Caught Them Unprepared Upon the coming of cold weather the garage of Robert E. Mathews has been a busy place for those who have good radiators are having them filled with anti-freeze for the cold weather and those whose radiators are not in good condition are having them fixed so as to be sure and hold the anti-freeze solution when they put it in.

The severe cold weather of the past ten days has caused many to get a hustle on themselves in order to protect their cars from serious damage and a good number have come in steaming like locomotives because their owners failed to anticipate such low temperatures at this season of the year.

Cutting the Meat Bill In order that the meat bill may be made less, Harry Schroeder and Rex Peters went to the home of Philip Baskirk, where they bought a very fine red porker, dressing the animal themselves, and now they have some of the finest meat that can be grown in the state of Nebraska.

The Price was Not Right James Bright took a load of cattle to the stock yards at South Omaha in his truck, where he left them for sale, and that day the price slipped and he was not able to get what he wanted, so on Wednesday he went over and brought the cattle back. This would seem to be a good plan, as ordinarily the farmer who takes produce to market is at the mercy of the fluctuating prices. However, the commission charges and added expense of transportation will eat up quite a sum and there is no assurance the next trip will prove any more satisfactory, and the general policy seems to be to "let the tail go with the hide." Let us hope the advent of better prices for farm products is near at hand, for upon the recovery of agriculture depends the return to prosperity.

Smart ... aren't they?

There's a magic beauty about these lovely lace-top Munsingwear Stockings. And they're quite practical too, for though they are sheer and shadowless, they'll wear and wear and wear! Munsingwear quality is the answer. In all the newest, smartest shades and at shrewdly small prices.

Scheduled First Game of Season The Greenwood High school team has arranged for its first game of the basketball season which will be played at the Louisville High gym on Friday evening, December 2nd. The Louisville quintet is said to be an especially good one this year and one of the scheduled games it has with South High of Omaha, but our boys expect to do their best and are hopeful of winning the game. Better go over and lend them your support.

A Decided Change in Business The business lines of Greenwood have been somewhat changed during the past week by the removal from the city of the H. A. Marr Grocery company's stock. They were located in the room occupied by the former state bank before it went the way of the world, together with L. F. Porter who conducted the meat market part of the business. The removal of this stock to Omaha left Mr. Porter with only a market, but he is planning opening a new store on the north side of the street, handling both groceries and meats and is making haste to get the new location ready and his stock of groceries on the shelves to replace the store which was lost last week.

Worked on Birthday Warren A. White, senior partner of the firm of White & Bucknell, had a birthday on November 8th, election day, but spent it working, glad that he had work to do. His partner, George Bucknell, will observe his birthday on December 5th, the same day congress convenes for the short term, and we will be interested in seeing what George does on this occasion as well as what congress may do during this so-called "lame duck" session that will precede the turning over of governmental affairs to the new regime on March 4th.

Of this much we are certain, both these boys add another year to their age every time their respective natal dates roll around.

Very Pretty Home Wedding Last Saturday afternoon a number of friends were gathered at the Fred W. Etheredge home to witness the marriage of Mrs. Edith Rouse-Alton to Mr. Etheredge. Among those present on this occasion were Mrs. Jennie Rouse, of Alvo; Mrs. Walter E. Pailing, of Lincoln; Mr. and Mrs. John Armstrong and Mr. and Mrs. George E. Bucknell.

The marriage lines were read by Rev. W. E. Goings, pastor of the Christian church of Greenwood. The bride and groom were lovers years ago when they were both young, but each married and went out of the other's life, and now in the afternoon of life when they are both single again they are married and with a very pleasant home they are nicely settled and are very happy in their new estate.

The bride is a daughter of the late Clifford Rouse, formerly of near Ashland, and a niece of Mrs. Jennie Rouse, of Alvo, as well as a cousin of Prof. E. L. Rouse, dean of the normal school at Chadron, Neb. She has many friends in Cass county, but has been making her home at Hastings, from whence she came to meet the husband and be married.

The groom, Mr. Fred W. Etheredge is a man whom all of Greenwood and the western portion of the county well know. He is an enthusiastic and active Odd Fellow and a member of the Christian church and has a wide acquaintance.

They had hardly gotten settled in the new home to the bride when a large number of the friends from the Greenwood High school and the Christian church came to call and were welcomed by the bridal party and a very pleasant evening enjoyed, notwithstanding the very inclement weather on the outside last Monday evening.

The Journal, with their many friends, join in extending best wishes and congratulations for this happy couple and for their health and prosperity.

Each member was urged to bring some donation to the December meeting on the 14th at the home of Mrs. Fred Spangler and who will be assisted by Mrs. Ruel Sack. These donations will be turned over to the Associated Charities.

The visitors were Mrs. A. N. Sullivan, Mrs. Newton Sullivan, Mrs. Claude Hutchison and Mrs. Will Hutchison.

At the close of the afternoon dainty refreshments were served by the hostesses and which added to the enjoyment of the occasion.

BRIGHTER DAYS AHEAD Here is good bye to Old Depression Your presence no more we need! You have stayed here long enough, And you have done your wondrous deed! You have put many a man in sorrow, And his nerves you utterly wrecked— For he could not collect or borrow, Then what of him could you expect? He has tilled the soil and done his best, But the clouds they will canish; There will be a bright day, Then he can welcome joy and take a good rest— And to those whom he owes, he will go forthwith and pay.—O.
