HERRIOT LEFT BEWILDERED

S. S. He de France.—Former Premier Herriot, frankly bewildered by the shock of America's abandonment of the gold standard, was understood to feel that all the plans for his Washington discussions with President Roosevelt had been exploded. Furthermore, it was pointed out, he felt that some adjustment must be made to meet the new situation. Members of the group of French experts accompanying him expressed consternation of the report of the American action, one of them exclaiming, "We might as well turn around and go back home." Responsibility for readjustment of the French plan, of course, rests with the government in Paris. M. Herriot conferred with government leaders by wireless. Members of the former premier's party said they felt France now had been placed in an extremely difficult position without warning. It was recognized that there would be a stiff fight in Paris for and against the devaluation of the franc. Tremendous interest was displayed regarding what measures the British would adopt to meet the situation.

HUSBAND ACCUSED BY WIFE

Denver.—Miss Anna Collins and O. C. Nance, former beauty shop proprietor of Wichita, Kas., were held in jail pending an investigation into charges lodged against Nance by his wife, Mrs. Hazel Nance. Authorities quoted her as charging Nance with deserting her when she was ill in a Wichita hospital and taking $125 of her funds to flee to Denver from Wichita with Miss Collins. Mrs. Nance, police said, told them her husband and an unnamed man pushed a sheriff from a moving train near North Platte, Neb., about ten years ago and that the sheriff was killed. She said she did not know the sheriff's name. Nance denied the charge, saying he only witnessed the death and had no connection with it.

Arbor Day is Nebraska's Own Original Holiday

Created in 1872 to Honor the Work of J. Sterling Morton in Developing Forestry.

April 22nd stands out as Nebraska's own holiday, a tribute to the life and service of J. Sterling Morton and the pioneers of Nebraska who by their tree planting and horticulture work in the territorial days made possible the splendid forestation that now exists in the state. Mr. Morton at his estate at Nebraska City, Arbor Lodge, set the example to the first settlers of the territory by setting out fruit trees, shade trees and many varieties of trees not native to the state which might be developed into use to the settlers of the new state.

The movement was adopted by the early settlers in this section of Nebraska and trees of all varieties suitable to the climate of the state were soon planted, the small groves around the homes as shade and windbreaks in the early days.

In 1872 the state of Nebraska took formal recognition of the splendid work of Mr. Morton by setting aside April 22nd of each year to be known as Arbor Day, an occasion when the people of the state were urged to set out and plant trees, plants and shrubs for the beautification of the state and to insure a proper amount of forestry in this section of the west.

Arbor Day is recognized now in many of the states of the union, although they have varying dates according to the locations of the state as to the planting season.

The passing of the holiday here today was marked by many planting trees as the originator of the day had urged, but no formal public observance was made of the event.

The banks and part of the county offices were closed in honor of the holiday, however.

NORFOLK MAN DISAPPEARS

Norfolk, Neb.—Police have been enlisted in an attempt to pierce the veil of mystery that surrounds the disappearance of William Druck, about 28, prominent young Norfolkian, who has been missing since Monday night, Chief of Police Profahl announced.

Relatives of Druck fear the young man has met with foul play and his aunt, Mrs. Ed Zellner, Norfolk, has expressed the opinion that he may have been kidnaped.

Druck, who made his home with his brother, Otto Druck, Norfolk, left that place Monday evening telling the family he planned to go to the city council meeting at the city hall. He did not appear there, however, and since leaving his home has not been seen, Chief Profahl stated.

Mystery surrounding his disappearance has been increased by the fact that he apparently took no money or clothes with him.

BLAMES SOLONS FOR RACKET

Washington.—Asserting the use of the congressional record by senators and representatives to "extend their remarks for local consumption" was a "fraud and a racket," Representative Cannon said he would introduce a bill to reduce the number of copies given each member to congress. Cannon said his bill would save the taxpayers $4,000 a day. At present 31,000 copies are distributed daily while congress is in session.

THE LURE OF NATURE

Oh, for a tramp with my dog at my side—
What a wonderful old comrade is he—
To share in the journey, whatever betide
Of weal or of woe that may be.
With eyes all alert and ears ever keen
To catch the first note of alarm;
Or to "drop at heel," and wait, I ween,
For a sign or a sound of harm.
With never a growl or a menacing word,
Standing by for an S. O. S.,
Till a move and a jump means he has heard
My whispered release of a "Yes."
Then we wander afar through the wood and hill—
Take a rest at the close of the day;
Unpack our duffel, eat our fill,
And "chase dull care away."

A pipe, a "drag," then sweet repose—
A sound sleep through the night;
Greet at dawn the sun's first glow of rose—
Truly a glorious, welcome sight,
A dip in the stream, a bite to eat.
Pack up, and thus on we go,
To find in Nature's vast retreat
Her vernal beauty, all aglow.
With head bowed down, a contrite heart,
A soul alive with praise,
Breathe a silent tribute, "ere we part,
To her grand and marvelous ways,
With kindler feelings stirred to zeal,
And love toward my fellow men,
My homeward footsteps wake the feel
That I'll take that tramp again."
