VISIT IN THE CITY

From Wednesday's Daily
Attorney C. S. Worthman of South Bend, was in the city today to look after some legal matters and visiting with the old time friends. Mr.
Worthman is making his home on the farm that has been in the possession of the family for many years,
dividing his time between the farm
and the law office that he maintains at Ashland. He has had several suits
in the federal court since opening
the office at Ashland as well as many cases in the county and district court
of Saunders county, since the office was opened. Mr. Worthman is a native Cass county man and has spent a period of some twenty years in Oklahoma where he was a distinguished figure at the bar. He has been invited to deliver the commencement addresses for the Greenwood
and Elmwood high school this spring.

FIRE INSPECTOR HERE

L. J. Hennings, representing the fire inspection department of the state
fire marshal's office, was here Monday and today looking over the city.
Mr. Hennings is making an inspection of the business section of the city and where fire hazards may exist
the owners of the buildings or tenants are notified. Mr. Hennings,
where these conditions may exist,
calls attention to them and with suggestions how they may be corrected
and the property safeguarded.
The fire inspection is a benefit to all communities and especially in the larger places where extremely dangerous fire traps are allowed to exist.

History of Feast of Holy (Maundy) Thursday Given

Miss Jessie Robertson Traces Origin of Feast That Marks Institution of Holy Eucharist.

Date varies, as it is the Thursday preceding Easter Sunday. It is also known as Shere Thursday from the custom of shearing the hair which the priesthood used to observe. It is the oldest of the observances peculiar to Holy Week. The word "Maundy" comes from the Latin mandatum, meaning "to command," with reference being to John 13:34: "A new commandment I give unto you, That ye love one another."

The feast of Maundy or Holy Thursday solemnly commemorates the institution of the Eucharist.

About 19 centuries ago a band of thirteen men gathered in an upper room to eat together a commemorative supper. The ceremonial meal seemed especially significant to Jesus, for He realized that very soon He must leave His friends and He wished the supper hours to be a time of close and memorable fellowship.

To impress His serious thought upon His friends, the Master broke bread and then, using figures of speech in the Eastern manner, said, "This is my body, broken for you." In the same way He called attention to the wine, saying, "This is my blood, shed that many may live."

He was in an Oriental home where according to custom, guests upon entering took off the sandals which protected their feet from the dust and sand of the highway. Ordinarily a servant, or a younger member of the family, was stationed at the door to wash the feet of all guests. There at the door of the upper room where the brotherhood had gathered, were basin, towel and ewer of water but no servant. Now, slipping off His long, outer garment that He might look like a servant while He performed humble duties, the Master poured water into the basin, took a towel and began to wash the feet of His followers.

Thus on the first Maundy Thursday our Great Teacher, taught a beautiful lesson of humility and usefulness.

After the church was established and the Gospels written, early Christians pondered the meaning of Christ's example. From the 4th century ceremonial foot-washing became yearly more common, until it was performed by the Pope, all Catholic sovereigns, prelates, priests and nobles. In 1530 in Our Lady's Chapel at Peterborough Abbey, Cardinal Wolsey washed the feet of 59 poor men and afterward gave them each man 12 pence in money, 3 ells of good canvas to make new shirts, a pair of new shoes, a cast of herrings and 3 white herrings. Queen Elizabeth performed the ceremony, and James II was the last English sovereign to follow the custom, which was abolished in England in the 18th century. But it continued in Spain until the overthrow of the monarchy a few years ago. Certain churches of today, observe the custom.

In Roman Catholic churches the ringing of bells ceases, the altar is stripped after vespers, and the night office is celebrated under the name of Tenebrae. The sacred oil is blessed and the chrisms prepared.

It is very fitting in this period of stress and depression that we think of the example and lesson of humility that Christ taught nineteen centuries ago.

Death of James Janca Occurs at Omaha Today

Well Known Resident of This City Passes Away After Illness of Some Duration.

From Monday's Daily
This morning at the St. Catherine's hospital at Omaha, occurred the death of James Janca, well known resident of the west section of the city and who had made his home here for a long period of years.

Mr. Janca was sixty-nine years of age and came to the United States from his native land of Bohemia, when a young man. Locating in this city he was engaged in railroad work at the local Burlington shops and was engaged there until 1922 and since that time has been engaged in looking after his acreage in the west part of the city. In the last few months Mr. Janca had been failing in health until his condition became such that it was found necessary to have him taken to the hospital.

The deceased is survived by the widow and five children, Mrs. Mary Luckacek, of Kingfisher, Oklahoma; Mrs. Grant Olson, Omaha; Rose and Frank Janca of Omaha; Anton Janca of Havelock.

The body was brought here to the Sattler funeral home to await the arrangements for the funeral services.

SPLENDID OPENING SERVICE

The first of the Holy Week services in which several of the local churches are joining, was held Monday evening at the St. Luke's Episcopal church. The service was impressive and participated in by the ministers of the Methodist, Presbyterian, Evangelical church and Canon Pette, rector of St. Luke's and host minister.

The psalm of the day was given by Rev. C. O. Troy of the Methodist church, the scripture lesson by Rev. O. G. Wichmann, St. Paul's church while the prayers were given by Canon Pette.

The address of the service was by Rev. H. G. McClusky, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, who had as his message "The Atonement," a strong and forceful message of the Lenten season.

WINNIE MAY NOT HANG

From Wednesday's Daily
Dispatches today say that the Arizona state prison warden will demand that a jury decide whether Winnie Ruth Judd, trunk murderer, has become insane since entering the prison, before he makes arrangements for her execution by hanging as now provided. If found insane she will be sent to an insane hospital.

SERVICE FRIDAY EVENING AT METHODIST CHURCH

A group of young ladies of the First Methodist church have planned a service for Friday evening to which the public is cordially invited. In this service the thought and spirit of Good Friday will be carried out in that forceful and striking message, "The Challenge of the Cross." There can be no more appropriate way to close these services of the Holy Week than attending this service. While the preparation of the program has entailed a great amount of work by these young ladies it will be well worth the effort and sacrifice. Do not miss this service.
