Maybe confidence would have returned quicker if it hadn't been so abused when here before.

It will still be measurably sound money, and perhaps it will circulate around in places where we can hear it talk.

Industry's response to our President's plea for higher salaries is still a matter of conjecture. It is felt, however, that the employed man is prepared to accept any kind of a raise, if it is in the best interests of the country.

Since it has been made clear why Morgan & Co. can't pay income taxes, it becomes easier to understand why the taxation scope must be extended in the lower brackets.

LOOKING FORWARD

Business is starting up again. That is clear and definite. Men are looking ahead and not backwards. And it is our belief that we are going ahead into better times than we have ever known. That has been the history of every past recovery. The deeper the depression, the higher the heights reached after the depression has passed.

Don't ask us how it is going to be accomplished. We have little patience with people who want precise plans and specifications before they will believe that things can be done. There is an element of faith, which is, after all, the chief moving force in human affairs; and at the moment people are regaining faith in the future of their country at a rate which surprises us.

We hear many different explanations of how things will be done under the "New Deal." We've never seen a human project work out as planned. But we, too, have faith. We can't explain a lot of things which we have to take on faith. Don't ask us to explain radio or television or even the talking pictures. We don't have to explain them. There they are. And we believe that we are on the verge of a greater and more glorious civilization than we have ever known. Please don't ask us to explain that, either. Pretty soon, we are sure, everybody will be able to see it.

Nobody has ever been able to stop an Edison or a Ford or a Marconi. There are hundreds of young Edisons just waiting their chance to startle the world. Some of them will turn everything of today upside down, as their predecessors did.

We are going to have a new economic order, beyond doubt; but if it results in giving everybody a chance to buy the things he wants, isn't it going to be better than a system which does not provide customers enough for what we produce?

We really believe that the young people of this day are justified in looking ahead to a time when any human being who really wants anything can have it. And that's "somep'n," as Andy says.

WEEKS

A week is a fifty-second part of a year, or seven days. Roughly, it is also a fourth of a month, but no one realizes how roughly until he attempts to live a cheap month and finds all his profits eaten up in the three extra days.

A week consists of two parts, the proper and the week-end. The week-end is useful for catching up on sleep and doing things that should have been done during week proper. The week proper, on the other hand, is useful for recuperating from the week-end and doing the things that should have been done during the week-end and were not.

Thus the week proper and the week-end constitute a vicious circle which leads people to declare that they "never seem to get anything accomplished."

The week is punctuated by wash day, cook's day off and Saturday and Sunday or children's days on. This leaves a residue of three untrammeled days in which to go shopping, have hair washed and curled, accept invitation, serve on committees, have kill-off parties, attend lectures and catch up with one's reading. If the car has to be taken to the garage to be inspected and greased and have the oil changed, the number of untrammeled days is reduced to two.

If a friend from away calls up to say he or she is in town, that eliminates another day, and if you try to go to see people who are ill there are no untrammeled days at all.

In the summary given above no allowance is made for dancing class, unexpected callers, telephone conversations, people who come to the door to sell things and stopped up drain pipes, refrigerator doors that won't stay shut, gloves that are a size too small and must be returned, visit to newcomers who are friends of a friend who knows you will like them and they would appreciate so much your calling.

From which it is clear to deduce that a week is all too short for what must go into it and most inconvenient to those who are conscientious about how they spend their time.—Baltimore Evening Sun.

The federal government is figuring on jamming on a few more notches of gasoline tax. Which means that before long it will take 90 cents' worth of tax to get 10 cents' worth of gasoline. Which will be a further case of the tail wagging the dog and isn't going to make Old John Q. Public feel any more prosperous.

Nehawka

Henry Ross and Alba Dodson shelled and delivered corn to the Farmers Elevator at Nehawka on Monday of this week.

Charles Hanson was a visitor in Plattsmouth on last Saturday, called there to look after some business matters for a short time.

Miss Hazel Gregg, who is a student in the business college at Grand Island was a visitor at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Gregg for over the week end.

Henry Horstman and family of Talmage, were spending last Sunday in Nehawka, guests at the homes of J. H. Steffens and family and the Albert Anderson family.

John G. Wunderlich and wife were over to Plattsmouth on last Sunday where they were spending the day at the home of their daughter, Mrs. C. A. Rosencranz and husband.

The Farmers Elevator of Nehawka shipped a car load of wheat to the Kansas City market on last Monday. Wheat has risen in price so that it is a temptation to market the cereal.

Miss Mildred Burton whom it will be remembered about a week ago sustained a fracture of her arm, is spending some of the tiresome time while the member is healing at the home of relatives at Mynard.

Don and Genevieve Rutledge were visiting for over the week end last Saturday and Sunday at the home of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Bray of Dunbar, where all enjoyed the visit very much.

Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Rough were guests for the day on last Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Ross where they enjoyed a very fine dinner and a visit for the afternoon following the Memorial program.

Lois Troop who was taking an athletic course, passed the examination with one thousand percent at the examination, which comprised tennis, milking, horseback riding, foot racing and many other sports.

Clarence Hanson has just received a new battery radio for automobiles, which is operated from the storage battery of the auto and which operates just as well as in the home. Better take a listen to the new acquisition at the garage.

Mrs. Alice Creamer of Murray entertained Ray Creamer and family and also Mrs. Wm. Presha, the latter from Des Moines, at her home for dinner on last Sunday, where they all enjoyed the occasion very much.

Mrs. Presha is visiting here with her mother, Mrs. Alice Creamer and her brother, Ray Creamer and family.

Mrs. Wm. Gorder who has been teaching school at Hidden Timber, South Dakota, and who closed a very successful year last Friday, arrived home on last Sunday well pleased that she was allowed to close the year's work and return home for the vacation as she has been retained for the instructor for the coming year.

James Tigner and wife, living a number of miles north of Nehawka, entertained a number of their friends at a gathering at their home last Saturday night where amusements were had and in the line of games, cards and some dancing and the genial host and hostess served refreshments at an appropriate hour.

Alfred Anderson and family of Omaha, were visiting in Nehawka on last Saturday and Sunday, coming to enjoy the alumni banquet which was held on last Saturday night. Mr. Anderson being toastmaster for the banquet, as he is also president of the alumni association. The family also remained for the celebration of Memorial day Sunday. There were 68 at the banquet, and all enjoyed the occasion very much.

Dr. W. H. Tuck of Weeping Water was a visitor in the neighborhood north of Nehawka on last Saturday and was looking after some business in his line as a veterinarian, and in conversation announced that he had passed his seventy-third birthday anniversary on last Monday. Notwithstanding this fact he is filled with a good deal of energy and hustles about looking after the details of his profession, and sure is well qualified as a veterinarian, always ready for a call and to give the best service.

Second Annual Picnic

There was a community picnic given on last Friday which had as its main object the giving of the scholars of the present school year a good time at the commencement of their vacation. There was one last year and this makes the second of what is to be an annual affair. There was plenty to eat for all.

Vacation Bible School

On Monday of this week there was started a vacation Bible school which is to continue for two weeks, the school being held at the Nehawka school building and conducted by a very efficient corps of instructors. Better be sure and go and enroll, no matter what your age. You can get a better insight of the scriptures.

Home Made Happy

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Plunkett, was joy over the arrival of a very fine baby girl which was sent to gladden their home, and which was received with much joy. Mrs. Ethel Brethren, mother of Mrs. Plunkett and making her home at Springfield, Mo., came to welcome the little lady and as well to care for her and her mother. All are doing very nicely.

Many Enjoy Memorial Services

The Memorial services which was under the management of the Nehawka post of the American Legion were held at the Nehawka auditorium and the discourse was delivered by Dr. Wilson, who was for some thirty-five years a minister of the Methodist church and who brought an excellent message of peace to the well filled auditorium, and which was enjoyed by all who were present.

Brooder House Catches on Fire

The brooder house, containing some 250 chicks at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pace was discovered to be on fire Tuesday evening. Mr. Pace with the assistance of his family and neighbors, was able to get the fire under control by carrying water in buckets. The building was damaged to some extent. About 75 of the little chicks were unable to get out and were killed. The fire started from a kerosene burner inside the building.

Nehawka School Closed

The Nehawka schools closed for the present year last week and held their commencement which was on last Thursday with Dr. G. W. Resenold the principle speaker. A varied program was had and one of the very pleasant features of the affair was the quartet of young men composed of Thomas Troop, Ernest Adams, Martin Jurgensen and Harvey Kearney. The scholarships were awarded to Miss Mildred Young and Bernell Adams.

Old Sport Coming Back

We well remember when croquet and town ball were very popular sports, not to mention shinney, and for a number of years these means of enjoyment have been passed up, but this year, especially croquet is coming back and many are the fans in this sport who are preparing to enjoy this diversion. James M. Palmer has established a croquet court at his home and is prepared with his friends to enjoy the sport.

Paving Crew Moved

The crew of pavers which have kept the hustling city of Nehawka in a hubbub for many weeks have now nearly all gone, as they moved to Union where they will operate on the eastern portion of the stip of paving from that point.

The quarry of Ole Olson, however, is still operating and this is keeping a large portion of the people employed here. The city is freed from the incessant din of the past few weeks and people have an opportunity to think and breathe.

CALLED BACK TO WORK

Otto Marek, who has been making his home here for the past two years, was notified Saturday to return to Detroit and prepared to resume work with the Raymond Construction Co., one of the largest plants of its kind in the country. This plant was closed down two years ago and is now reopening and calling back into service its former employes that they can reach. The company will have the construction of a large steel mill in Detroit as its first work. Mr. Marek was engaged as a blacksmith with this company for several years and as he has not been steadily employed for the past two years, feels well pleased over the good news that he is again to be back at the old job.

PREPARE FOR BALL SEASON

The members of the Red Sox baseball team as well as a number of the fans, met Monday evening at the office of Dr. O. Sandin and perfected their plans for the remainder of the baseball season. The team selected Dr. Sandin as the manager and booking agent of the team, who will also be in charge of the grounds. John Svoboda was selected as the treasurer of the team for the coming season. The players will later select their captain to guide the team on the playing field. The team hopes to secure a good fast team for Sunday when their second game of the season will be staged at Athletic park.

"Jesus Faces Betrayal—and Denial"

Mark 10:17-31.

The shadow of the cross is in sight, only a few more hours when the hour of darkness will celebrate its orgy. But what momentous things are happening during these last hours. Judas, having committed himself to the nefarious act to play with the enemies of Jesus, and to deliver Christ into their power. This dark deed was to be carried out in the dark of the night, as most all evil deeds are performed in the dark.

Judas sold what was not his. For three years Jesus had tried to make a disciple out of this man—but failed. He was a man of great ability—the would have been a great asset to the church, but the lust of money got hold of him, and he began to pilfer from their little hoard. "No man can live constantly with a very good person who loves him, and give in return neither sympathy nor loyalty, without coming in time to feel hatred. Thus, in the last year of his life, Judas' love for Jesus changed slowly to distaste and dislike, and at last to a kind of hatred." (Rev. R. C. Gillie.)

The preparations for the feast were entrusted to two disciples (Peter and John?) unbeknown to Judas, where it would take place. The man with the pithier (Mark?) showed the way to the upper room. All is made ready. The evening has come—here comes Jesus and the Twelve.

It was the last day-view the Lord had of the Holy City. Luke tells of the disgraceful strife about who should occupy the most prominent place at the table. John alone tells us how Jesus gives them an object lesson, by washing their feet, which act slaves or servants only performed. This put them all to shame. An appeal to Judas is made by Jesus showing his knowledge of what was done in the dark. It cast a gloom over the festival. The anxious questioning, "Is it I?" indicates that none were sure but that they might have inadvertently made some blunder, whereby Jesus' safety was endangered. Then Jesus gives the last warning to Judas—the Sop—he takes it, thus turning the symbol of friendship into a curse upon his own soul. Judas leaves the room—it was night. The passover is eaten—the institution of the last supper follows. (We cannot go into detail here regarding the different beliefs and creeds of the many churches—Catholic, Lutheran, Calvinist, etc.) Bread is used—the staff of life. He breaks it and gave to them and said, "Take ye, this is my body." "And he took the cup, and when he had given thanks, he gave to them, and they all drank of it." The body was before them, the blood not spilled, so that the language is clearly symbolic and the doctrine of transubstantiation is manifestly false. "This is my body." The word "is"

denotes only likeness, in all metaphors and in the explanation of all symbols. Witness—

1—The seven good kine are seven years. (Gen. 41:26.)

2—These bones are the house of Israel. (Ez. 37:11.)

3—The seed is the word of God. (Luke 8:11.)

4—This is he who heareth. (Matt. 13:20.)

5—The field is the world. (Matt. 13:38.)

6—The rock was Christ. (I Cor. 10:4.)

7—The two women are two covenants. (Gal. 4:24.)

8—The seven lamps are seven churches. (Rev. 1:20.)

Taking these symbols in faith, thus every participant in the Christian communion service may expect a direct blessing from Christ, suited precisely to his individual needs. Participation in the Lord's supper is not optional with Christians; it is commanded. No account of the institution of the Lord's supper speaks of "wine," but of the "cup." In using fresh, unfermented grape juice, there fore "the fruit of the vine" (Ver. 25) we are using the symbol that best conforms to the original account.

Our Lord left no commandment that his memory should be perpetuated by the use of an intoxicant. It being the Lord's table, why should any Christian be excluded from communion in any Christian church? It belongs to "the church," but some narrow-minded people act as if they had a monopoly on it. It is a most blessed institution, it brings all the followers of Christ into a blessed union with their Lord and with each other. It ever brings before the mind the suffering and sacrificial death of the Son of God for sinful man. No one can partake of the same and not be a better man or woman, unless he "eats and drinks unworthily, shall be guilty of the body and blood of the Lord." (I Cor. 11:27-29.)

It has well been said that Jesus died of a broken heart. The betrayal of one of the twelve, the denial of another, then to be forsaken by all—left alone, with all his work and labor of love seemingly in vain, the shameful death on the cross—as a common felon—in the darkness of the midday hour, drinking the cup of the wrath of God—the wages of sin, his cry, "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?" broke his heart.

The sorrow in Gethsemane, the arrest and trial come within the scope of the lesson.

Of Christ's arrest in Gethsemane the three chief events are: (a) the shameful kiss of Judas; (b) Peter's silly flourish of his sword, cutting off the ear of Malchus, and (c) the desertion of all disciples. Led away to Anna, then to Caiaphas—this all happened in that last tragic night. By daylight we find him before Pilate. What a night!
