Rome and Beyond.

This letter of Paul's (2 Tim.) is often called his "last will and testament." The life of this remarkable man, who changed the map of the world, is fast drawing to a close. This old battlescarred warrior, who had received of the Jews five times forty stripes, save one, thrice beaten with rods, once stoned, thrice suffered shipwreck, a night and a day in the deep, gone hungry and thirsty, through heat and cold, was about ready and also willing to lay his armor down. None of all God's servants have suffered more, for the name of Jesus Christ, than Paul. The word of God, which he spoke to Ananias (Acts 9:16) were literally fulfilled. So are all of God's promises "Yea and Amen" (1 Cor. 1:20.) Paul regards his life as a sacrifice on outpouring of the blood of a sacrifice. (Phil. 2:17) he dees the end hear (Phil 1:23). His tife has been a mighty contest (vers. 7.) This reference is not to a battle but a contest in the games (1 Cor. 9:25). Kept the faith. "The faith" is here regarded as a precious treasure entrusted to him (1 Tim. 1:11; 6:20. 2 Tim. 1:13-14.) "The Crown" a reward for righteousness. St. Paul here carries on the metaphor of the contest in the games, which he had dropped for a moment in the last clause of Vers. 7. At that day-the day of judgment. This crown is guarded by the Judge, and will be given to the winner only. A believer's life and warfare end together. We lay not down our weapons of war give up his trade, rather became on till we lie down in the dust. The avowed enemy of Christianity. Timcourse and the conflict are finished together, though they commence from different terms, yet they ever terminate together. Paul's anticipation of death. I. His life finally reviewed: 1. How he regarded life: (a) as an "agony" or conflict; (b) as a course to be run; (c) as a keep-ing of the faith. 2. What had in his life, actually occurred: (a) He had given up much; (b) he had suftered much. 3. His views in regard to that course. 4. How different his ringing down through the ages, and views are from the review which is repeated by all of his saints "The some take of life: (a) the folly of Lord will deliver me-and will save a wasted life; (b) the wickedness of a life of perverted powers; (c)

Great stress should be laid on the threefold confession of Paul in verse 7. I sum up the whole life of the apostle, nothing more can be acced. The rest of the lesson is of a personal nature. Paul is lonesome in prison; he urges Timothy to corre to him, and on the way stop at Troas and bring the cloak which he had and the prison is cold. He tells about his helpers and companions in the gospel: Demas, or Demetrius, had possessions in Thesalonica, and he preferred to go and look after them. showing that his ardor had cooled of, not that he had forsaken the cause. Seedling Tree Applications Ready. Application blanks and information relative to the seedling trees are now available at the Farm Bureau office. Does the place on which you live have a good windbreak and what about the woodlot? Last year 32 farmers ordered and set out 5700 trees in the county.

The following trees may be had for $1.00 per hundred which covers only the handling, packing and shipping charges: American Elm. Chinese Elm. Russian Mulberry. Cottonwood. There is a fine of 10 cents a week Green Ash, Catalpa, Box Elder, Cara-Yellow Pine and Red Cedar (the latter are not for distribution in eastern Nebraska.

Due to a limited supply of stock not more than 100 Russian Olive, or more than 200 Chinese Elm can be furnished with one order and then only with other trees. An applicant may secure a maximum of 400 for a windbreak and a maximum of 1000 trees for a woodlot.

The trees will not be shipped until spring at the proper time for planting. This usually is about the first of April. Applications will be turn until the supply is exhausted so if you are interested, write or call
