WIN SHUCKING CONTEST

The Cass county corn shucking contest was held on Tuesday afternoon at the Charles Frolich farm, two miles east and one mile north of Eagle. There were ten contestants in the event and a good number of interested spectators were on hand to watch the Cass county experts as they gathered in the corn in record time.

The amount of time allowed for the contest was eighty minutes and the contestants kept the ears of corn rattling into their wagons in great shape.

The judges of the event at the conclusion awarded the first place to Herbert Oehlerking, shucking 1803 pounds, or close to 25 and 5-7 bushels of corn, a good record. The other contestants in the first four were Watson Jones, Mr. Barth and Ralph Krause.

There were several very close to the last contestant in the shucking and the entire ten showed well in their work.

Corn shucking is in itself an art and which requires experience to make a good showing.

SHOWING IMPROVEMENT

C. H. Jensen, manager of the local exchange of the Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph company, is showing improvement now after an illness of the past several days. Mr. Jensen has been suffering from an attack of the flu and which was so severe that he was forced to remain in bed for several days. He is some better now, however, and is expecting to be able to be out in the next few days and at his duties as usual.

DISTRICT LEGION SESSIONS

Members of the American Legion in every quarter of Nebraska will assemble during the end of November and the month of December for the annual district conventions of the organization. Dates have been designated and convention towns selected and approved by the state committee for the thirteen district sessions. The first of the district meetings will be held Nov. 28 at Theford, in the fifth district.

Business will include election of commanders in the first, third, sixth, seventh, eighth and twelfth districts and county officers at all the conventions. Posts entertaining the conventions will arrange entertainment features for the one day sessions. Among important subjects which will probably be given the attention of the several district conventions will be the legion's unemployment and relief program. Meetings of the district legion auxiliary will be held in connection with each of the district meetings.

Robert Armstrong, department commander, and Mrs. Olga Webb, department president of the auxiliary, will be speakers at each convention. Other speakers include State Adjutant Dudley, C. G. Beck, regional manager of the United States veterans' bureau or his assistant, E. A. Jones; Sam Reynolds, national executive committeeman, and a representative of the state fund relief committee. The convention schedule by districts:

- Valentine, first district, Dec. 1.
- Albion, second district, Dec. 16.
- Wakefield, third district, Dec. 1b.
- Gering, fourth district, Nov. 29.
- Theford, fifth district, Nov. 28.
- Fulkerton, sixth district, Dec. 15.
- Wahoo, seventh district, Dec. 12.
- Valley, eighth district, Dec. 13.
- Oxford, ninth district, Dec. 9.
- Crete, eleventh district, Dec. 5.
- Plattsmouth, twelfth dist. Dec. 6.
- Falls City, thirteenth dist., Dec. 7.

MEMBER OF NOTED CHOIR

Miss Jean Hayes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Hayes of this city, is one of the members of the Morningside chapel choir, at the Morningside college at Sioux City, Iowa. This is one of the best known musical organizations in the Iowa city and is being organized now for the 1932-33 season. The choir is under the direction of Paul MacCollin. It is planned to have the choir make an extended tour of the east, the exact extent of which has not as yet been determined. The many friends here are pleased to learn that Miss Hayes has been selected as a member of the choir and her splendid voice which has so often delighted Plattsmouth audiences will be a feature of the choir.

Golden Wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. G. Bailey

Well Known Elmwood Residents Celebrate Occasion with Large Number of Friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. G. Bailey celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary Wednesday evening, Oct. 19th, when they were at home to their friends from 7:00 to 10:00 o'clock. Their daughter, Miss Hettie Bailey had arranged for the evening program.

Mr. Bailey came to Iowa with his parents in 1871, and three years later, in 1874, the family came to Elmwood, Nebr., and settled on a farm three miles southwest of Elmwood.

Mrs. Bailey came to Nebraska March 1st, 1878, when the family moved out west from Pennsylvania, and just one year from that date came to Elmwood.

Mr. and Mrs. Bailey were both born in Bradford county, Pa., but first met at Elmwood, where they were married in 1882. Mr. Harry Williams, Mrs. Lou Langhorst, and Mrs. Byron Clements, a sister of Mrs. Bailey were the only guests to be present at both events.

The rooms were decorated with autumn leaves and yellow Chrysanthemums and yellow roses, gifts of friends. Little Miss Rachel Gonzales a granddaughter, had charge of the guest book, and Miss Ethel Langhorst directed the guests to the dining room where punch was served from a crystal service. Crystal candle holders and small baskets of yellow daisies tied with yellow tulle made a very pleasing sight. Presided over by Mesdames Guy Clements, Orley Clements, Vernon Clements and Miss Alma Clements. The punch was made of loganberry juice, brought from Forest Grove, Ore., by their son, Earl Bailey and wife, who came to be present at the celebration.

In the receiving line were Miss Hettie Bailey, Earl Bailey and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Bailey, Warren, another son and wife of North Loup, Nebraska, were unable to be present at the celebration, but came later and spent the week end with the home folks.

Those attending from out of town are as follows: Mr. E. E. Clizbe and son Frank, Mr. Glen Clizbe and Dorothy Fagan, Mr. Arthur Ulbrich and Miss Bernice Clizbe of Council Bluffs, Iowa; Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Neely and Rev. Victor West of Lincoln; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wiles, Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Copenhaver, Mrs. Genevieve Richards, Mrs. Lois Gray, Mrs. Esther Bartling, Mr. Frederic Bartling all of Syracuse; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hedges, Mrs. R. F. Vanvorhes and Mark Hedges of Harvelock; and Mr. and Mrs. Earl J. Bailey of Forest Grove, Oregon.—Elmwood Leader-Echo.

VISITS THE OLD HOME

W. J. Lorenz, who for the past fourteen years has been making his home on his farm near Blount, South Dakota, arrived here Friday for a visit with his brothers, L. W. and E. A. Lorenz. Mr. Lorenz came here in 1901 with his brother Emil, to establish the present successful grocery and meat market of Lorenz Brothers. He later sold his interest to his brother, L. W. Lorenz, and removed to Butler county, where he was engaged in merchandise business over a period of several years. Following the death of his wife Mr. Lorenz moved to a farm in South Dakota and since that time has resided in that locality. The past week he has sold his farm equipment and leased his farm for the coming year. He states that the farmers of his section were badly affected by the drought of 1931 and which has, with the low prices of the farmer's crops this year, made it a hard matter for the farmers to hold their places. Corn, Mr. Lorenz states, was selling at three cents a bushel in his locality. He will visit here for a short time with his brothers and their families and expects to later go to California where he will spend some time and may decide to locate.

Missouri Pacific to Fight Order on Brakeman-Porter

Railroad Starts Action to Restrain Commission as Well as Officers of State.

The Missouri Pacific filed suit in federal court at Omaha Wednesday to restrain county and state officials from criminal prosecutions against the railroad for not employing a brakeman on trains. At present a Negro "brakeman and porter" performs the brakeman's duties. The porter-brakeman is paid $120 a month; a brakeman would cost two hundred dollars a month. J. F. Moredick, representing the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, was sustained by the state railway commission October 13 when he complained against the practice. The commission, after dismissing his complaint twice, held this time that on the Missouri Pacific's two Kansas City trains the Negro brake-man-porter arrangement violates the state law, and makes the railroad liable to criminal prosecution.

The law requires a train crew to be made up of five men, one a brakeman. The Missouri Pacific uses five men, one a brakeman-porter, whose duties as porter are "negligible in volume," the petition states.

The railroad contends that the state commission has no jurisdiction in the matter, since the trains involved are interstate, and argues that it is made liable to financial loss in the ruling. The difference in salaries if the change were made would increase its expense $6,700 a year, it says, "reflecting" a gross loss of 125 thousand dollars. If the road were prosecuted on every train movement involved the maximum fines would amount to $1,460,000 in a year, the petition states.

are made defendants in the suit to invalidate the commission order. The railroad charges that Moredick's purpose is to force from the train crews Negro brakemen-porters who have been thus employed for 10 years. It quotes the railway commission opinion as saying that although a Negro brakeman-porter's "race and color disqualify him for holding the position of brakeman, he is capable of performing all these duties and has passed the same examinations required of one who bears the title of brakeman."
