TOURNEY IS UNDER FIRE

Indianapolis—Faced with reports of alleged immorality among high school students attending the annual state interscholastic basketball tournament, the Indiana state board of education authorized a committee to investigate advisability of abolishing the tournament. The investigating body will be appointed by George C. Cole, state superintendent of public instruction which he announced he will name William A. Wirt, superintendent of Gary, Ind., schools, President Hines of Indiana state teachers college, Terre Haute and Frank S. Reynolds, Cambridge City, Ind.

Relating reports of drinking and immorality which he said had reached him following the tournament last month, Wirt told the board "It's had thing to throw so many young people into the city without chaperons. The schools cannot possibly assume responsibility for their (pupils') actions while in Indianapolis."

Cement Plant Closes Down for Repairs

Installation of Natural Gas Requires Numerous Changes at Louisville

The Ash Grove Lime and Portland Cement company closed their cement mill here at midnight Tuesday for an indefinite time, presumably about two or three weeks while changing their machinery for the installation of natural gas to take the place of coal burners to burn their kilns.

Superintendent A. K. Frolich stated to the Courier that the installation of gas burners to take the place of coal will be a decided improvement and that gas is used exclusively in their plant at Chanute, Kansas. In order to make the change it is necessary to close the plant for a short time, but that as many men are being retained as can be used to install the new machinery.

JUDGE AND LAWYER CLASH

Detroit—A sharp dispute between Prosecutor Toy and Judge Jeffries of recorder's court in the Gerald E. Buckley murder trial reached its climax Friday. Toy challenged the judge to send him to jail for contempt of court. The dispute, over admissibility of records, which Toy claimed, would violate the traditional secrecy surrounding grand jury proceedings, dashed the state's hopes of promptly closing its case.

The argument was over the admissibility of the testimony Robert Jackson, negro porter, gave before the grand jury which returned the murder indictments against Ted Pizzino, Joe Bonmarito and Angelo Livochi, the defendants. The occasion was the appearance on the stand of the state's final witness, Frank W. McNamara, stenographer and secretary of the grand jury. Prosecutor Toy contended there was no precedent for allowing the defense to see grand jury records.

During cross examination, McNamara was asked to produce records of Jackson's testimony before the grand jury so the defense might learn whether the testimony had varied. During the trial Jackson testified that he had seen Pizzino and Bonmarito tip-toe across the LaSalle hotel lobby toward Buckley's chair just before the radio announcer was slain.

FARM NEWS TO INCREASE

Washington—American farmers are to get a better and more comprehensive service from the agriculture department after July 1. Appropriations provided by congress will become available then for expansion of economic research in farm taxation and farm mortgage finance and for the study of price trends, production and consumption in the marketing and distribution of farm products.

Inspection of fruits and vegetables and the grading service on poultry, beans and meats will be increased and the market inspection service established on canned fruits and vegetables. The market news service on livestock and meats west of the continental divide will be expanded also and similar services setup at Louisville, Ky., Casper, Wyo., and Ogden, Utah.

Raskob Pledges His Support to Party Nominee

Says He Will Remain Loyal Regardless of Prohibition Action on Prohibition

Centreville, Md.—John J. Raskob, chairman of the democratic national committee, asserted southern democrats favoring prohibition of his support of the party's nominees in 1932 regardless of the stand taken on prohibition on the democratic platform. Mr. Raskob, before leaving New York for a weekend at his home, replied to a telegram received from the Plattsmouth, Ala., Progress. The telegram, asking the democratic chairman what his position would be if the party nominees in 1932 were for prohibition and the platform was for prohibition follows: "Will you support the next democratic national nominees if they are for prohibition and the national platform is for prohibition. Thousands of loyal prohibition democrats wish to know this."

Mr. Raskob answered: "Certainly I will support our nominees strongly. We should all insist that our platform clearly and honestly define the party position on prohibition and resist any dodging of the issue thru silence or thru adopting any innocuous plank such as law enforcement. The people whose suffrage we are soliciting should not be deceived and are entitled to know the party position."—State Journal.

Brothers Found Guilty; Sentence Set at 14 Years

Verdict Represents Compromise Between Death and Acquittal; 23 Ballots Taken.

Chicago, Ill., April 3.—Leo V. Brothers was convicted late today of assassinating Alfred "Jake" Lingle, Chicago Tribune gangland reporter. The jury recommended a sentence of 14 years' imprisonment, returning its verdict after nearly 27 hours' deliberation, marked by fierce arguments and sudden changes in balloting.

The verdict was regarded as a compromise between acquittal and death in the electric chair. Twenty-three ballots were taken. The verdict was the lightest that could be assigned under the laws of Illinois. The prosecution had said "this cowardly murder" deserved the extreme penalty, which in Illinois is death in the electric chair, but no specific demands for the death penalty were made.

The jury's recommendation as to penalty is not final. Judge Joseph Sabath having the power to alter the sentence. The common procedure in Illinois, however, is to follow the jury's recommendation.

"Why?" Question Unanswered. "Why" Lingle was killed, another question which had thrown Chicago into a turmoil of rumor, remains unanswered. The trial did not bring this out. The verdict came at the end of the third week of the trial. The jury had deliberated for approximately 27 hours without sleep. It had deliberated since 2:24 p. m. yesterday. The case was built almost entirely on identification of Brothers as the man seen fleeing from the Randolph Street pedestrian tunnel the day Lingle was shot down from the back. One man said he saw Brothers drop a pistol near Lingle's body, but no one testified to seeing him fire the shot.

Gazes at Judge. Brothers, as the verdict was read lived up to his reputed impassive demeanor.

Brought in by deputy sheriffs, he leaned calmly against the witness stand, elbow on rail, hand on chin and as the decree was read that branded him as murderer, he slowly raised a quizzing regard Judge Sabath.

Brother's mother, Mrs. Rose Jensen, was not in the courtroom but received the news of her son's conviction in a private chamber remotely distant in another part of the building.

Brother's only comment was: "Let's duck." As deputy sheriff hurried him from the courtroom, photographers rushed forward—but the St. Louis taxicab driver was too quick—only one cameraman got a picture.

Brother's attorneys made a motion for a new trial and it was continued for two weeks.—World-Herald.

TRUCK RECIPROcity VOTED BY SENATE: CHANGES 1929 LAW

Lincoln, Neb., April 3.—Reciprocity with trucks from other states on license requirements was favored in the senate today when it debated and advanced to final vote a bill for that purpose.

The measure, Senate File No. 218, modifies a law passed in 1929 which required trucks from other states to obtain Nebraska licenses if used in Nebraska. The changed measure would allow exemption in case the trucks handle only interstate business.

The bill was chiefly designed to solve a problem arising at markets at Omaha, Sioux City and Nebraska City.

Thousands Meet Rockne Funeral Train in Indiana

Silent Tribute to the Dead Football Coach Paid at South Bend—Will Broadcast Services

South Bend, Ind.—Knute Rockne came back home Wednesday night. As several thousand citizens of South Bend and students of Notre Dame university stood by, the casket containing the body of the famous coach arrived here at 11:05 p. m., from Chicago, completing the last lap of its journey from Cottonwood, Kas., where he fell to his death Tuesday with seven other victims of an airplane disaster. The throng came to pay tribute to a warrior gone to rest. Under an escort of motorcycle police, the casket was removed to a funeral home, to await the return Thursday of Mrs. Rockne. She is due to arrive in Chicago from Florida at 2:30 p. m., with the two younger children, and will proceed immediately to South Bend.

Funeral services will be broadcast from Sacred Heart church on the Notre Dame campus. Permission was granted the National Broadcasting system by Notre Dame authorities. The day of the service has not been decided, pending arrival of Mrs. Rockne.

Wants Rites Saturday. Atlanta—Mrs. Rockne wants all the boys who played for her husband, who was killed Tuesday in an airplane crash in Kansas, to attend funeral services Saturday and "be at the front of the chapel near him to the last." Mrs. Rockne, accompanied by her youngest son, Jack, her daughter Mary Jean, and Mr. and Mrs. Tom O'Neal, stopped here a short time on her way to South Bend from Miami.

Crash Still Mystery. Cottonwood, Falls, Kas.—The crash of the air transport plane which plunged to death Knute Rockne and seven others remained a mystery of the skies after a coroner's inquest which developed the air liner fell from the clouds out of control. What happened above a dense curtain of the clouds to send the craft rocketing earthward with one wing torn off was unexplained by stockmen of the Flint hills who heard the drone of motors, heard their father and then saw the ship hurt in sight from the murk headed for its doom.

Crowds at Chicago. Chicago—Sorrowing men of Notre Dame, heads bared and with tear-filled eyes, stood with thousands of plain every day Chicagoans to receive, in silence, the body of their pal and football coach, Knute Rockne.

As the train bearing Rockne's body from Kansas City pulled into the Dearborn street station, the throng numbering thousands silently looked on.

Aboard the train were two of Rockne's sons, Knute, Jr., aged eleven, and Billy, aged fifteen. They were taking their grief bravely, as true sons of a great father. They had come on from Kansas City where they had been attending school.
