Benefit Dance a Success.
The promoters of the Lewiston band realized that young people must have entertainment and during the existence of this organization have made that the important object.

Last Friday evening they attempted to give a dance in the hall at Murray, trusting to the honor of those attending that there would be no drinking, no acts of any kind that would reflect discredit on the organization and it was certainly carried out to the letter. It was certainly pleasing to see young people have such a good time and these dances will be given every two weeks as long as order can be maintained as it was last Friday evening.

THE OAK

I love that tree on the hill crest,
It has stood through many a storm.
It has a place beneath its branches to rest,
As we construct our thoughts into form.

How rustic it looks in the winter,
As the north-winds sweep thru its bows.
Free from the effects of the sinner,
We are grateful for the whys and hows.

The moss covered seats that stand near,
All covered with snow just now,
But a few more days of sunshine will clear,
The earth I most certainly allow.

When oft through the forest I wander,
And jaded and worn I return,
It reaches out its branches as I ponder,
O'er the things I should always spurn.

When the morning sun flashes its searchlight,
O'er valley and hills so grand,
That sentinel oak still shows its height,
And extends to the wayfarer its hand.

O thou giant of the hillside,
When 'tempests sweep over the land,
May you ever be spared to override,
And faithfully continued to stand.

When the storms of life cease to blow,
And the wanderer seeks a rest,
May he find that place all aglow,
Serene within his breast.

Bible School Lesson Study!
Sunday, February 19th By L. Neitzel, Murdock, Neb.

"Jesus Teaching by Parables the Growth of the Kingdom"
Mark 4:21-34.

The purpose of this lesson is to show us the growth of Christ's kingdom, and our growth in knowledge concerning God, Christ, heaven, the Bible and obedience to God's will. Further to teach and inspire Jesus' disciples and encourage them, with a view of the great things that may be accomplished by the weak and lowly, such as his followers seem to themselves to be, if they were obeying the command of their omnipotent Lord.

We examine first a few important sayings of our Lord. "The shining lamp." The purpose of the lamp is to dispel darkness. When Jesus enters into the life of a man, he dispels darkness, ignorance; then man becomes a light bearer, to others. "Ye are the light of the world; let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works and glorify your Father which is in heaven." Matt. 5:14-16. Not all professed Christians are an honor to their profession; they do not "shine as lights in the world." Phil. 2:15. An infidel became a Christian. "What wrought the change?" someone asked. "One argument I could never meet, and that was the consistent life of my Father." All the mysteries of the kingdom will be made clear. "What I do thou knowest not now, but thou shalt know hereafter." John 13:7. So will all the acts and thoughts of men be made manifest, revealed to the gaze of all the world. "And the books were opened; and the dead were judged out of those things which were written in the books." Rev. 20:12. God is a good bookkeeper, see Mal. 3:16. The solemn injunction is repeated in the Bible 1-178 times; it is very important that men hear. Two ears, one tongue, hear twice as much as you speak. "Thou take heed of what ye hear." How careful must the teacher be, what he teaches. It is not really by the eye we see; it is really by the soul we see. And it is not by the ear we hear. It is indeed by the character we hear. For he that hath, to him shall be given, and he that hath not, from him shall be taken away even that he hath.

Upon you depends existence. Fish in Mammoth cave have no eyes; man on islands or in prison alone for a long time have lost the power of speech. Neglect your God-given talents, and you will lose them. The church is the training quarters, to exercise our religious qualities. The kingdom of God is the reign of God on the earth, in justice, righteousness, peace and love; the commonest operations of the farmer compare to it, the sowing of seed in prepared ground; then he forgets about it, leaves it to the elements, the rest of the process belongs to God. What more can a teacher do, than plant the seed!

Note here nature's process: the blade, the ear, then the grain, then the harvest. A continuous development. The Christian's life must show growth; "growing in grace," "forgetting things that are behind." At first growth is invisible:

"How awful is the thought of the wonders underground, Of the mystic changes wrought in silent dark profound; How each thing is upward tending by necessity decreed, And the world support depending on the shooting of a seed."

The seed makes subjects, that is the blade, they increase, and the grain is in the ear; they form Christian societies and create a Christian atmosphere, that is the harvest. All this was potentially in the seed; the multitudes which no man can number were present by prophecy and purpose in the incarnation. Science is no nearer in solving the mysteries of the origin of life, than it was ages ago. The secret of life, thus far at least, has been held closely in the counsels of omniscience. There will come a time when the Lord will gather up all the results of our life on earth; may we have a goodly harvest to gladden His heart in that day! The mustard seed, the smallest seed known to the Jews in that day. The small beginning of the Kingdom is here portrayed. So was the Kingdom of Jesus Christ; but watch it grow. Jesus alone, then twelve disciples, unlearned men, of the common people. At pentecost we find 120 in a prayer service; before the day ends the number has increased to 3,000. Just a few weeks later there were 5,000; since then by leaps and bounds the number has grown, that today one third of man on earth are enrolled under His banner.

Men often get impatient about the slowness of its growth. Let us not forget that the Kingdom of God is to endure forever; hence we liken it to the growth of an oak. A mushroom will grow over night, it takes a hundred years for the oak. Many of the great movements of the Christian era had small beginnings. A scripture text caught the eye of a German monk and the reformation was born (Martin Luther.) Methodism was born in that Oxford prayer meeting, and John and Charles Wesley became immortal. A single word from an unknown friend, the mustard seed, the tree, John B. Gough, rescued from a drunkard's grave to become the greatest apostle of temperance in the nineteenth century.

There is much in this parable to encourage Christian workers, if the beginning is small, there is a potentiality in every soul, that by the grace of God can become a power for God. Soul of Tarsus is an example. D. L. Moody, this great layman preacher, a store clerk, when filled with the Holy Ghost, led thousands to the Savior, Frank S. Mead in his year in "Christian Herald," should be read by all men.
