shipments. All the trees will be sent out from the Nebraska National Forest at Halsey. The pines are grown there and the broadleaf varieties are shipped by nurserymen. All the counting, packing, tagging, and shipping will be handled in a new packing shed under the direction of Clayton W. Watkins, Extension Forester of the Agricultural College.

New Kinds of Barley.

Glabron, Comfort and Trebi are some of the better varieties of barley now grown in Nebraska. Glabron has a stronger straw than Comfort and is less likely to lodge on extremely rich ground. However Glabron is inclined to shatter more when overripe and is not satisfactory barley for the combine country.

Returning to School.

Ralph Binger, who was kept from school for a number of weeks on account of illness has so far recovered that he was able to return to his studies in the state university and on last Tuesday went over to make arrangements to take up his studies again, returning on the late train in company with the father, they went over again on Wednesday.

County Fair Board Meets.

The Cass County Fair board met at the office of the county agent on Tuesday afternoon of this week and looked after some business which it had on hand and were busy during the greater portion of the afternoon with their deliberations.

Rolls Roof in Heap.

The terrific wind which prevailed on Tuesday of this week did many things which was not looked for and which was not thought to be on the program. One was the rolling of a good portion of the roof of the building just east of the Rasmussen building, and which is owned by Byron Golding of Plattsmouth into a tangled mass so that it could in no way serve for a shelter of the building when the storm comes.

Business Locks Good.

G. R. Binger of the Binger Lumber and Coal company speaking of business, said that they were busy with the unloading of lumber and also of the manufacture of a large number of hog houses which the farmers are at this time using many of. Mr. Binger said business has been good and there is prospects for much more activity in this line as the spring comes on.

MYNARD CLUB PLAY

The Mynard Community club are now having their final recital for their play "Marrimony" which will be presented Thursday and Friday evening of this week and also Tuesday evening of the following week, and if their rehearsal of last evening is a criterion of the manner in which it will be presented on the evenings above mentioned, those who attend are assured of an evening of real entertainment.

The fact that the sale of reserved seats exceeded the expectations of the committee in charge, practically all seats being sold for Thursday and Friday evening of this week, they will give the play three nights, instead of two as originally planned in order to accommodate the many who failed to get tickets for the first performances, and will present it on Tuesday evening, March 31st.

Seed Potato Treatment.

If potatoes have been grown on the same ground for several years the ground may be infested with disease that the treatment will not do much good. In such case the potatoes should be treated and planted in new ground.

The disinfection of seed potatoes was primarily undertaken for the prevention of potato scab, but it has since been found that when properly done is also effective in destroying the resting stage of the black-scurf fungus. The seed should be treated before it is cut.

The treatment consists in immersing the tubers for a period of from one-half to one and one-half hours in a formaldehyde solution. Add one pint of formalin (formalin is a trade name representing a 40 per cent solution of formaldehyde gas) to 10 gallons of water.

As a result of many experiments it has been shown rather clearly that a good sized piece of seed is preferable to a small-sized one. A seed piece containing from one to three eyes and weighing from 1 to 2 ounces will, if properly spaced, say 12 to 14 inches, give better results than smaller-sized pieces cut to single eyes. The small sized pieces are more liable to rot if the ground is very cold and wet after they are planted and before they have germinated, and they are also more likely to dry up and fall to germinate if the ground is very dry or is poorly prepared.

The smaller the size of the seed pieces used, the more thoroughly must the seed bed be prepared and the more favorable must be the growing conditions between the dates of planting and actual germination in order to secure satisfactory results.

Inoculation of Seed.

The question is often asked regarding the inoculation of soils for alfalfa, red or sweet clover, is it necessary to inoculate Cass county soils. It is not. In some cases, however, where the soil is light and sandy and never had legumes on it, some benefits may be derived from inoculation.

MRS. PALMETER PASSES AWAY

Mrs. W. E. Palmeter of west of South Bend, who has been ill for the past more than a year with both cancer and inward goiter, and who has undergone a number of operations and had bore with great fortitude the suffering and has been cared for by her devoted husband and nurses hoping almost against hope that her health might be won back, died just after midnight on Wednesday morning of this week. There were there at the time of her departure, the husband, their daughter, Mrs. Clyde Fitzpatrick and formerly Miss Jennie Vestal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Vestal, now deceased, and also a sister of Mrs. Gustav Rhode, who was employed with the former News-Herald but who are both long since passed away. Following the funeral at the home the cortege came to Plattsmouth where the interment was made at Oak Hill cemetery in the family lot. Mrs. Palmeter was a most excellent woman ever seeking where she could do a kindly act for one in distress and to minister to all who were in need.

Little Value to Corn Cobs for Feed.

Corn cobs possess practically no net energy, says H. J. Gramlich, head of the Animal Husbandry department at the Agricultural College, in discussing their value as a livestock feed.

The College of Agriculture man says the cobs do contain some nutrients but the animal uses considerable energy in digesting the cobs and accordingly there is relatively little direct benefit from the nutrients in them. The good which seems to be derived from the feeding of ground corn cobs in corn and cob meal is due to mechanical factors, Gramlich says.

Cob meal is bulky and permits rather easy mastication and digestion by the animal. Digestive juices doubtless permeate the mass more thoroughly and due to this factor digestive disorders are relatively scarce among cattle receiving ground corn.

Gramlich maintains that there would be no particular advantage in grinding cobs and adding the resultant products to ground barley and oats. Barley and oats are pretty bulky in themselves for fattening animals.—D. D. Walmscott, Cass Co. Extension Agent; Jessie H. Baldwin, Ass't Co. Extension Agent.

Iowa Marriage Law Expected to Bring Many Here

Experience in Nebraska Five Day Delay Law Points to Many Coming Here from Iowa

The state legislature of Iowa has just enacted a law that required a five-day notice be given of the intention of parties to become wedded before the license is issued, which measure is expected to cause a boom in the marriage business in the counties that border Iowa in the adjoining states.

GREAT DEFICIT IN SIGHT

Washington—$700,000,000 treasury deficit at the end of the fiscal year on June 30 appeared probable as income tax receipts continued to drop. The treasury estimated income tax collections this month would fall $209,000,000 below the same period last year, totaling only $350,000,000.
