Idle Talk Works Injustice

Some weeks since there were a number of night visits at the farm home of George Pickwell and his daughter, Mrs. Harry Davis, when their chicken roosts were raided and almost the entire flock taken. This has become an outrage and everything possible should be done to stop such practice and insure making the raising of poultry safe for the owner. Worse than the theft, however, there arose a report, although no one seems to know just where it started, to the effect that W. H. Leesley, who hatches and grows chickens by the thousand, was implicated in the disappearance of the chickens which were taken.

In the meantime he has and always has had a large flock of his own chickens, which do not bring a very good price and which makes it absurd that he would not attempt to add to his already large holdings by pilfering those of his neighbors.

Besides this, idle gossip has started the rumor that two of his neighbors had also lost chickens and it was insinuated that Mr. Leesley was interested in their disappearance, but the truth of the matter is that they did not even lose any. These tales, from whatever source they come, are all false and untrue, and while they furnish talk for some one who has nothing else to do, they are casting a suspicion on some one who like every other man nowadays is struggling by hard work to get along. Before a report of this kind is spread, the truth should be found out.

Notice

The damaging report being circulated about me is untrue and had better be stopped at once. If my friends hear any more of this, please come to me at once and tell me and I will see that someone will pay very dear for their gossip.

W. H. LEESLEY.

60,000 Nebraska Families Jobless Survey Reveals

George Hodge Re-Employment Director for Nebraska Foresees Aid Before Winter.

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 16.—Estimating that 60 thousand, or 17 per cent, of Nebraska's families have no members employed, George Hodge, federal re-employment director for Nebraska, expressed hope today that federal and state programs now under way will care for them this winter.

Hodge made his estimate on the basis of county reports submitted to him by county committeemen in the organization he set up to fill jobs created by the federal highway program.

Simultaneously, Floyd A. Atkins, emergency relief statistician, dispatched to chairmen of county emergency relief committees a stern warning that local governmental units must carry on their work to relieve distress and not depend on the 700 thousand dollars in federal funds expected for this state.

Demands Local Help.
"I predict that counties not using their available resources won't get federal funds," he commented. "Every department of government that has any taxing power left has a direct responsibility to help those in distress. The federal government has made provision to carry a substantial share of unemployment relief needs, but unless many states and local subdivisions make immediate provision for a larger measure of support than they are now providing, the unemployed and their dependents will suffer."

Hodge said about five thousand jobs would be provided by federal highway work on which contracts will be let this month. Governor Bryan has said he hoped to see 10 thousand men at work on these projects by fall.

Managers Named.
A list of county re-employment managers and the estimate of the unemployed in each county was made public by Hodge.

George Bickley is the manager at Omaha; the municipal employment service will have charge in Lincoln; J. Ed C. Fisher will take charge at Beatrice; E. L. Gisinger at Grand Island; Ernest Romero at North Platte, and Frank Warner at Norfolk.

Hodge estimated Douglas county had 15 thousand families unemployed; Lancaster, three thousand; Lincoln, 1,300; Hall, 1,300; Gage, five hundred. He reckoned four persons to a family.—World-Herald.

Harold Meyers and son, David, of Weeping Water, were in the city Wednesday afternoon to look after some matters of business and visiting with friends for a few hours.

MISSOURI JOB HELD UP
Nebraska City, Neb.—With no news of additional funds made available at Washington, hope of continuing work on the Missouri river in this region is fading rapidly. Suspension of activities on the river between St. Joseph, Mo., and Sioux City, Ia., means the dismissal of about sixty workers, according to C. C. Cook, engineer in charge. Cook was hopeful that new money would be assigned to the project at the last moment to allow continuance of the work.

FEW CALLS FOR HELP
Omaha.—Chairman Hird Stryker of the Douglas county re-employment committee said he is disappointed that so few calls are received for help from employers. Nineteen men were given work Wednesday at Fort Omaha, and two cooks and two machinists were placed.

Matthews to Second Highest K. C. Office

Prominent Catholic Layman and Attorney of Omaha, Gets New Honor.

Francis P. Matthews, Omaha attorney and one of the most active and prominent Catholic laymen in Nebraska, was elected Wednesday deputy supreme knight of the Knights of Columbus, second highest office of the order in America.

News of his election came from John E. Fitzpatrick of Omaha, state deputy of the order, who with Mr. Matthews is attending the national Knights of Columbus convention in Chicago, to Frank Bosnek, grand knight of the Omaha council. The election makes Mr. Matthews a logical choice for supreme knight, the highest post, whenever a successor shall be named to Martin H. Carmody of Grand Rapids, Mich., who on Wednesday was re-elected supreme knight.

Mr. Matthews has reached his present eminence in the order through successively holding all offices in the local, district and state groups. He has been grand knight of the Omaha council, state deputy twice, and now is a member of the supreme board of directors, serving his third term. He also was president of the building association which was responsible for erection of the Knights of Columbus club house at Omaha.

In 1924 he was designated a Knight of St. Gregory by Pope Pius XI in recognition of commendable service to the church and state. He is a member of St. Cecilia's cathedral parish at Omaha.

WITNESS OF CUBAN FIGHT
Omaha.—A witness to the last stage of the Cuban rebellion, Herman Gunther, Omaha contractor, arrived home from Havana Wednesday. Mr. Gunther spent last Friday night in Havana, having stopped there on his way home from Panama. He saw a once animated city paralyzed with fear and hunger on every Cuban face.

That was the night before President Machado fled into exile. When Mr. Gunther's boat docked, passengers were forbidden to go ashore. No cargoes were unloaded and none taken on. The docks were deserted. The silence was broken only once—by a terrific blast near the presidential palace. Police had been trying to operate one tram line in defiance of the strikers. The strikers blew up the tram, killing seven.

"This new man they've got as president is the man neverthey wanted, there's no doubt about that," said Gunther. There was no special ill feeling against Americans in Havana, Mr. Gunther said.

AIRMAIL ECONOMY SOUGHT
Washington.—The postoffice department announced that it had summoned airmail carriers into a conference Aug. 24 to discuss the need for reducing airmail expenditures so as to keep them within the amount allowed by congress. Last session, congress, after much wrangling, cut the total from $19,460,000 allowed last year to $15,000,000 for the current twelve months.

The call for the new meeting was issued by W. W. Howes, second assistant postmaster general in charge of airmail, who said in a statement: "Airmail carriers have been requested to meet with the postoffice department in Washington Aug. 24 with a view to effecting a readjustment of airmail rates and service in order to keep within the amount given for such service during the current fiscal year."
