Visiting the Century of Progress

On last Sunday, Joe Banning and son, Lucean, with Donald McQuinn and Arthur Foster, departed for Chicago, driving in their car, and expect to spend some ten days taking in the sights at the Century of Progress and will sure have a fine time. While they are away, Mrs. Banning will look after the store in conjunction with Nola, and sure they can do it in the very best manner.

Obey the Road Signs

There have been some slow signs erected on both sides of Union advising motorists it is an offense for anyone to drive faster than 25 miles an hour through town, and sure this ruling will be enforced. There is talk of a patrolman being put on to see that the ruling is lived up to. Better take notice and observe the signs if you don't want to get in trouble. The new pavement is fine to skim over with your car, but there is a limit as to how fast one should go, and especially in town where the possibility of killing or injuring someone is very great.

John Westley Woodard

John W. Woodard was born on August 21, 1862, in the state of Virginia, and with the parents when he was a small boy, came west and located near the then hustling town of Wyoming, located a few miles to the south of Union, late in the sixties, and has spent most of the three score and eleven years of his life in this vicinity.

Here Mr. Woodard grew to manhood and an excellent man he was, without an enemy anywhere and always ready and willing to befriend anyone in need of a friend. During his early life, Mr. Woodard worked on the farm and also in a stone quarry at Wyoming. Saving his money, he was soon able to go out in the western part of the state, where he purchased land and engaged in farming, but as the drought was severe for years, he returned to this vicinity, disposing of his holdings there after dropping his savings in the venture. Undaunted, he started out again and in due course of time was able to purchase a farm and later a residence property in the town of Union. His land here consisted of some 40 acres

Memories

The conducting of a funeral is not a mere matter of practical utility. This brief ceremony will live for years in the memory of the bereaved as the final parting with a loved one.

We feel that the greatest privilege and duty of the funeral director is to make this memory as consoling as possible.

at the edge of town. He was never married, but had a large circle of friends. His death followed a stroke of paralysis which occurred March 30th, and since that time he has been unable to care for himself. He has been nursed by Mrs. Chrisweiser, who had taken him to their home, where he passed away early Monday morning, August 7th. The funeral was held from the Baptist church in Union and was conducted by Rev. W. A. Taylor, assisted by the Rev. B. N. Kunkel, pastor of the Methodist church of Union. Interment was in the West Union cemetery, where Mr. Woodard's father was buried.

Thus has gone one of the very best citizens of the community, a man who has left an example for all to follow, and to get along with his fellow man, for Westley has proved it possible for one man to get along with all others, and went one can do this, others can do it, also.

FANNING FLAMES OF WAR

Tokyo.—The usually conservative Tokyo newspaper Asahi gave a prominent place to "reliable reports" of a secret Chinese-American aviation treaty which it said was recently negotiated in Washington by Dr. S. Alfred Sze, Chinese minister to Washington, and the American state department. If the pact is made effective, Asahi said, "it will gravely menace Japan's national defenses, wherefore the reports are claiming the serious attention of the imperial army." A foreign office spokesman said his bureau had no knowledge of such a treaty.

Washington.—William Phillips, acting secretary of state, said reports in Japanese newspapers of a secret Chinese-American aviation treaty are entirely without foundation. The Tokyo reports said such a treaty was negotiated in Washington by the Chinese minister and contemplated expenditure by China of 40 million dollars for American aircraft and the employment of American fliers as instructors. Similar reports have appeared in the orient of recent months and on all occasions the state department has declared them absurd.

The state relief committee appointed by Governor Bryan will be confronted with requests for relief from eighteen additional counties when it convenes at 1 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon at the capitol. The state committee will have an opportunity to study for approval the first set of relief orders upon stores. They were received Monday by Floyd Atkins, statistician of the state committee. The orders were signed and approved by M. M. Mitchell, chairman of the Antelope county emergency relief committee and by Secretary Fred D. Spencer of the same committee, both of Neligh.

These orders were for the first week's relief in Antelope county, totaling $51.98, and supplied seventeen families. One order calls for one pair of "pants," $1.25, one jacket at $1.25, two shirts at 60 cents each and one pair of socks at 25 cents.

One order for food gives a good idea of the kind of provisions ordered and the prices paid from federal relief. It calls for the following items: Three cans of milk at 5 cents each, one package of oatmeal at 10 cents, one pound of coffee at 25 cents, four pounds of navy beans at 25 cents, one box of matches at 5 cents, one gallon of kerosene at 10 cents, two thirds gallon vinegar at 25 cents, one sack salt at 10 cents, yeast 10 cents, one box pepper at 10 cents, one box cleaning powder at 25 cents, four bars of soap at 5 cents each, one dozen eggs at 9 cents, one can baking powder at 10 cents, two-thirds pound of butter at 12 cents. Additional Paving Asked on 'O' Street

Governor Bryan Lists Seven Miles from Eagle to Elmwood as Part of Paving Program.

In the paving and grading projects that will be called for August 31st is an addition to the paving on highway No. 24, or the "O" street road as it is more popularly known, the highway west from Union to Lincoln.

The governor has asked for the grading, drainage structure and concrete paving on the seven miles from Eagle east to a point south of Elmwood, completing another link in the highway paving which now stops at Eagle on the west and a mile west of the Nehawka corner on the east.

The other projects are scattered over the state where work is needed on partially completed projects, the whole amount of the letting being estimated at $500,000 for this time. The amount will come from the federal emergency fund of $7,800,000 which has been allotted to Nebraska.

The work of completing the paving on No. 75 north of this city has been delayed on account of the right of way that it will be necessary to secure before the work can be started on grading and preparing the new roadway for the paving, altho it was promised that this would be one of the projects for the 1933 program.
