Miss Viola Everett, who was laid up for two days with a severe attack of flu, is now able to be out again and is feeling much improved.

Mrs. Oscar McDonald was a visitor for a few days with her daughter, Mrs. Will Meyers and family, of near Ashland, returning home on Tuesday evening of last week.

The Murdock High school baseball team went to Manley on last Tuesday and participated in a game with the team of the Manley schools, winning by a score of 15 to 5.

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Kuehn and the family were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Gerthey and were accompanied by Prof. Keller, of Lincoln. All enjoyed the sumptuous supper and a pleasant evening's visit.

A. H. Ward was a visitor in Manley on Wednesday of this week, having some business matters to look after there, and told of the dust storm having been so bad that he had to stop until a sudden gust was past in order to find the roadway. The wind whipped up great clouds of dirt from the newly plowed fields and deposited the silt over a wide area.

Field Glass Very Handy

In this, or some other county near this one, there lives a farmer and wife who believe in having things handy. They have, of course a telephone, a radio and a very fine motor car, which, with other things make life on the farm convenient and happy, or perhaps we should just say convenient.

A salesman making the country territory, chanced to pass a school house about a quarter of a mile from the farm home aforementioned, when he observed the farmer engaged in a very earnest conversation with the pretty schoolteacher. He noticed how earnestly they were talking and as he passed the farm house a little ways further on he observed that the farm wife was standing on the porch with a pair of field glasses in her hand and with the same glued to her eyes, looking in the direction of the couple engaged in the interesting tete-a-tete at the school house.

That is all of this chapter.

Single Contract May Include Every Crop

Farm Administration to Encompass All Basic Commodities—Must Be Drawn Up Soon.

Washington.—The farm administration has already turned considerable attention a semi-permanent program, but it gave consideration first Friday to plans for a single acreage reduction contract which would encompass all of an individual farmer's crops listed as basic commodities.

When congress tossed into the administration's lap a new list of basic commodities, including beef cattle, barley, rye, flax, peanuts and grain sorghums, it was apparent handling them under the present system of individual contracts for each crop would be impossible.

Later the farm relief program will emerge into a permanent plan of federal purchase, and withdrawal permanently from production, of thousands of farm acres which will be returned to the public domain as parks, fish and game preserves, forests, and erosion prevention areas.

In the meantime, however, an intermediate system must be set up to carry on present programs for controlling production and eliminating surpluses.

An authoritative administration official declared, in connection with the encompassing single acreage reduction contract proposal: "We can't wait six or eight months to complete such a plan. It must be drawn up within the next few months and be ready to propose to farmer for signature before the fall planting season rolls around."

Such a modification of the present program will present many problems of formulation and administration, officials concede. But will mean a simplification of the work of everyone concerned with application of the adjustment act.

County Committees Save.

The chief saving under the plan will be in the time of county production control committees who supervise the details of contract signing and application and the contract signers themselves, administration executives said.

The blanket contract will call for but one set of figures on a farmer's production, one county committee, and will probably provide for one single benefit payment, probably to be distributed in two checks, one shortly after the contract is signed and the second after compliance with its terms is assured.

The principle of compulsion is not heard frequently in discussions of the semi-permanent program Secretary Wallace and his lieutenants being skeptical of the idea. They declare they will wait until results of the experiment in compulsion contained in the Bankhead bill to restrict cotton production are apparent.

The probability that the processing taxes now used to finance the emergency programs will continue for some time is apparent. It is argued that, until a better idea is suggested, farmers must continue to be induced to sign contracts by the reward of benefit payments paid out of processing tax receipts.

"DOWN ON THE FARM"

In the absence of Mr. Bly's contributions to this column, we are publishing the following this week by request of a reader. It is a poem that was recited on the floor of the House by Congressman Louis Ludlow, from Indiana. Perhaps some of our rural readers will see their own life reflected in its lines.

Down on the farm, 'bout half past four,
I slip on my pants and sneak out the door;
Out in the yard I run like the dickens
To milk ten cows and feed the chickens,
Clean out the barn, curry Nancy and Jiggs,
Separate the cream, and stop the pigs;
Work two hours, then eat like a Turk.
And, by heck, I'm ready for a full day's work.

Then I grease the wagon and put on the rack,
Throw a jug of water in an old grain sack,
Elch up the horses, hustle down the lane,
Must get the hay in, for it looks like rain,
Look over yonder! Sure as I'm born,
Cattle on the rampage and cows in the corn!
Start across the meadow, run a mile or two,
Heaving like I'm wind-broke, get wet clear through,
Get back to the horses, then for recompense,
Nancy get a-straddle of the barbed-wire fence,
Joints all a-ching and muscles in a jerk,
I'm fit as a fiddle for a full day's work!

Work all summer till winter is nigh,
Then figure up the books and heave a big sigh,
Worked all year, didn't make a thing,
Got less cash now than I had last spring,
Now, some people tell us that there ain't no hell;
But they never farmed, so, how can they tell?
But when spring rolls 'round I take another chance,
While the fringe grows longer on my old gray pants,
Give my 'sponders a hitch, my butt another jerk,
And, by heck, I'm ready for another year's work!

Why Liquid Laxatives are Back in Favor

The public is fast returning to the use of liquid laxatives. People have learned that the right dose of a properly prepared liquid laxative will bring a perfect movement without any discomfort at the time, or after.

The dose of a liquid laxative can be varied to suit the needs of the individual. The action can thus be regulated. A child is easily given the right dose. And mild liquid laxatives do not irritate the kidneys.

Doctors are generally agreed that senna is a natural laxative. It does not drain the system like the cathartics that leave you so thirsty. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a liquid laxative which relies on senna for its laxative action. It gently helps the average person's bowels back to regularity.

Improvements Made at Telephone Building

Newly Decorated and Arranged Business Offices—Adds Conveniences for Customers.

The first floor of the Lincoln Telephone & Telegraph Co. building on North Sixth street, is being redecorated and arranged so that it is one of the most attractive business offices in the city and also being made most convenient to the general public.

The company has had the room at the rear of the main business office arranged as a special customers room where amid pleasant surroundings the customers can place their long distance calls and enjoy every convenience that they might wish.

The company will have a long distance booth arranged in the room which will have a desk at the disposal of the customers where they may have their papers at hand when transacting their business or giving orders over the telephone to distant points. This feature will be especially appreciated by the traveling salesman as it permits them having all necessary papers at their hand.

The interior of both the main office and the customers rooms have been painted in a shade of cream that is restful to the eye and makes the offices much more light and attractive in appearance. New linoleum in the customers room in shades of gray and black add to the appearance of the room.

The company also has made general repairs to the building that has been a great benefit to the structure and cost between $300 and $400, all of which has gone to local workmen for their labor and material.
