MANY people, two hours after eating, suffer indigestion as they call it. It is usually excess acid. Correct it with an alkali. The best way, the quick, harmless and efficient way, is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained for 50 years the standard with physicians. One spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in stomach acids, and at once. The symptoms disappear in five minutes.

You will never use crude methods when you know this better method. And you will never suffer from excess acid when you prove out this easy relief.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drug store.

Masterpieces of Art.

Women in the project clubs of the county are studying this month ten pictures which are considered masterpieces. The women are also learning to recognize and use principles of light and dark patterns, lines, balance and centers of interest. How the artist happened to paint the original pictures forms one interesting addition to the monthly extension lesson. The masterpieces being studied are:

Whistler—Mother of the Artist.
Corot—Spring.
Daubigny—The Pool.
Pissarro—Red Roofs.
Chardin—Saying Grace.
Le Brun—Madame Le Brun and Daughter.
Melchers—Christ At Emmaus.
Raeburn—The Boy with the Rabbit.
Max—Anna Brizetta.
De Hooch—Dutch Interior.

Speaking of where and how to hang the masterpieces, the project leaders are telling the club members that "Dutch Interior" should hang in a living room with simple furnishings. This picture should hang over a desk or beside a chair where one can study it closely. Because of its bright color, it might hang in a comparatively dark corner. The ladies are learning similar principles about each of the other pictures. They expect to apply the principles to use of all pictures in their homes.

Thanksgiving Program Suggestions.

Extension circular 544 available through the agricultural college at Lincoln and offices of county extension agents, contains suggestions for a paper which might be read at a Thanksgiving gathering of community people, a young youth, and short playlet, "Modera Youth and Thanksgiving." A few other suggestions for this season are given in Extension Circular 515, also available free of charge.

D. H. I. A. October Report.

Twenty-four herds, with 247 cows, were tested by E. L. Stevens, tester for the Cass-Otoe-Johnson Dairy Herd Improvement Association.

The average production of the 247 cows was 644 lbs. milk and 24.9 lbs. butterfat. The average total feed cost per cow was $4.07. This includes pasture, hay, silage and grain, each figured at market price. The average value of product from each cow, figured at market price, was $19.71. This leaves $6.64 per cow as value of product above cost of feed for the month. For every dollar expended for feed, the return was $2.64 in product. The feed cost was 16c per pound of butterfat or 61c per 100 lbs. milk.

All these men find a few good dairy cows properly fed and cared for are paying them a little more for their time than anything they have on the farm at present.

Harry Bricker of Greenwood has nine good Holstein cows and has recently purchased an excellent herd sire, W. O. Hoffmann of Alico has also purchased a new herd sire. He has nineteen purebred and grade Holstein cows.

Both of these men are building up a good herd and have spent considerable time in choosing a bull for their herd.

Oats Put Gains on Calves.

Stock calves gain almost a pound per head per day during their first winter when fed a ration of prairie hay and two pounds of oats per head per day, according to three successive experiments at the Valentine substitution of the University of Nebraska. Similar calves on prairie hay alone gain little better than hold their own in weight during the winter, gaining from 26 to 38 pounds per head in the three winters. While the thin, stunted calves gained more rapidly on pasture the following summer, they never caught up with the oats fed calves, nor did the stunted calves make as much profit at the end of their second summer.

In the same three tests, two pounds of oats replaced from 35 to 50 pounds of prairie hay in putting on a pound of gain on the calves. Farmers who have both hay and oats to feed can compare the farm value of two pounds of oats with 35 to 50 pounds of hay and decide whether or not it pays to feed oats to the 1931 crop of calves. Figuring prairie hay at $5 per ton, oats at a cent a pound, and pasture at $2.50 per head, E. M. Brouse, Superintendent of the Valentine station, says they put the extra gain on the oats fed calves during both winter and summer for $4.62 per hundred.

As long yearlings off of grass, the oats fed calves weighed 862 pounds while the hay fed calves weighed 771 pounds. The feed bill for the oats fed calves was only $4.11 more per head than that of the hay fed group. The calves weighed the same when started on the test at weaning time.

4-H Livestock Sell High.

Eleven boys and girls from Cass County exhibited baby beavers, fat barrows and fat wethers at the Ak-Sar-Ben.

Five baby beavers exhibited at the show by Elsworth, Arnold and Orland Stohlman, sold in the auction for an average of $12.25 per cwt. Six fat wethers exhibited by James and Robert Wall, Milford Smith and Dwayne Reed sold for an average of $9.00 per cwt. These six lambs also won $19.00 in premium money.

Eighteen barrows exhibited by James and Florence Schaefer, Vincent and Frances Rehmeier and Milford Smith, sold for an average of $5.60 per cwt. and won $172.00 in premium money in both the club and open divisions.

4-H club members from the county have always won considerable premium money at the Ak-Sar-Ben and the livestock has never failed to bring a price much above the top market prices.—D. D. Waincott, Cass Co. Extension Agent, Jesse H. Baldwin, Ass't. Co. Extension Agent.

Airplane Crash on Raymond Hild Farm at Mynard

Omaha Young Men Flying Plane Have Close Call—Lose Landing Gear When Hit Pole

Harry Collins and Charles V. Taylor, Omaha aviators, narrowly escaped death Wednesday when their plane crashed in the hay field at the farm of Raymond Hild southwest of Mynard and eight miles southwest of this city.

Collins was flying the plane and when the motor failed, he was attempting to bring the plane down in safety in a field of the Hild farm. In making the landing the plane struck a telephone pole and the landing gear was torn from the plane, facing the aviators with the task of getting the plane down without losing their lives.

After hitting the telephone pole the plane continued on into the field, turning over twice, but the two young aviators were able to escape without serious injury.

The plane which was badly damaged is still at the Hild farm to await the necessary repairs that will permit its removal from the scene of the accident. Collins has been flying for the past eight months and Taylor is a student flyer.

A coincident of the wreck was the fact that the plane landed on the farm of Mr. Hild, who for several years was interested in aviation and possessed the only plane in Cass county. Mr. Hild, however, two years ago disposed of his plane.

Union Stock Yards EXCHANGE BUILDING

In our review of important industries, we deem it expedient to call attention of Journal readers to the value of this concern to the farmers and stock-raisers. Just think of the money and business activity that is brought to the community by reason of having the popular Omaha market right here at our door, instead of having to ship hundreds of miles to market in many communities do.

Farmers and stock raisers throughout the west should realize the value of this institution, which, by keeping up price levels for their live stock has been indirectly responsible for higher prices for farm land, thru having this splendid market so near at hand.

The management of the Union Stock Yards in Omaha has always had the best interests of this part of the country at heart and has done its best at all times to serve the farmers and stockraisers in satisfactory manner. Congratulations to them!

under management that is both public spirited and popular.

Commendable publicity and valuable advertising is given our community by this progressive firm, far and wide. Even geographies and other school publications point to Omaha as the second live stock market of the world—made so solely thru the efforts and expansion of the Omaha Yards.

A few years ago when trucking began to come in, the Union Stock Yards was prompt to sense the demand for this new mode of transportation and set about providing extensive unloading docks and today more stock is being trucked to the Omaha market than to any other market in the world. A little later, to keep pace with increasing needs, the Exchange building was erected and here are located the offices of the Union Stock Yards. It is a magnificent building and houses under one roof all the offices and business activities of the yards.

you will know the reason why shippers from far and near are shipping and trucking to Omaha.

Courtesy and accommodation are among the features this concern has to offer its patrons. Two of the most prominent things that win customers and friends for an institution of this kind are absolute reliability and magnanimous service—and everyone acquainted with the Omaha yards and their dealings knows they will stand the acid test of these two requirements. It is because they have won an enviable reputation for fair dealing and straightforward methods that they have earned the confidence of the shipping public and each year has shown a nice increase in the number of their patrons. The farmers have come to know they can absolutely depend upon the Union Stock Yards in Omaha for top-notch service, square dealing and highest market prices at all times. A home institution, interested in home progress and
