MURRAY GARAGE

A. D. BAKKE, Propr.

Murray

Lawrence Nelson, of Omaha, son of Thomas Nelson, of Murray, was down to visit with the father over the week end.

The Murray Construction company is building a culvert some seven miles west of town, the work being supervised by J. A. Scotten.

The newly elected state senator W. B. Banning and Henry Ruhmann, of Union, were business callers in Murray last Monday afternoon.

George W. Berger, who has been working at Ashland for some months past, arrived in Murray last Sunday and will remain here for a time.

Byron Davis, a brother of John A. Davis, who was called here on account of the death of Mrs. J. A. Davis, left last Friday for his home in Denver.

Hon. W. B. Banning and Henry Ruhmann, both of Union, were visiting in Murray on Monday of this week and were looking after some business matters while here.

The Ladies of Murray Presbyterian church will give their annual bazaar supper Saturday, December 3rd. Begin serving at 5:30. Price 10 and 25c. Public cordially invited. 2M

The members of the Royal Workers and the young peoples classes of the Christian Bible school made candy early this week which they will offer for sale at the Thanksgiving day services and dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles V. Barrows departed on Wednesday evening for Hubbell where they went to spend Thanksgiving day at the home of the parents of Mrs. Barrows, Mr. and Mrs. V. F. Browne.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Boedeker and Morgan Stewart spent Sunday in Lincoln, guests of Dr. and Mrs. Gilmore. They report a fine visit and enjoyed a tour through the capitol building while there.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lippold, of Omaha, were visiting for the day last Sunday at the home of Mrs. Lippold's mother, Mrs. Fannie Crosses and Mr. and Mrs. Lon Crosser, where all enjoyed a very fine time.

Dr. and Mrs. R. W. Tyson were in Elmwood one day last week for a short visit and are today, which is Thanksgiving day, enjoying a good dinner at the home of the parents of the Doctor, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Tyson, of that place.

A. D. Bakke, proprietor of the Murray garage, who was taken ill some two weeks ago and was confined to his bed, although some better, has not been able to return to the garage and to his work as yet. It is hoped he will soon be in his former good health again.

Mrs. Roy Hawkins, of Denver, who was called here on account of the death of her sister-in-law, Mrs. J. A. Davis, last week, remained until Saturday, when she went to Lyons to visit with a sister residing there, after which she will return to her home in the west.

Roy Gregg and wife were over to Mynard, where they were guests for the afternoon Sunday at the home of Jake Smith, who recently suffered a third stroke of paralysis and who is in a very serious condition. Mr. and Mrs. Gregg formerly resided near Mynard and are close friends of the Smiths.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Nickles and Mrs. Henry C. Long were over to Omaha last Sunday, where they visited with Mrs. Bertha Shrader, who was injured by being run down by an auto a month or more since. They found her getting along quite well and feeling hopeful of being able to leave the hospital soon.

Mrs. E. W. Milbern and the kiddies were over to Plattsmouth last Saturday, Turkey day, and enjoyed witnessing the chase for the Thanksgiving prizes, turkeys and chickens, as they were released to go to whoever caught them. Twenty turkeys were released and more than double that number of chickens. They say it was a great deal of fun watching the people scramble for the birds.

The 12 Knights of Murray School
"A deed a day is a star in your crown."

The meeting of this organization was called to order by the president, Thelma Townsend and the roll was called by the secretary, Ramond Lancaster, on Armistice day, November 11th.

The committee then gave their reports.

Charles Staska and Wallace Nelson told stories about the World war. The other members brought pictures of events of the World war. Delores Barker brought a table and other members brought things that the United States used in the World war. Flora Bell Meade arranged the scene of the war. For entertainment, Flora Bell Meade sang a song.

Dale Long has one castle of stones. He received these by doing good deeds at home and in school.

On November 18th, one week later, the meeting was called to order by the president and the roll was called by the secretary. The committees gave their reports. The members noticed that everyone was receiving more good deeds. Thelma Townsend, the president, appointed hall patrolmen.

Maxine Hanni and Flora Bell Meade sang a song. Then the members played games and had a very good time.—Charles Staska, News Reporter.

Getting Along Nicely
Henry Heebner, who has been at the hospital in Omaha for the past few weeks, and who returned home a week ago is making very good progress towards entire recovery as his health is now much better and the incisions which were made are healing very nicely now.

Will Hold Revival.
Rev. Boyer, the evangelist who conducted the series of revival meetings in Murray some time since will be here and will deliver the Thanksgiving discourse and will begin with a series of revival meetings at the Christian church in Murray on November 25th, the day following Thanksgiving day. All members of the church and citizens of Murray and vicinity are cordially invited to come and assist in the work of the revival. There is a place for all to work who desire for the field is white unto harvest and the reapers are few. So come and do your part in this worthy work.

Murray Study Club
The Murray Home Study club met at the home of Mrs. A. G. Long last Thursday, November 17th. The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. C. D. Spangler, who during her remarks paid tribute to the memory of Mrs. John Davis, one of the club's most faithful members, who had been called by death since our last meeting. Mrs. Davis was always ready to do her part in the club and will be greatly missed by all the club members.

A vote of thanks was extended to the past members of the Cedar Crest Study club for a silk flag which has been presented to our club by Mrs. Park. It was also voted that each member bring a gift for a child to our next meeting. The Welfare committee will distribute these among needy families to help the children to enjoy a more pleasant Christmas. The members were asked to bring some piece of hand work so as to exchange ideas for Christmas gifts.

Mrs. John Young read a very interesting paper on Thanksgiving. Mrs. John Faris had charge of the lesson. During the lesson hour a playlet was put on by Mrs. Faris, Mrs. Spangler, Mrs. Kennedy and Mary Katherine Long that was enjoyed by the members. There were 21 present at this meeting.

Following the study hour, the hostesses, Mrs. Long, Mrs. W. M. Sporer and Mrs. George Park served delicious refreshments of sherbert, wafers and coffee, which brought to a close another delightful afternoon spent by the club members.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. J. F. Brendel on December 15th.

Mrs. Oldham Doing Fair
Mrs. Sadie Oldham, who was so severely injured some time since, when she fell and fractured her hip, has been getting along fairly well, in fact really wonderful considering the fact that she is over 84 years of age and was lame to start with. Her many friends are hoping she may soon be able to get up and walk around again.

Nabbed Two Fowls
William Crouch, son of Jasper W. Crouch, who is employed by Parr Young, was over to Plattsmouth on last Saturday and took part in the scrimmage for the released turkeys, being able to corral two of the birds, but as the rules were that no one could have more than one, he had to relinquish one, which was turned loose again in order to allow someone else to get a bird for their Thanksgiving dinner.

Dies from Burns
Gust Wienke, who formerly resided here and who was an uncle of Messrs Dewey and Edward Boedeker, was severely burned in an accident at his home near Lincoln, in the northern part of the state, later dying from the effect of his burns.

Returned from the West
Alfred Brandt and family, who went to the western part of the state to work in the beet fields and during the latter part of the season, picked potatoes near Hemingford, have returned to Murray to pick corn. They made fair money while gathering potatoes, but upon completing their work found that the owners of the spuds could not dispose of them and were unable to pay for the picking, so Mr. Brandt and family have lost much of their pay, but are hoping a market will yet be found for the product of their labors, so they can get the money due them.

Dwyer Todd Visits Here
Mr. and Mrs. Dwyer Todd, who make their home in northern Nebraska not far from the Dakota line, were visiting here during this week, guests at the home of his parents. They brought with them some 25 fine turkeys, which they found little trouble disposing of.

Will Hold Meetings Soon
The Rev. Lloyd Schubert, pastor of the Christian church, was here and conducted services both morning and evening at the local church, which has just recently had a new furnace installed. There is being served today at the church a Thanksgiving dinner and supper for the public, preceded by services in the morning. The sermon is to be delivered by Evangelist Boyer, of Stella, who, following the Thanksgiving season will open a series of revival meetings at the church on Friday evening of this week. All interested are requested to come and assist in the services by singing and lending their personal efforts and prayers to the saving of souls. Mr. Boyer is a convincing speaker and will bring a worth-while message at each service.

Having New Tank Installed
The tank used as a reservoir for the water system at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lancaster on the farm, having been in service for many years and being well nigh rusted out, is to be replaced with a new one. The new tank was secured through B. H. Nelson and Ben Noel, who are to install it in place of the old one, thus insuring the Lancaster family a plentiful supply of water.

CEDAR CREEK PROJECT CLUB
The Cedar Creek project club met November 15th at the home of Mrs. Arthur Meisinger, with Mrs. Will Meisinger and Mrs. Arthur Meisinger assistant hostesses. Two members were absent. The lesson was on "Spending the Holidays at Home" and "Making Christmas Gifts." The club holds its Christmas party on December 6th, at the home of Mrs. Victor Stoehr.

Fourteen Families to Enjoy Turkey

This Number Captured in the Free Turkey Day Observance Held Here Saturday.

There will be fourteen families of this city who will enjoy free turkey on Thursday as the result of their activity and skill in capturing the birds which were released here Saturday forenoon and afternoon. In addition there were thirty-five chickens released and which also will aid the larders of many of the local families.

The morning release of birds was made in the business section of the city at 10:30 and in which the lucky ones to capture turkeys were Wayne Hiner, William Kriskey, Earl Embury, Bob Brittain, Mrs. Clair Sheltenberger, Howard Davis and William Crouch.

In the afternoon the scene of the turkey hunt was transferred to the Athletic field where the turkeys found themselves in more native setting and to where the larger number took to the trees along the banks of the field. Those who were successful in the afternoon in getting turkeys were Billy Slayman, George Kalasek, Clyde Brittain, Oliver Taylor, Howard Ballinger, Charles Fulton and Sonny Kopschka.

The committee in charge made no attempt to check the winners of the chickens which were all captured in a few moments after their release. The day as a whole was very successful and attracted a large number of people, both young and old, to witness the chase if not participating.

PLEASANT RIDGE CLUB

The Pleasant Ridge club held a very pleasant meeting at the home of Mrs. Fred Guenther Nov. 15th with fourteen members present.

The lesson for the afternoon was on "Spending the Holidays at Home," and "Christmas Handicraft."

Everyone enjoyed singing the old song, "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia." At the close of the afternoon refreshments were served by the assistant hostesses, Mrs. Paul Hill and Mrs. Phillip Hill.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Herman Hennings on December 6th.

"Stewardship of Life"

Mark 1:16-20; Acts 26:12-19.

Stewardship of money, time and talent is a requisite to a Christian life; but more important is stewardship of life. A fully consecrated life to the Lord Jesus Christ includes the former. Stewardship of life, in the wider sense, means to invest life itself in the service of the Master.

For example, we take Moses, that unparalleled leader, when he received his call, he realized the stupendous work before him, but when God told him that His presence would go with him, he left all and gave his life—all he had—to that great work of building a nation.

The world's needs can only be met by life. It is through giving of his life that the Lord Jesus has blessed the world. We must follow in his train if we would be channels of blessing to humanity.

Another of the great men from God's gallery of fame is Isaiah. Moses received his call in the open at the burning bush, while Isaiah received his call in the seclusion of the temple. It was an overwhelming vision—seeing the Lord sitting on a throne. Beholding the surroundings; hearing the heavenly host in their praise, he realized that he was unfit for such company, and in the agony of his soul, he cried out: "Woe is me! for I am undone; because I am a man of unclean lips, and dwell in the midst of a people of unclean lips; for mine eyes have seen the King, the Lord of hosts." (Isa. 6:7.)

But God has a remedy ready at hand. "Before they cry, I will answer." A ministering spirit is ready to apply the remedy. After confessing his sin, he is absolved. Fire, the symbol of purification. (Mal. 3:2; Mat. 3:11). So prepared, he receives his message. Surely no one would care go without the divine call and the anointing of the Holy Ghost. Faith gave his life to the service of Jehovah.

Another picture shows us the call of four fishermen for life service. Simon and Andrew are disciples of Jesus, but this call is for apostleship. These men were called from their work; he cannot use idle or lazy men in his vineyard. James and John received their call at the same time. All of them did not change their occupation, but only their tools. These men knew four ways of fishing (a) hook and line (Math. 17:27); (b) hand net (Mark 1:16); (c) the bag net for deep sea fishing (Luke 5:4) and (d) the drag net (Math. 13:47).

Fishing in this connection means "to catch alive;" draw out from self and sin into the fellowship of God's people and eventually be fitted for their mansions in heaven.

These four men invested their life, and their reward was a martyr's crown, except John, who died a natural death.

The greatest character, that invested his life for God is the matchless, tireless, most successful missionary, St. Paul. Three accounts of Paul's call are recorded—Acts 9, 22, 26. Trained for a politic-religious career, with all promise of a successful life. That was the kind of a man God could use if converted. The Lord had a hard time to get this proud Pharisee to yield and come under the yoke of Jesus Christ; the suffering of Stephen could not move him; the pleading of men and women whom he punished and caused to blaspheme, had no effect on him; but God needed just such a character—one who would persist and carry a matter through to success. It took one mightier than Paul to subdue him and make him yield and consecrate his life to the King of Kings.

Arrested on the way to Damascus in his mad career—struck with blindness, he finds time to think, to consider. Three days in solitude, taking voice, and by the help and grace of God, the hard heart softens, the penitential tears flow, and behold—"the prayer;" he is ready to take the yoke.

But more is necessary before he can be the invincible ambassador of Christ; it is the infilling of the Holy Ghost. This scholarly young Jewish elder, who could persuade seventy members and the high priest to give him unlimited authority to persecute, says later: "Though I speak with the tongue of men and of angels, but have not love, I am a blaring trumpet or a clanking cymbal."—Weymouth.

Paul testifies that he has a stewardship entrusted unto him: "For necessity is laid upon me." I Cor. 9:16. And this stewardship he could not escape any more than you and I can escape our obligations to God. A life so fully devoted and consecrated is enabled to endure and be spent in His service. (Please read Paul's record in suffering, II Cor. 11:21-23).

Who can measure the extent of the life of this "chosen vessel?" He could say of himself: "I labored more abundantly than all." I Cor. 15:16, and again he repeats: "In labors more abundantly." II Cor. 11:23.

Here read another record of what Paul gave up that his life might be a complete sacrifice for Christ. Phil. 3:8-8. "But what things were gain to me, those I counted loss for Christ." A life spent in the service for God has a sure and rich reward. At the eve of his martyrdom, Paul can say, looking back on a life well spent: "I have fought a good fight . . . henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness." (II Tim. 4:6-8)
