MURRAY GARAGE
A. D. BAKER, Prop.

Murray

Thomas Nelson was called to the county seat last Monday evening to look after some business matters.

M. G. Churchill has been painting the Lewiston school house and getting it in proper condition for the opening of school this fall.

Charles Carroll has not been feeling very well and has been getting around with some difficulty. He still remains in very poor condition.

Earl Lancaster was getting lumber at the Murray lumber yard for the construction of some hog pens and troughs for the feeding of the porkers.

Curtis Farris and wife and their little one and Howard Royer and family were Sunday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lancaster.

Mrs. John L. Griffin, of Lincoln, mother of Mrs. Lucean Carper, is spending this week with her daughter, and visiting with her many other friends.

The Rev. McKelvie, pastor of the United Brethren church, of Mynard, was a visitor in Murray on last Monday, coming to look after some business matters.

Melvin Reed was a guest for the afternoon and evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lancaster, where a number of other young people were also gathered.

Pont Wilson, while he has been hindered from getting about, has been putting up a hard fight and was able to come down town on last Saturday for a shave.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Nickles were in Lincoln last Tuesday, where they were looking after some business matters and as well visiting with friends in the big town.

Gust Brubacher and family were enjoying the day last Sunday at the home of Mrs. Brubacher's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Lash, of Auburn, driving down in their car.

Mr. and Mrs. John Scheel, of Murdock, were brief visitors in Murray on last Tuesday, while on their way from Murdock to Plattsmouth to look after some business matters.

W. G. Boedeker and Victor Wehrbein, who are known as "Boedeker and Wehrbein west," had a load of hogs on the South Omaha market last week which brought them $4.10 per cwt.

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Browne, of Omaha, were looking after some business matters in Murray on Tuesday of this week, as well as visiting with relatives and friends while here.

Alonso Cresser of the Garage of Murray, located at the west edge of town, was a business visitor in Omaha on Tuesday of last week, driving over in his truck for a load of gasoline.

J. V. Pitman shelled and delivered corn to the Murray elevators Tuesday of this week and was well pleased with the price received, which is much better than that prevailing earlier in the season.

Ray Friedrichs was over from Greenwood on last Tuesday, coming to assist with the work at the elevator, which has been very heavy of late, due to the fine prices which are now being paid for corn.

Miss Bertha Nickles and Mr. and Mrs. Dora Cresser were over to the county seat last Tuesday, where they were looking after some business matters and also attending the funeral of the late Fred Nolting, who died early last Sunday morning.

A card from Dove Asch, who is spending some time at the Century of Progress, the World's Fair, writes her friends in Murray stating that she is enjoying every minute of the time and that the fair is wonderful and beyond anything she ever expected to see.

in Omaha, where he is employed, was united in marriage to Miss Louvia Ashbury Petersen, of Cherokee, Iowa, the wedding taking place at the home of the bride's parents in the Iowa town. Mr. Wurdeman is a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. George Nickles, and in company with Lee and Etta Nickles, of Plattsmouth, they drove to Cherokee to attend the wedding. George says they enjoyed the trip very much, going via Denison and Ida Grove and returning via Sioux City and U. S. 75 down the east side of the river. The newlyweds will reside in Omaha, where the groom had outfitted an apartment prior to the wedding day.

Enjoyed Fine Picnic

The friends of Patrick Campbell and wife, to the number of ninety-three, residing out near Manley, had a big picnic Sunday on King Hill, and had a very fine time. Those to enjoy the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Ben Speck and family, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Kelly and family, Mr. and Mrs. August Kaffenberger and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Meisinger and family, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Meisinger and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Taylor and family, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hall and family, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Renner and family, Mr. and Mrs. Caesar Baumgart and family, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Terryberry and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Durell and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Buechler and family, Mr. and Mrs. Pat Campbell and family, Harold Buechler, Arnold Buechler, Gerald Keil, Joe Bayer and Mrs. Ada Baker.

Caring for Mother

Mrs. B. H. Nelson has been at the home of her mother, Mrs. Peter Johnson, near Nehawka, during the greater portion of this week, as the mother has been in very poor health. Harry and son are doing an expert job of hatching and keeping house during the absence of Mrs. Nelson.

Making Good Progress

The contractors and workmen on the new Murray school building are making good progress with the work. The foundation has been completed, and this week it is expected that the floor which is to be of concrete will be finished. Following this the work of erecting the superstructure will be undertaken and the entire job rushed to completion in order to be ready for the opening of school this fall.

Talking Rock Bluffs Picnic

There are steps being taken by many of the people who delight to attend the annual picnic of the Rock Bluff Old Settlers' association which will be held in the neighborhood of the former historic city of Rock Bluffs that in the early Sixties numbered nearly a thousand population, only to melt away. However, there still remain many who are always delighted to be able to come back and visit with the other people who formerly lived there. See more about this move elsewhere.

Charles Mead Quite Poorly

While he was engaged in plowing corn, C. M. Mead was taken with a severe pain in the region of his shoulder on the back, which was so severe that he was compelled to stop working. The daughter brought him to town and he was treated by Dr. Tyson, and returned home to take a rest until the pains should cease.

Organize Y. P. C. U.

The young folks of the Presbyterian church on last Sunday organized two societies of the Young Peoples Christian Union, one the senior and the other the junior. The minister has the seniors in charge while Mrs. Margaret Todd gives the younger ones instruction. They will hold their meetings regularly at 7:30 o'clock each Sunday evening and are expecting to have a picnic embracing both societies, to which their friends are cordially invited. They also extend an invitation to all not attending this or similar societies to come and meet with them.

Children's Day Program

Under the sponsorship of Mrs. E. W. Milbern there was had a very delightful entertainment at the Christian church on last Sunday evening with a large crowd of the members and the friends of the Bible school in attendance. The program was one of the finest and was enjoyed by all who were privileged to be in attendance. An offering was received for home missions.

DEATH OF PIONEER

The death of Mrs. Thomas K. Hanna, a pioneer of Nebraska territorial days, occurred on Friday at Kansas City, Missouri, where the family have been prominent and had a large part in the commercial life of that city.

Mrs. Hanna was 97 years of age and her life had been a part of the building of the west where she and her husband were prominent figures in the communities in which they lived. As Judith Joyce Venable, the daughter of an Ohio physician, Mrs. Hanna had traveled with her family toward the west. The journey was made on a steamboat. Mrs. Hanna lived to see the steamboat displaced by the railroads and to witness the wonders of the motor car, the miles of fine roads spanning the nation where in her migration west had been uncharted trails through the wilderness. She had come from an era when the radio was still in the realms of scientific dreams, when the telephone and telegraph were chiefly experiments.

Mrs. Hanna was born on April 17, 1836, at Hanover, Indiana. Her father, Dr. Joseph Venable, had settled in Hanover from Kentucky, and at his death the rest of the family moved westward.

Judith Joyce Venable met Thomas K. Hanna at a social gathering in St. Joseph, Mo. Mr. Hanna was a son of a farmer in Shelby county, Kentucky. He had journeyed west to seek his fortune. The Vanabes made the steamboat journey to the west in 1850. In 1851 Miss Venable and Mr. Hanna were married at St. Joseph. The couple lived on a farm for a year and then came to Plattsmouth, then just being platted and where Mr. Hanna opened a general business and wholesale dry goods establishment.

While residents of Plattsmouth Mr. and Mrs. Hanna resided in the property at Third and Vine streets and the business house of Mr. Hanna was located on Second and Main streets, near where the coal sheds are now located and which was then the main business section of the city.

The Hanna store outfitted many wagon trains for Colorado and the great west and in this era of adventure, Mrs. Hanna spent a number of years. Indians were then plentiful in this section and the store was a favorite trading place and Mrs. Hanna frequently waited on them.

In 1868 the Hanna family moved to Kansas City and where the husband established one of the largest wholesale business houses in the west.

They were the parents of nine children, eight of whom grew to manhood and womanhood, one of whom is John V. Hanna, chief engineer of the Kansas City Terminal railroad company, who was born in this city.

Ofe Eagles and Fetzers Win in Double Header

Eagles Take Methodist Y. M. B. C. and Fetzer Shoe Co., Takes Red & White Last Night.

From Tuesday's Daily
Another double bill of kittenball was served the customers at the Athletic park last evening when Carl Ofe and his Eagles swept away the Methodist Y. M. B. C. by the score of 18 to 3, while the Fetzer Shoe Co. team was putting the bug on the Red & White by the score of 12 to 8.

The Fetzer-Red & White conflict was started at 6 o'clock and the fans who had grabbed an early dinner, (supper to you), were on hand to see one of the real good games of the season so far which started out like anybody's contest, but the Fetzer team soon filed a lien on the result that they were able to foreclose in the last stanzas. Bob Walling, the genial abstractor, had laid aside the dull cares of business and ascended the mound, under the batting attack of the shoemakers even making a greater ascension as the game reached the fifth inning. The pitching for the Fetzer team was by Dr. Pucelik, who was effective in all but the third inning in holding the opponents. The field errors that were checked to the Red & White had a large part in the story of a victory lost. The Red & White scored three home runs, Martin, Krcjci and Turner each having credit for a circuit blow, but the steady base hits and errors that the Fetzers took advantage of kept them in the lead.

The Second Conflict.

The second game opened with both teams going good. Perry and Ofe, the opposing hurlers showing class and no scores being registered in the first two frames, the fans settling back to watch the duel of the two old maestros and their helpers. In the third inning, however, the Ofe Eagles had evidently taken a load of Mobilgas on board, Howard Hirz opening with a safe blow, Bill Kriskey followed with another, Ray Kriskey also hitting safe and Ofe and Bill Smith each tallied and all registered for a 5 to 0 lead. Two more runs were added to the Eagles' total in the fifth and it looked like the first shutout of the season might be at hand, but the churchmen spilled the apple cart in the last of the fifth, when Aulton Rolland hit and scored on the blow of George Perry. The opening of the seventh was the scene of the wreck when seven of the Eagles crossed the plate for a total of eighteen runs. The Y. M. B. C. received new heart when "Hob" Hirz juggled the fly of Rhodes in right garden and ere the inning closed two more of the Bible class had scored for a total of three, but too far in the rear to win.

New Deal in the State Fair Farm Exhibits

Three Types, County Collective, Central Idea and Open Classes—Counties are Restricted.

The farm crops exhibits at the state fair this year at Lincoln Sept. 3 to 8, will be displayed in an entirely new way, according to Perry Reed, secretary of the state board of agriculture. Mr. Reed, together with Art Lamb, of Albion, superintendent of agricultural hall, and Ed Noyes of Valley, assistant superintendent, are laying plans to change the type of the Agricultural hall exhibits so they will be entirely different from those which have been on display for many years. The advance sheet of premiums for this department, now available for distribution, gives the detail on the new set up.

There will be three types of exhibit. The first, known as the county collective, will consist of standardized exhibits made up of a specified amount of agricultural products. Counties will no longer be permitted to display 50 or 60 feet of products, but those which can be displayed and for which credit will be given are restricted to major crops of the state. More emphasis is to be placed on the design and appearance of the exhibit as well as on the quality and importance of the crops shown. It is expected that not less than thirty Nebraska counties will have county collective exhibits.

Another type of exhibit is known as the central idea and will be restricted to the first ten counties making entry. These exhibits develop some particular crop or products of the county, and the entire exhibit is built around this one idea. Mr. Reed expects that these exhibits will be particularly attractive and interesting, since no two will be alike and each will attempt to show one of the outstanding crops of the county.

The third type of exhibit is the open class for vegetables, cereals and forage. In the past these exhibits have been part of the county collective exhibits. The plan this year is to remove the open class exhibits from the county collective exhibits and to display them by themselves.

Arrangements are being made to have all corn classified together, all wheat together, and so on through the various products. This will enable visitors to make direct comparison between all exhibits of a certain

BANNING ISN'T READY TO SAY HE WILL RUN

Lincoln, Neb., June 27.—State Senator W. B. Banning of Union isn't ready to say whether he will run for governor next year, but he did say at the capitol today that he isn't going to be scared out by the threat of Senator John G. Boelts of Central City to run against him in the democratic primary.

"I might file for governor just to get Boelts into the race," Banning told reporters. "I don't know if anybody I'd rather have running against me."
