Attend Memorial at Avoca

The firing squad of the Nehawka American Legion post, accompanied by several members and others from here, went to Avoca on last Sunday, where they attended the celebration of Memorial day and fired the regulation army salute over the graves of the fallen heroes of the nation who lie buried in the cemetery there. R Foster Patterson, of Plattsmouth, was the speaker and delivered a very stirring address. He is the grandson of a Confederate war veteran.

Masons Hold Roundup The Masonic lodge of Nehawka were gathered together on last Sunday at the lawn of the Nehawka school, where they celebrated their meeting of goodfellowship with sociability and a very fine dinner that was served on the lawn and thoroughly enjoyed by all present. A considerable number of the members of the Nehawka lodge reside in Union and many of these came over to join in the celebration. There were games and visiting in the shade and with the wives and families of the Masons all there to participate, splendid time was had.

Jehnnie Boy Finds Ring Johnnie Boy, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Smith, was a lucky friends. chap and well pleased at that when one day last week while he was playing in the yard, he picked up a gold ring with the letters NHS on the face. He hurried with it to his mother, who immediately recognized it as a graduation ring which she had given her daughter, Miss Violet, at the time of her graduation in 1925, an dwhich Miss Violet had thrown out with a pan of dishwater some eight years ago. Search had been made for the ring many times, but to no avail. Miss Violet, who is working in Council Bluffs, was home on last Tuesday and the little brother presented her with her long lost ring. You may well guess that both Miss Violet and Johnnie were happy over the find.

Has Very Narrow Escape

Forest R. Cuningham, who is well acquainted with machinery, was over to the quarry on last Sunday to make some repairs on a carrier belt, and while he was at work his overalls came in too close contact with the pulley and one of the legs of the garment was pulled into the machinery. Forest braced himself and held on while the clothing was literally torn from his body. The strain was very great, but he was not sertously injured, although he was left in a few seconds just as he was born. Mr. Cunningham is pleased that he was able to make his escape from what seemed like a contact with death during the few moments that he so manfully strove to avoid being pulled into the machinery.

Churches Held Picnic

On last Sunday the two United Brethren churches, at Otterbein and Nehawka joined and enjoyed a meeting out of doors which was in the nature of a picnic diner and church family reunion. They met in the grove where they enjoyed the very fine get-together and the splendid dinner which was served.

Quality Maintained

ECENT years have seen considerable reductions in the cost of commodities and service in all lines. The public has learned to expect lower prices. It is important, however, to see that these reductions are legitimate, and not effected by a sacrifice of quality.

It is one thing to buy at a lower price when quality remains the same, and quite another to accept inferior merchandise or service offered as a "bargain."

Our charges for merchandise and service are lower today than they have been in many years, but the reduction is the result of lower costs and economies in management. We refuse to sacrifice our high standards of quality and mislead our clients with "sayings" which are only apparent.
