

Federal Boards Soon to Review Veteran Claims

Called Upon to Define Disabilities and Suggest Allowances; Boards to Be Established.

Washington.—With ninety days to complete their task, the first federal boards will be set up next week to review the claims of 150,000 veterans for pension payments on ailments presumed to have originated in service. President Roosevelt, announcing his approval of regulations creating the boards, sanctioned an order authorizing $50 monthly to Spanish-American war veterans 50 or older, who are 50 percent disabled and in need. He will define need later.

Between seventy and ninety reviewing boards will be established immediately. They will be announced as quickly as possible. The first are to be made public Monday. The boards will determine by Oct. 31 whether the veterans should continue to receive benefits on the presumption that their disabilities resulted from service or if they should be removed from the rolls.

Until the board decides his case, each veteran will draw 75 percent of the amount received prior to July 1, when the economy law became effective, or until Oct. 31. The president has the authority to extend these payments after Oct. 31, if necessary to permit the boards to complete their work. A special board of fifteen members will give a final review to the work done by regional boards.

The original economy law provided that veterans on whose cases the boards will pass should be removed from pension rolls on July 1, but legislation worked out in the closing hours of congress provided for the boards to review the case of each.

Each board will take up the veterans' classification automatically, without his having to submit a petition, but American Legion officials have urged each former soldier to file immediately any new or unprecedented faces that might help to establish that his ailment resulted from service.

The boards will have five members, three appointed by the president and two veterans' administration employees. The presidential appointees will be paid $15 a day and allowed expenses while sitting.—State Journal.

Asserts Nothing in Tax Limit to Cause Fear

Deputy Attorney General Ayres Says Cities Not Limited to Five Mills in Making Levy.

Lincoln.—Assistant Attorney General George W. Ayres Wednesday said no Nebraska towns which have been following the law regarding mill levies in recent years have anything to fear this year as no change was made by the last legislature.

Douglas county authorities recently announced alarm, asserting the maximum levy for towns was cut by the last legislature from 25 to 5 mills and that Halston and other towns could not operate on that basis.

Confusion Due to Change. Ayres said the confusion was due to the change more than a decade ago from the system of assessing property on the basis of one-fifth of its value to full market value.

When the assessments were on the one-fifth value basis, he said, the maximum levy for general fund purposes for towns was 25 mills, but when the valuation was changed to full value, the 1921 legislature passed a law barring any levies in excess of 20 per cent of those then in effect.

Old Statute Amended. Ayres said the effect of that law was to keep the ratio of levy and valuation the same and limited towns since 1921 to a 5-mill levy for general purposes. He said towns always have been privileged to levy whatever additional is necessary to cover the bonded debt.

The last legislature passed a law to permit towns and villages to make a 3-mill levy to reimburse persons from whom taxes had been collected under illegal special assessments. The law amended the old section of the statute which referred to a 25-mill levy limit for general purposes. To conform to the actual existing limit, the legislature changed the 25 to 5. Ayres said if this had not been done, the effect of passing the law amending that old section actually would have been to increase the maximum from 5 mills in effect since 1921 to 25 mills.

OMAHA VALUATION LOWER

Omaha.—State Treasurer Hall and Secretary of State Swanson announced here Wednesday night the state board of equalization had decided on a 15 percent reduction in valuation for property within the Omaha city limits and a 20 percent reduction for property in Douglas county outside the city limits.

The state board early this week heard the protests of Omahans who contended the assessments of Douglas County Assessor Greenleaf were too high. The protesting groups charged that Greenleaf had reduced assessments only an average of 11 percent.

Swanson and Hall said the state board had decided on the reductions for Douglas county so as to bring Douglas county appraisals in line with those of surrounding counties. They were in Omaha attending the democratic county meeting.

Plan County Setup for Re- Employment

State Director George Hodge of Lincoln Selects Field Men, Rushes Program.

Lincoln, Neb., July 28.—George Hodge of Lincoln, director for Nebraska of the federal re-employment service, returned today from Kansas City, where he participated in a two-day conference of directors of 17 states and Washington officials.

He said he has selected his field staff, and that after a few days of instruction work the service will be ready to meet the problems of re-employment in Nebraska. He will have his office in the capitol.

Outlining the general purpose of the organization, he said the national industrial recovery act provides for the expenditure of large sums of money on highways and other public works, with the object of hastening business improvements by giving jobs to those who would otherwise be unemployed.

"We propose," he said, "to organize a service to the unemployed and the employer in filling jobs that have become available as the contracts for public works are let. We will operate in geographical units, in most instances by counties.

"Re-employment committees, in areas where re-employment services are required, will be appointed shortly. These committees will assist in the reorganization of county re-employment service under the direction and supervision of the state director of re-employment service. These county organizations will be served and supervised by a field staff."

RULING ON LICENSES

Blocking of a beer license by petition from 50 per cent of voters of the last previous election does not apply to county licensing boards, but only to city and village boards.

This is the ruling which Assistant Attorney General Chaney is sending out to numerous inquiries.

Questions concerning a petition from a precinct to a county board have also been raised. The attorney general is of the opinion that a petition from a precinct would have no legal weight, but that county boards might give it due consideration in granting or refusing to grant a license in a certain precinct.

TO ATTEND CAMP

This year at the C. M. T. C. camp at Fort Crook, there will be only two representatives from this city, William Jensen and James Robertson, who are three year men. There were a large number from here enrolled, having received their "shots" and vaccinations, preparatory to going, when the lack of funds made necessary the curtailment of new students at the camp and only those in the advanced grades were ordered to the camp. This will open on August 1st at Fort Crook.
