Sang at Stella Sunday

On last Sunday the quartette of Murday, composed of Miss Dorothy Yost, Miss Florence Lancaster and Messrs. Richard Brendel and Silas Ferry, sang at Stella on last Sunday evening at the regular services at the Christian church, where the Rev. Lloyd Shubert, who also ministers to the church here, divides time between the two churches.

Very Beautiful Wedding.

At the parlors of the Murray Presbyterian church on Tuesday evening of this week was celebrated the wedding of Miss Glendora Young, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Young, who was united to Mr. Huldrich Humann of Barnston where he is superintendent of the public schools of that place. The celebration of the happy event was held at 8 o'clock, with the Rev. R. B. Hutchman who is an uncle of the bride and pastor of the church at Clearfield, Iowa, reading the lines. The church had been duly decorated for the occasion with beautiful colors and presented a lovely picture.

The bride and groom came up the aisle of the church to the altar, the bride accompanied by the maid of honor, Miss G. Schuers of Hartington, while the best man was a brother of the groom, Homer H. Humann. Miss Jane Boedeker presided at the piano, playing the wedding march. The ring was borne in a lily by a little girl, and Julius Humann sang a most appropriate number.

Following the wedding ceremony the wedding party repaired to the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Young at their country home where a wedding supper was served and a most pleasant reception held. The bridal party then departed for a wedding trip which includes Chicago, where they visit for a time the Century of Progress, then via Toronto where they will visit relatives and then to Washington, D. C. and after a short stay there are going to the south where they will visit for some time and be at home after a few weeks of seeing some of the United States.

On their return they will make their home at Barnston where Mr. Humann is superintendent of schools.

Visiting Friends Here.

Theodore Nelson, a brother of H. H. Nelson and who makes his home at Imperial, arrived in Murray and has been visiting here with his brother, Harry Nelson and visiting his sisters Mesdames R. H. Judge Begley Passes on Important Law Cases

Renders Opinions in Supreme Court Established Many Important Law Rulings.

Judge James T. Begley, presiding judge of the second district, who was sitting as a member of the state supreme court a few weeks ago, has handed down two opinions in cases heard at Lincoln, both cases being important rulings.

In the one—Lukart, receiver vs. The City of Aurora, the court held:

1. That state bank can only pledge its assets for the security of deposits when duly authorized so to do by law.

2. Under section 77-2601, Comp. St. 1929, a state bank designated as a depository of public funds belonging to a city of the second class, may by contract pledge assets for the security of the deposit, and such contract is binding on all parties thereto.

3. The statute requires that a deposit of public money in a bank shall be a secured deposit subject to negotiation between the bank and the city and the provisions of section 8-140, Comp. St. 1929, do not apply.

The second case that was reviewed by the local jurist was that of Woods vs. The County of Brown, an appeal and the judgment of the lower court affirmed. In this case the court held:

1. The county treasurer is a ministerial officer only, charged with many duties, and without judicial power to pass on the validity and regularity of the acts and proceedings of other officers.

2. All money received by the county treasurer for the use of the county shall be paid out by him only on warrants issued by the county board according to law, except where special provision for the payment thereof is or shall be otherwise made by law. Comp. St. 1929, sec. 26-1301.

3. By statute it is made "unlawful for the county board of any county in this state to issue any warrant for any amount exceeding the aggregate of 85 per cent of the amount levied by tax for the current year, except there be money in the treasury to the credit of the proper fund for the payment of the same; nor shall it be lawful for the county board to issue any certificate of indebtedness in any form in payment of any account or claim, nor to make any contracts for or to incur any indebtedness in any form in payment of any account or claim, nor to make any contracts for or to incur any indebtedness against the county in excess of the tax levy for county expense during the current year; nor shall any expenditure be made, or indebtedness be contracted to be paid out of any of the funds of said county in excess of the amount levied for said fund." Comp. St. 1929, sec. 29-116.

4. A county treasurer has no authority to liquidate claims against the county.

5. A county treasurer's duties as to the payment of public money being prescribed by statute, he cannot excuse their discharge in a different manner. He cannot pay out the public funds entrusted to his custody in an unlawful and unauthorized manner, take an assignment of the claim and be reimbursed by the county, and thus do indirectly what the law prohibits him from doing directly.

6. Where a county treasurer undertakes to pay unallowed salary claims against a county from certain sinking funds of the county entrusted to his custody without a legal warrant being issued thereof, said treasurer cannot take assignments of said salary claims, and thereafter file and recover the same as a valid obligation of the county, unless the said sinking funds are reimbursed prior thereto.

Turkeys Need Shade, Redditt Points Out

Shelters Should Be Built Where Natural Shade Is Lacking—Alfalfa Hay Is a Good Feed.

Where only a small amount of shade is available to turkeys precautions must be taken to keep the birds from using the same ground and possibly becoming victims of blackhead, J. R. Redditt of the Nebraska college of agriculture points out.

"Inexpensive, yet rather serviceable sun shelters may be made of marsh grass, weeds, straw or brush piled over a wife covered frame of poles," Redditt declared. "In some instances the side of a brooder house will probably roost on this crude shed so make it strong enough to support them."

Some poultrymen use "A" type hog houses, not in use, for shelters for poults. Set on legs about two feet above the ground with roosts level with the bottoms, they make satisfactory quarters for small broods of poults. Poultry nesting may be used under the roosts and around the sides to keep the turkeys away from the droppings.

Redditt points to observations at the North Platte experiment station which indicate that turkeys on clean alfalfa are produced at a lower cost than those on dry lots with plenty of feed before them. Turkeys on alfalfa eat less feed but grow faster. The two comparative flocks eat about the same amount of grain but the one on alfalfa uses much less mash.

HOLD FINE MEETING

From Wednesday's Daily The Westminster Guild held a pleasant meeting at the Presbyterian church last evening.

A small number of the girls were in attendance.

There was an interesting devotional period followed by a brief business meeting. The members then worked on their picture books, which they are preparing so that when finished, they may be sent to a children's hospital.

Later in the evening refreshments were served by Miss Anna Margaret McCarty and Eleanor Olsen, the hostesses.
