Enjoying the Sunshine

As much of the business now comes in pennies instead of dimes and dollars, and there is not much being done at any price, a number of the young men about town and some not so young, took advantage of the quiet spell to get out in the open and pitch pennies at the crack in the sidewalk for amusement—and profit for those fortunate enough to win. But if they lost, it was something else. However, they enjoyed the game and the warm sunshine that has prevailed for the past week.

Mrs. Elizabeth Flamme

Mrs. Elizabeth Flamme, well along in years, and who has been ill for some time, passed away on last Sunday and was buried at the Mount Pleasant cemetery on Wednesday. W. L. Hobson, the funeral director, of Weeping Water, was here Sunday to receive the remains and prepare them for burial, returning for the funeral on Wednesday. LOUISVILLE WINS GAME

The football team of the C. C. C. boys at Louisville journeyed over to this city Sunday to stage a good fast game of ball with the local town team. The visitors have a good, fast and well coached team and made a brilliant passing attack on the locals that was responsible for the score of 6 to 0.

The visitors scored in the second and threatened in the third, but the locals were able to hold and check period of the game and threatened any further scores.

For the Plattsmouth team Hubert Dew, former high school fullback, was the most consistent ground gainer and made several excellent runs, while on the line work Spangler and Henry Krejci were effective in checking the visitors.

Midwest Needy to be Cared for Thru the Winter

Nebraska Presents Less Serious Aspect Than Its Neighboring States.

Kansas City.—Foreseeing that "we are going to start the winter with a million more families than were on relief a year ago at this time," Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator, said "very emphatically the needy unemployed are going to be taken care of this winter." He told relief delegations of Iowa, Nebraska, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Missouri and Kansas "if we are to provide adequately the essentials of life, which is the chief motive of the federal emergency relief administration, all forms of government, local, state and federal must work together in contributing funds."

"Altho there wasn't anything said about it," Hopkins said, "last February and March there were 4 1/2 million families, or something over 20 million persons on relief. It was an unprecedented circumstance. It need not be wondered at that few persons really have any idea of the extent of this destitution problem. As I see it, we are going to start the winter with a million more families than were on relief a year ago."

Hopkins estimated about 3,250,000 families were on relief rolls at the present time. During the five months the federal emergency relief administration has been in operation approximately 216 million dollars has been allotted by the federal government to care for the needy unemployed, he said. The unemployment relief bill of the nation, which is approximately a billion dollars a year, must be paid, he said. "This means that the need for private contributions is greater."

Appealing for each state to shoulder its responsibility, Hopkins termed it "absurd to herd people, most of whom are in no sense tramps or hoboes, and shoo them across the state line at the point of a gun." Explaining that the federal emergency relief administration is caring for 15 million persons by two methods, direct relief and "work relief," Hopkins expressed a preference for the latter. "Half of the heads of families receiving relief are earning it in this way," he said.

Unlike Missouri, Iowa, Kansas and Arkansas—all recipients of federal aid since last winter—Nebraska received its first federal funds in August and does not face as serious a problem as that described by representatives of those four states. W. H. Smith, Nebraska relief director, said that counties of his state have, for the most part, cared for their individual relief problems. The number of families on relief rolls in that state, he said, is about 11,000. The state has been promised $300,000 federal funds for November and will receive $100,000 for October this week, he said.

NOT ALWAYS WHAT THEY SEEM

He saw her from across the street—
 The sight gave him a thrill;
 And the smile he caught from her limpid eyes
 Was sweet enough to kill.

A wave of the kerchief that he drew
 From a pocket at his hip,
 Was answered by the token sent
 Athwart her ruby lip.

As he nearer drew he discovered with grief
 What a glance had led him into—
 'Twasn't the person he thought—
 —alas,
 But a mulatto girl washing the window.

Thus, a reconnaissance of the field,
 And a clear view seems de rigueur,
 And may avert a discomfiture grave
 Ere we fully grasp the figure.

So, best not trust to a casual glimpse
 Of what comes before the eye—
 For "many's the slip 'twixt cup and lip,"
 And figures sometimes lie. "K"

DONATES BEAUTIFUL QUILT

The quilt is being exhibited in the show window at the E. A. Wurl store.
