Fewer Than a Million Wed in U. S. in 1932

The Rate of 7.87 for Each 1,000 Population Smallest Ever Recorded for the Nation.

Washington. A new all-time marriage low of only 7.87 marriages for each 1,000 of population was set in 1932.

For the first time in twenty-one years, the number of marriages in this country fell below the million mark. There were only 981,759 in the year, a 7.5 per cent decrease from the year before.

Whether the figure will increase this year may never be known, since there is some doubt as to the continuation of the marriage and divorce statistics service because of another threatened economy cut.

Never Before Below 8.5.

Annual marriage rates statistics date back to 1887, and in all that time the rate has never before fallen below 8.5 in each 1,000.

John N. Bergman was a visitor in Omaha on last Friday, where he was looking after some business matters and also was visiting with friends.

Nevada Even Loses Ground.

"Hard times hit even the Nevada marriage market," said Miss Hagan. Due to California's strict marriage law, Nevada has hitherto been host to many marriage-seeking couples.

The divorce rate was on the upward climb the entire time from 1887 until the stock market crash of 1929. It has fallen since then, however, 4.9 per cent in 1930, 4.1 per cent in 1931 and 4.1 per cent in the 1932 statistics.

There were 160,329 divorces granted in the United States in 1932, compared to 183,664 in 1931.

Only ten states, Missouri, South Dakota, Nebraska, West Virginia, Mississippi, Arkansas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Arizona and Utah, showed slight increases. All ten adjoin states with new and stricter marriage laws.

The largest increase was in Nebraska, 6.6 per cent. There was a slide of 43.5 per cent in the adjoining state of Iowa, which enacted a eugenics law July 1, 1931.

Other heavy losers were: Wyoming, 37.5 per cent; Colorado, 33.5 per cent; Idaho, 32.6 per cent. New Jersey lost 13.7 per cent and Massachusetts, 13.2.

Rhode Island and Arkansas were the only two states where divorces increased. Rhode Island reported 780 divorces in 1932, against 674 in 1931, an 8.3 per cent increase.

Rains Boosting Corn Crops Over This Section

All Vegetation Revived as Rain Falls During Night Over Wide Area in Eastern Nebraska.

The rain starting early this morning proved one of the greatest aids to the corn crop through eastern Nebraska and in this immediate locality the .58 of an inch will do a great deal toward helping out the crops of all kinds.

The rain commenced at 2 o'clock and fell slowly and steadily through the rest of the night, the dry soil rapidly taking in the rainfall and doing much more good than a more violent storm would have brought.

The refreshing of the gardens and the lawns was noticeable today in the green that showed where formerly the vegetation was dry and suffering from the heat.

ANOTHER FINE RAIN

All of the eastern section of Nebraska was visited by a fine rain early this morning that in this city brought a rainfall of .36 of an inch and was of untold value in breaking the force of the long drought and added to the rain of Thursday night made a great contribution to the success of the corn crop of the year.

The storm was general from Hastings east and extended the width of the state. In Omaha, where there has been practically no rain of consequence since March, two inches fell in two hours and in some places in the city the waters reached four feet in depth in the low places, and a number of basements were flooded.

The storm over Cass county brought smiles to the faces of the farmers as it practically assured a corn crop and assisted in reviving many of the crops that had been suffering from the heat.

Storm Breaks About Lincoln's 'New Deal'

Wrathy Citizens Descend on City Fathers, Crying "Recall!"—Mayor Decides for Beer.

Lincoln, Neb., July 6.—This city has so long taken its civics calmly and faithfully that recent troubles within its government have stirred the city mad.

Hardly had a new batch of fathers ensconced in council chairs before they disagreed, bringing wrathful citizens upon them. Health department troubles were climaxed with "recall" cries ringing in Commissioner A. C. Harm's ears Wednesday and behind it, stories and charges of ambulance-chasing by a league of doctors and lawyers.

Patronage, frowned upon by Lincoln, long accustomed to high caliber city workers or quiet patronage, started undercurrents of irritation, then the beer question.

Driest in U. S. Lincoln voted the driest of any

United States city in the Literary Digest poll. Of 4,292 votes cast, 2,249 were for continuance of the Eighteenth amendment, 2,043 for repeal. City officials had to decide on licensing and local option preparatory to Nebraska's becoming beer wet August 10.

Commissioners Bair and Oberlies were allegedly dry. Harm and Doerr were wet, leaving Mayor Fenton Fleming to shoulder responsibility by his deciding vote. This was evaded by deciding to go to the people, a referendum.

Wednesday they unanimously reversed themselves on the idea of a special election, but Mayor Fleming found himself forced to vote, casting his lot for beer with Doerr and Harm.

"Recall" Is Heard. This generation blinked surprise at first rumbles of trouble. It had known no fiery debates within the city hall since E. E. Duncan once pounded the round table for his street department ideals or Ex-Commissioner Cowgill wrote comparatively tame letters to local newspapers.

Lincoln's new deal had cast aside four old commissioners. Bair only had survived.

No better town in which to reside than Plattsmouth.
