Clean Tools—Clean Jobs

There's a reason why we keep our mechanics' razors, cutters, augers clean. They're precision tools, and a film of grease or dirt on them can throw them "off" so they no longer do exact work. And exact work is what has made our reputation. Careless jobs fall down and according to 60 miles an hour, as they do nowadays. Precision work in fitting pistons, connecting rods and valves requires clean tools. And our reputation is just as clean as the tools.

Soldiers Win from the Murray Red Sox Sunday

Visitors from Fort Crook Win 9 to 4 in a Whirlwind Finish of Hard Fought Game.

The Murray Red Sox who have been playing a great brand of baseball for the season, Sunday afternoon struck a snag in the form of the Seventeenth Infantry baseball team from Fort Crook, the soldiers taking the Sox by the score of 9 to 4 in a whirlwind finish of the game after the Sox had led the big parade to the fifth inning when the score was 4 to 1 for the Murray team.

The big shot of the game for the Sox was Armatis, university of Nebraska pitcher, who hurled the opening portion of the game, scoring five strikeouts in the three innings that he pitched and the soldiers were seemingly ineffective in hitting him.

In the last innings of the game the military unloosened a bunting game that had the Sox on the hip and allowed runners to reach bases and score runs sufficient to give them a safe margin of victory, also in the eighth the Sox were threatening, but Shasteen, veteran hurler of the soldiers used his old dome and was able to check the rally.

The Fort Crook team and the Sox are to engage again on Thursday evening at the Murray park and a real battle is expected between the two teams.

The tabulated score of the game Sunday was as follows:

SOOTS WAY OUT OF JAIL

Superior, Wis.—C. F. (Red) Haggerty, alleged narcotic peddler, shot his way out of the Douglas county jail here Sunday evening. It was the second time Haggerty had escaped from the county jail here. About March 11 he walked out of the building thru a rise. Sunday's escape occurred when Deputy Anderson brought supper to Haggerty and another prisoner. When the deputy entered the cell Haggerty produced a revolver and holding Anderson at bay walked out of the cell. As he fled from a hallway the corridor Anderson commanded him to stop. Haggerty turned around and fired two shots at the deputy. Both shots went wild. Gaining the door Haggerty ran outside and leaped into an automobile.

Stiff Penalties for Drunk Drivers After August 3d

Measure in Force on Next Monday Provides Heavy Fines and Prison Sentences.

Stiff jail sentences, instead of fines, will be imposed upon persons convicted of driving motor vehicles while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, under provision of S. F. 8, amending and clarifying section 39-1106 of the 1929 compiled statutes of Nebraska.

Three classes of penalties are cited in the law. They are: 1. First offense, 30 days imprisonment in the county jail.

2. Second offense, imprisonment in the county jail not less than 90 days or exceeding six months.

3. Third and each subsequent offense, imprisonment in the penitentiary for not less than one year nor more than three years.

Can't Drive for Year. In addition, any persons convicted on the above charges will be "adjudged and ordered by the court not to drive a motor vehicle of any description within this state for a period of one year from the date of his final discharge from the county jail or penitentiary."

The law further states that any one under conditions who injures, maims, disfigures or causes the death of another person shall be deemed guilty of felony and shall be imprisoned in the penitentiary not less than three years nor more than 10 years.

The old statute, somewhat vague regarding penalties for drunken drivers, according to Senator James A. Rodman (R.), Omaha, sponsor of the bill, merely classed all offenses as misdemeanors, whereas the amended statute makes the third and each subsequent offense a felony.

The only possible provision under which penalties could be imposed on the drunken driving charge, Rodman stated, was that which governed the entire act, relating to reckless driving when no one was hurt or killed. This provided for only a fine of not less than $10 nor more than $50 on the first offense and not less than $50 or imprisonment not exceeding 30 days for other offenses.

"My idea is to have jail and penitentiary sentences, in place of fines, is to see if the humiliation which usually accompanies imprisonment of any kind will have any effect on lessening the number of drunken drivers on our streets and highways," Senator Rodman pointed out.

Omaha Girl Fatally Injured in Accident

Crushed Between Auto and a Road Grader—Youths Held Pending Investigation.

Papillion—Crushed against a road grader near here while riding on the running board of an automobile, Miss Ruby Kudrna, nineteen, of Omaha, was killed early Sunday.

Miss Kudrna's death was a tragic monument of an all night party in honor of her nineteenth birthday. Miss Mabel Storm of Omaha was driving the car at the time the girl suffered her fatal injuries.

A prank played by the two girls on their boy companions resulted in the fatal crash. Roy Downen, Axtell, Kas., Miss Kudrna's fiancé, and Edward Sterkel, of Omaha, were fixing a flat tire, and the girls took their car and sped down the road a half mile.

While returning the brakes failed at a corner and Miss Kudrna was swept against the grader. She suffered three wounds and died an hour later, being brought here. Both youths were arrested pending completion of an investigation of the death.

County Attorney Nickerson said the youths at first told him they had driven to Axtell, but later admitted they had only been riding in the vicinity of Omaha. The party, they said, served the double purpose of celebrating Miss Kudrna's birthday and as a farewell for Downen, who was to have returned to his home Sunday.—State Journal.

Seventy-five Cass County 4-H club members and local leaders are attending club camp at Bellevue this week. They are participating in the making of plaques, food demonstrations, first aid demonstrations and practice.

Swimming, canning, pottery, swimming, baseball and horseshoe are featured. Saturday, August 1st is visitors day. Come early and enjoy the morning with the campers as camp breaks up at 2 p. m.

How 4-H Club Members Use Money

The opportunities offered farm boys and girls for incomes through 4-H club work are significant, it is pointed out in an analysis of some 200 reports from selected club members in 29 states. In this summary, recently received by the United States Department of Agriculture, 84 percent of the members report that club work has provided income through products sold, prizes and other benefits won, and the acquisition of farm property consisting their "capital" for future operations.

One club boy said: "Except for $200 from my father and about $700 earned outside, the cattle and poultry and their offspring have paid my way through college." Another boy reports: "Club work has enabled me to build up a purchased Holstein herd, valued at more than $4,000, besides calves sold this year at $1,085." Frequent mention is made of scholarships won to colleges, trips to camps and fairs, and money prizes.

Earnings from club activities are utilized in about five different ways, according to the analysis made of the reports. About one-third of those reporting said their earnings were applied to school and college expenses. Personal needs absorbed 17 percent of the earnings. Another 17 percent was invested. In most cases the investment was in livestock or other farm property. Twelve percent went into permanent savings. Home improvements were paid for by 6 and three tenths percent of the money obtained. Fifteen percent of the members in the survey did not report on their incomes.

Mothers' Vacation Camp

Enrollments for Mothers Vacation camp must be turned into the state office Friday, August 7th, so if you are interested in attending camp get your application in as soon as possible.

Sprays Barn Instead of Cows

Spraying the barn rather than the cows is a more satisfactory method of fighting flies, Dr. P. A. Downs of the Agricultural College at Lincoln, says. He extracts a pound of flowers of pyrethrum with a gallon of kerosene and sets it stand for about two weeks and then sprays it on the inside of the barn with a sprayer having an atomizer nozzle. Sometimes oil of wintergreen is used to deodorize the mixture.

All the cows are driven out of the barn before the spray is applied. The dead flies are swept up on the floor and disposed of. Windows of the barn at the college are painted with blue alabaster to darken the barn and also to keep it cooler inside.

Get Weeds in Stubble Fields

Plowing land July 15 and disking it August 15 to kill weeds and pack the soil has been the best method of preparing land for winter wheat at the experiment station farm at Lincoln. Disking the stubble field the middle of July followed by plowing the middle of August was the second best method over the same period of years. The first method resulted in a yield of about 31½ bushels per acre while the second gave about 30 bushels per acre.

Getting rid of the weeds and conserving the soil moisture in the fall by either of the methods seems to account for much of the high yield of the following crop. With present wheat price prospects for the coming year, the farmer who gets a high yield from a small acreage in 1932 without too much expense, will probably be ahead of the man who gets a low yield from a larger acreage.

Even tho the land is not to be put into wheat this fall, it is good farm management to keep down the weed crop by mowing, pasturing, plowing or listing the ground this month. Not only will the weed seed crop be destroyed but much soil moisture will be stored in the soil for next year.

D. D. Wainscott, Cass County Extension Agent, says H. Baldwin, Ass't County Extension Agent.

Farmer to Hear How Electricity Can Assist Him

Industry to Begin Educational Campaign to Teach Its Uses to Agriculture.

Chicago—With an ultimate goal of 3,000,000 electrified farms in the United States utilizing 18,000,000,000 kilowatt hours of electricity a year, a committee on the relation of electricity to agriculture yesterday made known its plans for an intensified educational campaign among farmers on the use of electric power.

This is approximately five times the number of farms now receiving electric service.

"An American agriculture without electricity," Dr. E. A. White, director of the committee, told the directors at their meeting here, "is simply unthinkable. In many quarters the conviction exists that one of the most significant developments of the next 10 years will be the growth of electric service for farms—growth both as to the number of customers served and amount of energy used."

The farmer, he said, is beginning to understand that the most direct route to cheap electric service—after the last word has been said on reducing the costs of distribution lines, regulation, and so on—is through increased use, and he is already past the point of making up his mind as to whether or not he wants electric service, but is now interested in how he is going to make the most use of it when he can afford to get it.

The manufacturers and merchandisers of equipment are sensing this situation," he said. "Instead of asking, 'Is there a rural electrification market?' the questions are 'what does this market demand? how can we reach it?'"

It is in this attitude that the committee on rural electrification is approaching its educational campaign. It plans to put into the hands of farmers a bulletin containing the latest information on more than 100 rural uses for electricity, and to cooperate with the American Home Economics Association in distributing a series of pamphlets covering rural electrification from the woman's point of view. The committee also plans an educational exhibit at the Century of Progress Exposition here in 1933.

In co-operation with the University of Wisconsin the committee is preparing for publication of a series of lessons on rural electrification for vocational agricultural students for which, according to Dr. White, there is an increasing demand.

TWO CUBANS ARE CAUGHT

New York—A trunkful of surgical and military supplies said to have been intended for Cuban revolutionists, was seized by authorities and two men were held. Both are Cubans. The trunk contained two complete uniforms, metal helmets, flashlights and numerous bottles of medicines used in treating gunshot wounds. The two arrested gave their names as Emilio N. Robaina, forty, who said he was a newspaper man, and Jorge de Zaldo, thirty-three, who claimed to be the son of a distinguished Cuban family. Robaina was held on charges of inciting to revolution.

Havana—Emilio N. Robaina and Jorge de Zaldo are well known to police here, the secret police said. De Zaldo was well known as a polo player and is the son of Carlos de Zaldo, prominent Cuban banker.
