Two other defendants, faced with the possibility of the death penalty, changed their pleas to guilty and the prosecution immediately took steps towards persuading them to testify against the other two.

The defendants whose guilt will be determined by the "death" jury are Edward Pinnen and Ward Swaffell, former assistant state's attorney, who, despite his persistence in his not guilty pleas, has stated he would take the witness stand and "tell all" concerning the gang's operations.

John Pinger, alleged "torturer," and William Thomas were the men who pleaded guilty.

Rosner Asserts Gangmen in Pool to Find the Baby

Underworld Negotiator Says That Old Feuds Were Forgotten in Hottest Search.

New York.—Underworld hostilities were forgotten, Morris Rosner told the World-Telegram, and every organized gang in the country co-operated, at his request, in the hunt for the kidnaped Lindbergh baby. In a copyrighted article, an amazing story is told of the gangsters' search. The high spots of Rosner's story are:

Thousands of dollars were spent by the underworld in the futile effort to solve the great mystery. Airplanes were chartered. Investigators were organized and sent thruout the United States and into Canada following the underworld's own peculiar clues.

"The first thing I did was to go to all the mob leaders and ask them to help," Rosner was quoted as saying. "Every one of them did. They started off by suspecting anybody who was missing from the usual places. That included fugitives from justice and other fellows who were hiding out because they thought they were on the spot in some feud. Every one of them was hunted out and questioned. Each one had to convince his questioner he was hiding for some other reason before he was released from suspicion that he knew about the kidnaping.

"I can't give names and cases, of course, but this is the way it was done: If a fellow was missing, word was sent out thru the grapevine route that we wanted to talk to him. Pretty soon one of his friends would come in and say that absolutely this fellow knew nothing. We would demand to hear that from his own lips. So a meeting place would be arranged in some secret spot. We went to scores of meetings like that. The agreement always was made that if anything went wrong none of us would come away alive.

Took Lives in Own Hands. "You see what it meant. One mob might have the mark on a man. He would be in hiding. We'd go to the other mob to get in touch with him. But we would never break confidence with anybody. I guess we talked to a hundred men who were hiding out. All of them were willing to help. Some of them were taking their lives in their hands to come out of hiding. In one case there was a report a Detroit mob knew something. And what happened? Both here and Chicago the mobs chartered planes and sent delegations to find out.

"Delegations were sent out to dozens of towns, that meant expense. You know how these fellows travel—always in squads of four. There was another case where one mob thought they could lay hands on the baby. They were jumpy about it and demanded that I give myself up as hostage to insure their protection. I was taken to their place near New York and I stayed with them twenty-four hours. After all the trouble, the thing petered out."

"The all this work came to naught, Rosner explained he had been of some service to the Lindberghs.

"They didn't have to deal with mitts," he said. "We handled all the chisellers ourselves and cooled them. I guess we busted up a dozen attempts to chisel in and hoist the ransom."

ASKS HUNTERS' OPINIONS

Opinion of Nebraska sportsmen as to what action should be taken by the federal government in establishing the 1932 hunting season for migratory water fowl has been requested by Frank O'Connell, state game, forestation and parks commission secretary.

His appeal was in response to a federal inquiry for suggestions of state game commissions. Expressions of opinion will be considered by a federal committee which is to meet at Washington in June.

Discussion at this meeting will concern creation of a one, two or three months open season for migratory water fowl this fall. Interest will attach to suggestions that the thirty days consecutive hunting period of last year be broken into thirty days, scattered thru three months. Reduction of the present fifteen bird bag limit and prohibition of use of live decoys will be considered.

SURVIVORS BERATE CREW Aden, Arabia.—Indignation was reported among survivors of the French motorship Georges Phillippar at what they considered defects in the ship's organization disclosed when fire wrecked the vessel Monday. The Phillippar's owners, meanwhile said a new checkup revealed only forty-nine persons unaccounted for in the disaster. Among these they said was the writer Londres Joyeau. The total saved was listed as 718 persons. No Americans were aboard. Some survivors said there was no fire drill on the liner. They said the water tight bulkheads appeared to have been shut hastily, trapping passengers in the blazing cabins. The crew was so busy fighting the fire, others said, that they failed to rouse the sleeping passengers adequately.

BUTLER ASKS NEW PARTY New York.—Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia unshipped 100 White Red baby chicks recently. said the two major parties were dead and issued a call for progressives both organizations to form a liberal party. In an address before the National Industrial conference he predicted that if the people had a real leader to follow they would "sweep the whole discredited fabric of our present-day national political machinery into the dust-bin."

He listed fourteen points he would include in the platform of a new party. They included repeal of the eighteenth amendment; revision of tariff schedules; readjustment or cancellation of war debts and reparations; nation-wide emergency relief for unemployment; insistence on world disarmament, adherence to the world court and complete co-operation with the League of Nations.

HEALTH ROUNDUP PROPOSED Minneapolis.—A summer roundup in which the school yards of the nation will be corrals will be undertaken in July and August on the largest scale in its history by the national congress of parents and teachers. Comprehensive health examinations of children aimed to free them as far as possible of physical and mental defects will be the object of the roundup under plans outlined by Dr. Lillian Smith of Lansing, Mich., chairman of the committee in charge of the project.

Units of the organization in every state in co-operation with physicians, dentists and health workers will seek to prevent the loss of school time by pupils whose defects ordinarily are discovered after school work has begun, Dr. Smith said.

'DOC' LYTLE OUT OF JOB Wymore.—Three months after his release from the Nebraska penitentiary where he served time for a bank robbery he did not commit Alvernon "Doc" Lytle is among the ranks of the unemployed.

If it were not for his brother here, Lytle revealed, his wife and two year old son probably would become county charges.

Lytile was convicted of robbing the Exchange bank of Minden in 1929 upon being identified by four employes of the bank. After serving two years of a twelve year sentence he was freed when another man confessed the crime.

Released from the penitentiary, Lytle succeeded in getting several temporary jobs as a cook. Then he went into vaudeville, appearing with a motion picture he had made, centering about prison life.

"I lost money from the start on the film," he said. "I think the least society can now do for me is to provide me with an honest job."
