Scouts Recount Adventures of Eastern Trip

Twenty-Five of 32 Who Went Heard on Informal "Welcome Home" Program Last Night

From Monday's Daily
A large sized audience was present at the Methodist church in Louisville last night to listen to reports from the large group of boys who had accompanied Rev. R. D. Murphree on the three weeks' eastern trip that ended with their arrival home last Sunday in response to a message announcing the death of the mother of one of the boys.

Among the out-of-town visitors were a considerable number from Plattsmouth, including parents, relatives and friends of the five boys from here who had been privileged to make the trip.

The meeting, entirely informal, opened with the singing of America, followed by a short prayer by Elmer Sundstrom.

L. J. Mayfield, editor of the Courier, was called upon for a brief talk, stating that he believed too few people understand the fine principles of Scouting and what it means in the future lives of the boys, who are to become the men of tomorrow. He called attention of the audience to the fact that no true Boy Scout has ever been arrested in later life for a crime against the state or against humanity. He paid high tribute to Rev. Murphree's program of boys' work that has taken him on four lengthy sight-seeing trips during the four years he has served as pastor of the Louisville church.

Rev. Murphree had selected seven of the boys to give detailed reports on various phases of the trip, while the others were simply called upon to tell of what had been the most interesting sight or experience to them in brief manner.

Elwood Pankonin told of the six day trip to Washington, that included two days spent in the Alleghany mountains, where they traveled in low gear most of the time. After attaining the summit of one particularly high peak with continuous climbing for a distance of seven miles, with the aid of the boys pushing, they had anticipated a pleasant coast down the other side, but observed a warning sign to keep car in low gear as it was 11 miles to the bottom. His account of their campsite along the way was very interesting.

Dave Webb followed with a description of the sights they had seen in the capital city; Fred Lesan spoke on the trip to Annapolis on the 4th of July, and Dale Hennings took up the running story with their last day in Washington and the three day trip to Atlanta, Georgia.

Frederick Frick, of Plattsmouth, gave the audience some very enlightening information on Stone Mountain and the confederate memorial planned there, work on which has been held up for some time due to lack of funds. The boys camped there Saturday and Sunday nights and slept atop this big rock that is 1,000 feet in height and seven miles around at the base. Frederick also told of their visit to Grant park, in Atlanta, where they viewed the Cyclorama, an immense painting representing the battle of Atlanta, and other relics of Civil war days.

LeRoy Hennings followed with an account of their three day visit at the Atlanta Scouts' recreational camp, during which they were accorded all the privileges given to regularly registered Scout troops and enjoyed their association with the Southern boys. While there they had slept in cabins and taken part in the various periods that comprised the day's routine. The Indian chief who taught the boys nature lore, sang and danced native Indian dances for them had also been one of their pleasing memories of the stay at "Bert Adams Camp."

Herb Sundstrom, official reporter on the trip, reviewed the highlights up to and including Chattanooga and then described briefly the rapid race for home, following receipt of the sad news that called them back several days before the appointed time of leaving.

Following this, Rev. Murphree called upon the remaining eighteen boys present to say a few words about the trip and what had interested them most. Three Louisville boys, Floyd Stratton, Herb Carter and Dewaine Bloodgood, together with the two Omaha boys and two from Fairbury, were not present, but the group seated on the rostrum, numbering 25, gave rise to numerous exclamations after the service as to how much responsibility is involved in looking after such a large family for so great a length of time as these annual trips involve.

Rev. Murphree spoke briefly on the financial side of the trip, stating that due to many fine contributions it had been more successful than any before, inasmuch as when the books were balanced, he had only been out the sum of $3.80 for his own vacation. Heretofore he has paid from $35 to $75 out of his personal funds for the "privilege" of chaperoning the large groups of boys he has been accustomed to take.

Those from Plattsmouth included Mrs. Maude Frick, son, Frederick, and daughter, Marion; Dr. and Mrs. Frank Cummins and Miss Allice Eaton; Mrs. Lottie Rosencrans and son, Billy and Miss Marie Fitzgerald, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bestor and son, John, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Reed and son, Warren, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Webb and three children, Jimmie, Bobbie and Donnie.

Man Breaks Leg as Forced to Leap from R. I. Train

George Himmelein of Hamilton, Ohio, Forced with Companions from the Moving Train.

George Himmelein, of Hamilton, Ohio, was removed or fired off a train of the Rock Island railroad Saturday night at Murdock, the man suffering an injured right leg. The member was broken below the knee joint and the officers here notified of the injury to the man. Constable Edgerton motored out to Murdock and brought the man on into this city, it being intended to have him placed in a hospital at Omaha. The hospital could not receive the man and accordingly he is lodged here as a guest of Sheriff Homer Sylvester until he can be cared for at a hospital.

The injured man stated to the constable that he with eight other men, had boarded the Rock Island train at the Omaha yards and at the same time the railroad officer had come on board. As the train was at Albright the officer came along and searched the men, failing to find any weapons and had then gone on, not ordering the men off the train. The train had stopped to do some switching at Murdock and the men were allowed to remain in the gondola coal car until after the train had gotten under way and the officer had then come back and ordered the men to jump from the moving train and which they were forced to do, Himmelein falling and breaking his leg.

The injured man was brought to the Murdock station by his companions and the matter reported to the office of County Attorney Kleck. Himmelein stated that he was a moulder by trade and had been out of work the greater part of the past year and had been at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, prior to coming to Omaha in search of work and was bound for the south to try and find work if possible. He is a married man and the family resides at 1518 Pleasant avenue, Hamilton. The injured man will be cared for here until such time that he is able to be around or secure funds to take him back to his home in Ohio.
