Got Himself into Trouble
Last Monday a young man drove into Greenwood, stopping at the filling station operated by Clyde Newkirk, where he made request for gas, saying he wanted to exchange the rumble seat on his car for the liquid to keep it running. Mr. Newkirk declined to trade and was told a long and pathetic story of how the young man was en route to Lincoln to get his father and take him to Omaha—although the car bore a Missouri license number. Clyde advised him to go and see the mayor, which he did, and later Mr. Landon came back with the youth and purchased him 25 cents worth of gas to add to that already in his tank, and enough to get him into Lincoln.

A little later the young man drove up at the Dixie station, where a lady is in charge and said: "Fill 'er up," which she did. Then he stepped on the gas and drove away. The matter was reported to the Lincoln office as the station is owned by a Lincoln firm and a look out was kept for the lad, who left the highway immediately and drove south. Later in the day he ran into a ditch near Palmyra, wrecking the car and being quite badly cut from broken glass. When he went to a doctor to have his wounds dressed the matter was reported to Lincoln and the state sheriff and two aides went out from there and picked up the lad, taking him to Lincoln, where he was lodged in jail. He gave his name as Porterfield Alexander and his home as Jefferson City, Mo. He is still in jail at Lincoln.

Many Injured During Storm
During the time when the dust storm of last Sunday was raging, a party of four in a car were coming from Murdock to Greenwood and had proceeded some two miles west from Murdock, when suddenly they were confronted by a gap in the roadway where a bridge had been removed for the construction of another one, and when they noticed it was too late to prevent the car from plunging in the ditch. Those in the car were Dean Nickles and Geo. Otley, both of Waverly, and Misses Ottilie Hibbard and Irene Goings, both of Greenwood.

The plunge wrecked the car and injured all of the occupants. One of the young ladies had three ribs fractured, her leg injured and suffered numerous cuts and bruises about the face and body. The other young lady had a broken arm and many cuts and bruises as well. Mr. Otley had his face badly cut, and was considerably bruised. Mr. Nickles had a severe cut on his throat below the chin.

They were able to extricate themselves from the wreckage and telephoned to Greenwood for some one to come for them. George Trunkenbolz hastened to the scene and brot the injured parties to Greenwood, where they were treated by Dr. Talcott. Returning later, he brought the wrecked car to town.

FORMER SENATOR IS DEAD
Washington, November 16.—Henry C. Hansbrough, 85, former senator from North Dakota, died here of pneumonia. Hansbrough, who was known as the father of irrigation, had been ill several days. QUESTION SECTION HAND
Logan, Ia.—Charles Savery, 55, of Woodbine, was detained by Sheriff C. F. Cross, railway agents and three state agents for questioning in connection with the dynamiting of two railway bridges last Friday. Railway officials first attributed the blast, which damaged slightly an Illinois Central and a Chicago and Northwestern bridge, to activity in connection with the farm strike. Savery, a section hand, was patrolling the C. & N. W. tracks the night of the blast and reported it to authorities. He was taken to Council Bluffs for questioning.

Morgan and U. S. Steel Head Meet with Roosevelt

Both Remain Silent After a Conference of Forty-five Minutes; Emerge Smiling.
Washington, Nov. 16.—President Roosevelt chatted over the teacups with J. P. Morgan, the New York financier, and Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the board of the United States Steel corporation, early tonight in a meeting described at the White house as only social.

Smiling and genial, the two executives left the White house shortly before 7 p. m. to take a train for New York, referring all inquiries to the president. Later, Stephen T. Early, a secretary of Mr. Roosevelt, said the meeting was entirely social, occasioned by the presence in the city of Morgan on business.

Morgan Is Hesitant.
Mrs. Roosevelt poured tea and sat with the president, Morgan and Taylor during the 45 minutes the visitors were there. Taylor has been a frequent caller in the White house executive offices during the long negotiations by the president to establish the NRA code for the steel industry but it is the first time that Morgan, head of the private banking firm, has been in the executive mansion in recent years. Hesitating for a moment on the front portico as he left, Morgan re-

Difficulty in Program.
There has been much talk recently of possible heavy purchases by Russia of such goods if proper credits could be arranged. Maxim Litvinoff is in Washington now negotiating for Russian recognition. One of the difficulties that the recovery administration has encountered, too, in its drive to start business on the upgrade has been a slowness in the heavy industries. With the gold purchasing program under way and the dollar showing recent drops in foreign exchange, here has been talk of possible action by France or Great Britain to stabilize the franc and the pound. The Morgan company in recent years has acted as fiscal agents in this country for France and Great Britain.—World-Herald.

THREE MENTIONED FOR POST
Washington.—Three men were mentioned as possible successors to Henry Morgenthau, Jr., as governor of the farm credit administration after Friday, when Morgenthau becomes undersecretary of the treasury. They were Herbert E. Gaston and Dr. W. I. Myers, deputy governor of the credit administration, and Ray T. Crowley, newly appointed agent in charge of its agencies at St. Paul, Minn. Morgenthau disclosed that he had recommended a successor during a conference with President Roosevelt Wednesday but refused to say whom he had favored. He said he hoped to have Gaston, his associate for several years, accompany him to the treasury but refused to deny reports that he had recommended Gaston as his successor.

Allotments are Made to Towns in Nebraska

State Gets $14,600 of the Latest Federal Grants for Public Works.

Washington.—The public works administration allotted $17,838,100 for thirty-seven nonfederal projects in eighteen states which officials said would provide 97,455 man-months of direct employment. Fourteen of the projects received grants of 30 percent of the cost of labor and material only, with the balance to be raised locally. Twenty-one received grants of 30 percent plus the remainder as a loan to be repaid with interest at 4 percent. The remainder were loans for projects not eligible for any part as a grant.

The largest allocation was one of $5,114,500 to West Virginia as a loan and grant for road work. A loan and grant of $4,600,000 was made to Milwaukee for a water plant. The other allotments included: Shoshone, Ida., waterworks, $180,000. Madison, Wis., loan and grant, water supply, $183,200. Billings, Mont., loan and grant, school, $400,000. Helena, Mont., loan and grant, building, $300,000.

The following communities received grants: Kearney, water mains, $700. North Platte, jail, $12,200. Gothenburg, water, $800. Curtis, reservoir, $1,200. The grant of $12,200 to Lincoln county, Nebraska, is to aid in construction of a two story brick and reinforced concrete jail building at North Platte, the total cost of which is to be $50,190. No loan was requested and the allotment represents 30 percent of the labor and material cost. The county will furnish the balance from other revenues. Work can start in about thirty days, and the PWA estimated it would give thirty-five men employment for four months.

The city of Gothenburg, Neb., received a grant of $800 to aid in the installation of a tubular well and construction of a pumping plant. The total cost of the project is $3,330 and the allotment is 30 percent of the labor and material cost. The city will furnish the balance from other revenues, no loan being requested. The PWA stated work has already started and it is estimated it would give six men employment for three months. The grant of $1,200 to Curtis, Neb., is to aid in construction of a 150,000 gallon reservoir. Total cost of the project is $5,220. The allotment represents 30 percent of the labor and material cost and the balance will be furnished by the city from other revenues. No loan was requested. Work can start immediately and the PWA estimated it would give employment to eighteen men for one month.

Kearney, Neb., received a grant of $700 to aid in the extension of six-inch water main and installation of four-inch fire hydrants. No loan was requested. The allotment represents 30 percent of labor and material costs on a $2,500 project, with the city furnishing the remainder. Work can start in ten days and public works officials estimated seven men would be employed one month.

State Beer Tax is Lower for the Month of October

Total Collected Drops to $11,807 from $19,171 in August—Considered a Large Drop.
The state beer tax of 93 cents per barrel on 3.2 product sold by brewers, wholesalers and distributors within Nebraska, for the month of October dropped to $11,807.26, according to Chief McCaffin of the state department of agriculture which collects the tax. The total collected for September was $18,123.61 and for the last twenty days in August, the first period for collection after the law became effective, it was $19,171.59, a total of $49,101.86 for the first three months. Some additional may be collected before the close of the month, but the falling off in October is surprisingly large. Chief McCaffin said there might be a little tax lost thru imports from Iowa, particularly from Council Bluffs into Omaha, and some coming across the Wyoming line in western counties, but he did not believe it would amount to much. He is of the opinion that the law would have been improved if it had required brewers and distributors outside the state to set up headquarters or a state agency in Nebraska so that the tax might be collected in Omaha an effort is being made to keep deliveries from Council Bluffs out of the state, or at least to collect the tax, by enforcing a city peddler ordinance. To aid in collecting the tax the law requires retailers to file reports with the state department showing the amount of beer bought from wholesalers. These are checked with reports of sales by wholesalers on file. There are between 2,500 and 3,000 retailers. As the state department does not issue licenses it is in the dark as to who are retailers. The department queried every city and village clerk for a list of retailers licensed. State inspectors in the field also investigate. Some few retailers have sold out or quit business.

VISITS WITH SISTER
From Saturday's Daily
Charles Gradoville was at Omaha today where he spent several hours visiting with his sister, Mrs. Louis Kerbel, who has been quite ill for some time and has just undergone an operation for gall stones. The patient is now doing very nicely and able to receive callers. Mrs. Kerbel will be remembered by the older residents here, the family having made their home in Plattsburgh for several years.

Ready for Livestock Show

With more than 13,000 bluebloods of the farm animal kingdom entered, a larger list than last year, the thirty-fourth annual International Live Stock Exposition at the Union Stock Yards in Chicago, December 2 to 9, promises to be the greatest since the event was first held in 1900. This triumvirate of bluebloods, Wynken, Blinken and Nod (above) will carry off many blue ribbons in the classes for Shorthorn cattle at the exposition, it is the fond hope of T. Dorsey Jones, a stock breeder of Shelbyville, Indiana.
