On Wednesday evening at 7:15 Mrs. Fairfield passed away at her home in University Place. Funeral services were held at the First Methodist church, with Dr. Fox officiating on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment was made in the Wyuka cemetery. Mrs. Fairfield was survived by a daughter, Mrs. Kelly of Lincoln, and a son, W. E. of Alvo.

Four weeks prior to her death she suffered a stroke and during the weeks of her illness was cared for by Mrs. W. E. Fairfield.

Simon Rehmeier, with the assistance of John Coleman, were putting the elevator in the very best of condition last week when the business was rather quiet, so as to be ready when the business was ready.

The roads was such just then that the little was moving. The present declining price of both wheat and corn restrains the delivering of the grains, and also the selling of the same. With the excellent prospects for the wheat crop for this year does not give the raisers much hope of much higher prices and retards business in all lines.

Woman's Club Visited. The Alvo Woman's club which is a most live association as well as being very sociable and especially with its members, were over to University Place one day last week where they met with their members, Mrs. F. E. Dickerson and where they had an excellent time, they having a very worthwhile program and were entertained most delightfully by their genial hostess, Mrs. Dickerson.

Very Pressingly Friendly. Yes that just about tells the facts, and the other things as well remain unaided. Anyway a band of gypsies made their advent into the otherwise quiet little city of Alvo and with their coming they pressed their friendship and their business which was telling fortunes on a number of the inhabitants of Alvo, wanting to bring good luck and otherwise to the citizens. Almost force had to be used to dismiss them, but they finally went.

Is Kicked by Cow. While engaged in milking a few days since, John P. Gonzales had the misfortune to be kicked by a cow which objected to being milked. The kick made Mr. Gonzales leg sore for a time but is reported as getting along nicely now.

CURTIS TO TRY FOR SENATE. Washington, April 2.—Vice President Curtis had made no definite decision yet, but his present inclination is to retire from the vice presidency next year and stand for the senate again from his native Kansas.

Probably no final decision will be reached for some months, but the vice president's closest friends believe that he will "in all probability" in 1932. Curtis stepped from the senate into the vice presidency, and it would be an unique thing to step back again.

RASKOB POLICY HIT BY REED. Washington, April 2.—In a solemn warning to the Democrats to remain true to Democratic principles, former Senator James A. Reed of Missouri Wednesday predicted the party would sweep the country in 1932, unless it tries to "ape" the Republicans in an effort to cater to "big business."

Without mentioning names, the sturdy Jeffersonian Democrat took a two-sided fling at the leadership of Democratic national committee and the program proposed by him at the recent meeting of the committee here.

Reed asserted that the Democrats should stand firmly against a tariff and against any monopolies and against any weakening of the Sherman and Clayton anti-trust laws.

He would have the Democrats make these laws leading issues in the campaign, as a means of restoring the country to economic health.

So far as his own possible candidacy was concerned, Reed maintained his silence, although friends have been urging him to run.

Striking directly at the program outlined by Raskob, Reed said: "If the Democratic flag is to be pulled down on any or all Democratic issues, it will have to be done by a Democratic convention and not by a coterie of unauthorized gentlemen."

Reed declared one of the first duties of the Democratic party is a drastic revision of the "Hoover-Grundy" tariff bill, which he said not only was robbing the American people directly but was destroying American markets abroad and contributing to the world economic depression.
