Wiggling the Piston Is "Out"

The old-time mechanic used to "kiggle" a piston inside the cylinder to see if it was loose! But guess-work has given way to precision tools. We work to the thousandths of an inch—and the quality of our repair jobs shows it. Drive in—and let us explain what we mean.

HAIL! HAIL!

A ten minute hail storm can destroy your entire efforts for the year.

Prices of grain are low and perhaps will be low for the crop you are attempting to raise, but suppose you lose it all by a hail storm? In such event one of my hail policies would look mighty good.

Don't take a chance with some stranger and some company you don't know. See me

Seven Killed when Fast Train Strikes a Car

Party of Young Iowa People Victims of a Crossing Accident at Town of Calamus.

Calamus, Ia.—Seven persons, five girls and two young men were killed here when their auto was struck by a westbound passenger train as they drove onto a crossing in the main street of Calamus.

The car drove from behind an east-bound freight train into the path of the passenger, witnesses said. The crossing is protected by a wigwag signal, a bell and a flagman. The signals were working and he attempted to stop the car, the flagman said.

Five of the dead, Martha Berner, Madonna Berner, Bernadette Berner, Monica Berner and Arnold Berner, were sisters and brother. All were from Toronto, Ia., a neighboring town. The other two victims, Mildred and Walter Mumford, the driver of the car, were cousins of the Berners. They were from Des Moines.

One of the girls' bodies was hurled against the crossing signal and was cut in pieces. The car was thrown seventy-five feet west of the crossing and the bodies strewn along the right of way.—State Journal.

BISHOP'S REQUEST DENIED

Washington.—A request by Bishop Cannon for postponement until Sept. 20, of the senate inquiry into his use of campaign funds was denied by Chairman Nyce of the senate investigating committee because the statute of limitations against prosecution in the case would begin on Sept. 18.

"In view of these facts," Senator Nyce wrote the bishop, "it would appear that the committee might incur a grave responsibility if it did not resume its hearings prior to that date."

The senate committee is investigating a complaint that the bishop failed to account for a major portion of the $55,300 given to him as chairman of the anti-Spanish committee in Virginia in 1923 by E. C. Jameson, New York financier.

Mrs. Walters has been very busy the past winter and spring with her musical work as she is greatly in demand for concert and teaching work in the west, but had found a short time to come and enjoy a visit in the old home.

HEARING ON INCOME TAX

The United States court of claims, sitting in Lincoln next Tuesday, will hear the controversy between Heber Hord of Central City and the government. Mr. Hord is seeking refund of $4,000 income tax and interest, amounting to nearly $5,000, which was paid under protest. The tax was on a return filed for 1918, and Mr. Hord compromised with the government on payment of the tax and interest some years later. The government holds that the compromise deprives him of any right to recover.

Testimony will also be taken by the court at Omaha Monday regarding claims of the First Trust company there against the government.

Food Quackery Said to Menace Flour Industry

Faddist Propaganda Is Put in Category of "Bunk" by Research Expert.

Chicago.—Food-fad "quacks" are the successors of patent medicine "fakers" and have done great harm to the flour industry, it was declared here today by Dr. D. C. Lochead, addressing the twenty-ninth annual convention of the Millers' National Federation. As a member of the Mayo clinic at Rochester, Minn., Dr. Lochead has experimented with food fads and found most of them delusive.

How the food fads have injured agriculture was shown by the speaker in quoting figures on bread consumption. Propaganda has been directed against white bread in favor of the rougher breads, it was pointed out. Many people have tried the rougher breads and, not liking them at all, being anxious to return to white bread, have refrained from bread altogether.

Dr. Lochead quoted one expert as asserting that "if Americans ate as much bread per capita as they did before the war, 125,000,000 additional bushels of wheat would be consumed. This would be enough to make unnecessary certain farm relief measures instituted by the government."

Countless years of experience have given most people intuitive selection of foods, "which is in the main correct," observed the physician. "Lately, commercially minded individuals have appropriated certain food ideas, exaggerated their importance, promulgated literature and amassed large fortunes catering to a sometimes perverted appetite which they themselves have helped to create for one particular article of diet."

"They have made the claimed presence or absence of a vitamin as the determining factor as the choice of food material regardless of the presence or absence of other necessary food constituents and in recent years white bread has been attacked as a deficient food, a useless food, even a harmful one."

Dr. Lochead asserted that no one article of food contains all the elements desired, and it should not be expected to when a variety of foods are available.

In particular he repudiated "the statement of the quacks" that two kinds of food should not be eaten at the same meal, that proteins and starches must never be consumed together, that fruits and starch foods are incompatible, and that combinations of two or more kinds of starches or two or more kinds of proteins are extremely bad. In his opinion, this is "all bunk."

EMPLOYMENT FOR DISABLED VETERANS

Employment for hundreds of disabled World War veterans is being provided in the manufacture of memorial poppies for the American Legion Auxiliary. The manufacture of the little red memorial flowers, which the women of the Auxiliary will sell throughout the country within the next few days, is now in full swing. Several million of the flowers have been completed and boxed ready for shipment to Auxiliary Units and many thousands more are being turned out each day by the busy fingers of the disabled men.

The poppy making is being conducted under the direction of the Auxiliary in 21 states. The bulk of the flowers are being made by disabled men in government hospitals and in convalescent work rooms maintained by the Auxiliary. The workers are paid one cent each for the flowers they produce and are limited to from 250 to 300 flowers a day to prevent them from taxing their strength and to distribute the work among as many men as possible. A total of 10,000,000 flowers will be made before the work closes.

The poppies that will be sold in Nebraska were all made by the veterans at the new Nebraska U. S. Veterans' hospital at Lincoln, opened last fall.

The local sale of poppies will be held on the coming Saturday.

PLANT CATFISH IN RIVERS

Distribution of approximately 100,000 catfish in eastern Nebraska rivers and streams has just been completed by a sailing crew of the game, forestation and parks commission, Secretary O'Connell said Tuesday.

The fish, ranging in size from eight to fifteen inches, were taken from the Platte and Missouri rivers and planted principally in the Blue and Elkhorn rivers and tributaries. In the former stream, the fish were placed between the many dams that mark that river.

Thirty days were required to complete the work, O'Connell said. Five seiners comprised the crew. They found the Missouri river low, and were able to seine out more larger fish than had gathered in the holes. All the fish taken for distribution were channel cats.

DEFENSE BEGINS BATTLE

Valparaiso, Ind.—The defense opened its fight to prove Virgil Kirkland innocent of causing the death of Miss Arlene Draves last November at a Gary, Ind., liquor party. The state closed after Dr. R. H. Harger, University of Indiana toxicologist, had testified to finding grain alcohol and nonfatal traces of wood alcohol and formaldehyde in the dead girl's stomach. Upon a defense motion, Judge Grant Crumpacker dismissed a count of murder by attempted rape and ruled that the state must choose to try Kirkland on only one of the two alleged attacks in the third count.
