

Often Overlooked

LEAKY gaskets are often overlooked as a cause of hard-starting motors. Yet a leaky cylinder-head or intake-manifold gasket can handicap a motor in starting—and in running—to a great extent. Better let us check over your gaskets—it's inexpensive to replace them.

Make Purchase of Trucks

The Murray Transfer company, which is composed of Frank Mrasek and son, Earl, have purchased three International trucks, which are manufactured at Fort Wayne, Indiana. The firm has been operating two of this make of truck heretofore and is well pleased with the service which they have given, so decided to make purchase of new ones of the same make. On Friday of last week, the Messrs. Mrasek and Ralph Kennedy drove to Fort Wayne in the car of Mr. Kennedy, and after receiving the trucks, loaded the car of Mr. Kennedy on the chassis of one of the trucks and drove them back.

It was the intention to have also brought three other trucks to Omaha for the distributing agency there, but the business has been very brisk and the factory could not spare any for the Omaha branch except the three purchased by the Mraseks. Since the purchase of the three trucks, prices have been advanced considerably.

The gentlemen were shown thru the factory and were given a good insight to the repair and maintenance of the trucks by this concern. Leaving South Bend on Friday for home, they arrived here on Sunday afternoon. They tell of conditions as they found them in the farming communities along the line, they state the season is even more backward than in this vicinity with very little corn planted in Iowa and Illinois and almost none in Indiana. They tell of many places where there is water standing in the fields to a depth of two feet and not a stalk cut as yet, for they are standing sticking out of the water. Their trip has enhanced their opinion of eastern Nebraska, and they believe our own state is the best one in the corn belt. Well they may, too, for eastern Nebraska is hard to beat as a farming community.

Frank J. Domingo, the Weeping Water banker, was among those visiting in the city Tuesday afternoon and calling on his many friends in this community.

HAS GREAT RECORD

The Bee-News of Sunday a very interesting story on Clarence Cotner, local bus driver, which was as follows:

"More than 800,000 miles in 12 1/2 years without accident is believed to be an all time record for bus drivers operating out of Omaha. To have missed only five working days in all that time is believed to be another record."

"Honors for both records must be accorded Clarence C. Cotner, 42, independent operator of a bus line between Omaha and Plattsmouth."

"For more than 12 years in rain or shine, winter or summer, day and night, he has hauled passengers from Omaha to Plattsmouth, and Plattsmouth to Omaha, until to put it in his own words, 'I know every man woman, child and dog on the route.'"

"Cotner making the 20-mile run three times a day on strict schedule has come to know his passengers by their first names. He has 'tended babies, taken cakes to Mrs. Jones, flowers to the sick,' and ran errands for friends at both ends of the run until he has become a sort of 'inter-county institution.'"

"The Cotner schedule leaves him but little time for recreation, and only allows for about an hour and a half with his family at Plattsmouth. He leaves Plattsmouth on the first run at 8:30 a. m., returning on the run from Omaha at noon, with a half hour for lunch. Back to Omaha 2 p. m.—sleeps till 4 p. m., out at 5 p. m., with a half hour for dinner, then back to Omaha for the final return trip to Plattsmouth at 10:45 p. m."

"My wife and 15-year-old son, Donald, are usually asleep when I get in at midnight," said Cotner, "and I don't get to see much of them, but that is one of the penalties for being a traveling man."

"Starting with a seven-passenger car in 1921, Cotner built up his business until of late he has been operating at 21-passenger bus."

Farm Group Leaders Feel a Strike Useless

Believed It Will Receive Scant Support in This State—Scheduled to Begin Saturday.

Omaha.—Leaders of two large farm organizations assert the farm strike scheduled to start Saturday will receive scant support from the vast majority of farmers in this territory. They were H. G. Keeney, president of the Nebraska Farmers Union and Otto Pfeiffer, president of the Nebraska-Iowa Co-operative Milk association.

Keeney, who is also vice president of the National Farmers Union, said that while attending a series of union meetings during the past month "I didn't hear a single farmer talk about a farm strike."

"They seem to realize," he added, "that no matter how much temporary good or harm a strike might do, the farmer's chance for permanent betterment lies thru strengthening his own co-operative organization."

Both Pfeiffer and Manager A. N. Heggan of the milk co-operative industry issued a statement in the association's official publication which described the strike call as "decidedly unpopular."

"Possibly the farmers involved started out with a worthy thought in mind, but lost control of themselves under the tenseness of the situation," the published statement read. "Farmers have a right to a voice in the sale of their products but that voice must come thru a co-operative marketing organization rather than mob violence."

Pfeiffer predicted that his group which has 2,500 members in Nebraska and Iowa, would be solidly behind authorities in efforts to keep roads open for transportation of milk and other products to market.—State Journal.

WESTMINSTER GUILD

From Tuesday's Daily

Last evening the home of Mrs. John Gorder was the scene of a happy gathering of the Westminster Guild.

The meeting under the direction of Miss Ruth Wurga, was opened with a song service of the much enjoyed familiar hymns.

The lesson dealt with the mission work that is being done in "Meopotomia" and furnished material for a lively discussion.

The business meeting was begun and attention was given to both old and new business. Committees were appointed for various duties. After some time the meeting adjourned. Then an informal good time was had.

At an appropriate hour dainty and delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. Gorder. In serving Mrs. Gorder was assisted by Miss Helen Wurga, Miss Anna Margaret McCarty and Miss Lillian Garrett. This brought to a close a most delightful evening.
