AK-SAR-BEN

My native state! Vast prairie land! Where boundless plains seem to expand Into a rippling, silver sea. Of measureless immensity. This was the sight of my childhood eyes Looked on each day in glad surprise.

From over strange, unbroken ways, Brave pioneers came in early days; I saw them in the crimson dawn. Their weary oxen plodding on. Huge covered wagons blazed the trail. Such faith and courage could not fail.

The lurid flame of prairie fire, Served but to kindle keen desire. To tame the land, wrest from its hold, The wealth the virgin soil controlled; For a determined, conquering zest, Prevailed through all the wondrous west.

The mighty buffalo's rumbling tread, Shock the new land; while overhead, The eagle dozed upon a cloud, And near the field where father plowed, The antelope tip-toed quite near. His wild heart still unknown to fear.

Some lonely days and hardships drear, Then neighbors came and friends so dear; The tide of settlers mounted higher, Then lo! A land of hearts-desire. From earnest toil and efforts great, Columbia gained a glorious state.

The friendlike old sod house is gone, Our state is just one splendid farm; Her orchard groves and fertile fields, Provide the world a liberal yield; We reap today, the Pioneer's price, The harvest of their sacrifice.

Ak-Sar-Ben Land, red, green and gold, Of wealth abundant, joy untold, As countless thousands ask for bread, Nebraska gives till all are fed. I salute, with pride, this autumn morn, The grand old state where I was born. MINNIE JOHNSON HARDY.

U. S. Recognizes Soviet; Bullitt to be First Envoy

Pledge Against Any Propaganda Exacted by President Roosevelt; Terms Accepted.

Washington, Nov. 17.—Recognition of soviet Russia by the United States was announced today by President Roosevelt.

Sitting at his desk in the executive office shortly after 4 p. m., Mr. Roosevelt smilingly said that the 16-year breach between the two nations was actually ended at 10 minutes before midnight last night.

At that time he and Maxim Litvinoff, soviet commissar for foreign affairs, came to an agreement on the points that have been in negotiation since Litvinoff arrived November 7. The two were in the White house at the time.

William C. Bullitt, a state department expert on Russian affairs who has attended the personal conversations between the chief executive and the Russian diplomat, has been proposed by the president as the first American ambassador to the soviet union.

Effective at Once

The president was asked whether recognition was actually effective until an exchange of ambassadors but Mr. Roosevelt said it was his horse-back opinion that diplomatic relations were resumed the moment he and Litvinoff came to an agreement.

Who will be the Russian ambassador to this country was not immediately disclosed.

The White house made public a bulky document covering the points agreed upon. Mr. Roosevelt chuckled when he asked the reporters to read it in its entirety.

The exchange of communications between the president and the soviet government's foremost diplomat showed that an understanding had been reached on propaganda, the right of religious freedom for American citizens in Russia, civil rights of American nationals and some claims.

Agree on Consular Convention

An agreement also was reached for a "consular convention" between the two countries in which the United States is to be assured that its citizens will have all the rights that are granted to the nationals of other states under existing treaties with the soviet. The convention will deal specifically with the rights of consuls of America and Russia.

Members of the soviet delegation said that accord reached before recognition set no precedents so far as Russia is concerned and that it conformed to other understandings and treaties reached by the soviet with other states.

The involved question of claims and counter claims between the two countries was largely left for further negotiations.—World-Herald.

Conrad Mann is Free Following Capital Pardon

Roosevelt Rescues Eagle Official from Term for Lottery—Agrees to Pay $10,000 Fine.

New York.—Conrad H. Mann, president of the Kansas City chamber of commerce, walked out of the federal house of detention after serving only four hours of his five month sentence for violation of lottery laws. President Roosevelt pardoned him late in the afternoon, but it was two hours before the federal red tape could be severed and Mann could be freed from the prison on Manhattan's waterfront.

Surrounded by United States marshals and attorneys, Mann stepped thru the door of the government prison to the sidewalk. His eyes were tear filled and his hands shook as he accepted the congratulations of the little group waiting for him.

"There's little I can say—very little—only that I'm deeply grateful to President Roosevelt," said the business leader who once served as a member of former President Hoover's unemployment commission.

Mann posed for photographers before the prison, turned and waved a jovial goodbye to the night guard at the gate—a different man from the prisoner who, four hours before, was described by his attorney as "all broken up" at the surrender.

Lim Treadwell, young government prosecutor of the Kansas City business leader on lottery charges growing out of affairs conducted by the fraternal order of Eagles, effected Mann's release on orders from Washington. Mann signed a formal acceptance of his pardon and a guarantee to pay a $10,000 fine before Dec. 30.

WHISKERS FOUND BY DRAKE

Railway Commissioner Drake takes exception to a proposed new telephone rate-depreciation policy statement of Commissioner Bollen and said Bollen's plan was along lines followed by the Nebraska commission for years.

"That policy is so old that it has whiskers," Drake said. "We have been working for years in conferences and hearings to determine what is a proper depreciation allowance. Final action would have been taken months ago if the interstate commerce commission, working on the same problem, had had time to reach a final conclusion.

"Instead of the companies taking 10 to 20 percent more for depreciation than is justified as Bollen charges," Drake said, "I'm inclined to believe they've had considerably less. Companies that take only 5 percent can show figures on tests of supposedly nonpartisan bodies showing costs running up to 8 percent on depreciation. The rate is determined in a composite manner, since all parts of a telephone property do not depreciate at the same rate, nor do they depreciate in different counties at the same rate."

CONGRESSMAN VISITS OMAHA

A. C. Shallenberger, congressman from the Fourth Nebraska district and shorthorn cattle raiser, was in Omaha Wednesday conferring with John Latenser, jr., state public works engineer, on the Haigler-Benkeiman-Arikaree $1,800,000 water project. Application has been filed with the government for federal funds.

"I also intend to see federal farm loan bank officials about advancing loans to farmers with less appraisal delay and with more generous valuations," Shallenberger said.

Shallenberger said he would be in Washington Dec. 1 to meet with the ways and means committee to consider revision of revenue laws because of repeal and because of revelations of income tax evasion by millionaires.

He will visit Governor Bryan in Lincoln Thursday. In Omaha with him was L. E. Crews, stock breeder, who was having a stock sale at the South Omaha stockyards.

ASKS FEDERAL PROVISIONS

Randall C. Biart, state director of federal emergency relief has just made a requisition upon the federal relief administration for pork, butter, flour, canned beef and cereal which he hopes to receive in due time for aid of needy Nebraskans, but he is pining his faith in work relief and not charity.

"Dishing out flour and shoes alleviates immediate suffering but provides no permanent relief," Biart said. His requisition calls for 730,000 pounds of butter, the first of this food asked for, 351,220 cans of corned beef and an equal number of canned roast beef, 1,485,000 pounds of flour, 568,000 pounds of crack wheat in two pound sacks, and 170,000 pounds of smoked pork, exclusive of present allotments.

Biart said the Webster county board has just passed a resolution providing for a work program, the Washington county emergency relief committee has just approved several projects, and many other counties have definite work projects under way whereby the unemployed may exchange work for necessary supplies, he said.

Predicts Immense Changes

Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, who spoke before the convention of the Association of Land Grant Colleges and Universities in Chicago Monday, attended by hundreds of agricultural experts. He predicted the vast shifting in the farm population of the United States in a "rational resettlement" may be necessary in attaining the sound and permanent American prosperity to which President Roosevelt is committed.
