

Settling Disputes

IT IS A strange thing that men often resort to strife first and reason afterwards in their efforts to settle disputes. Misunderstandings, jealousy, envy, self-justification, and the like are corrected not through strife, but through reason and amicable agreement. Wars are not a means of securing such an agreement; but after the use of bayonet and gun has ceased, and reason begins to bring about peaceful relations, then disputes are settled.

The ages have furnished historical data which prove that material ambitions and possessions afford no sound basis for peace, in either national or personal relations. Matter, being limited in its nature, expresses the belief of limitation in its every manifestation. Instead of making one great, trust in matter weakens one who relies upon it; and what this reliance does to individuals it does to nations. One right thinking individual is more valuable to world peace than millions of wrong thinkers. Referring to this individual importance, Mary Baker Eddy has written in "Pulpit and Press" (p. 4): "You have simply to preserve a scientific, positive sense of unity with your divine source, and daily demonstrate this. Then you will find that one is as important a factor as duodecillions in being and doing right, and thus demonstrating deity Principle." A little farther on she quotes, "One on God's side is a majority."

As the spokes of a wagon wheel get nearer the hub, they get nearer to each other; so is it with men; as they get closer to God in thought, they get closer to one another. The divine plan is impartial and blesses all alike who obey its laws of action. Love does not grant special favors, nor restrict legitimate progress; neither does it provide for such regulations through the material agencies commonly known as implements of warfare. The words of our Master, who came to fulfill the law, not to destroy, are as significant today as when they were spoken to Peter after he had drawn his sword and cut off the ear of the servant of the high priest: "Put up again thy sword into his place; for all they that take the sword shall perish with the sword." Then, as if in holy benediction, he turned Peter's thought from matter to the infinite source of all good by asking, "Thinkest thou that I cannot now pray to my Father, and he shall presently give me more than twelve legions of angels?"

During the last quarter of a century was witnessed the most vicious and widespread combat ever fought, and today there is a crying need for assurances of peace, and a universally acceptable basis for the settlement of disputes. Spurred on by what it calls national defense policies, the human race has become engaged in the provision of drastic material methods of self-preservation.

But that which counteracts "all evil" comes from the divine Mind, not from the cannon's mouth. When animality gives way to brotherly love, and trustfulness takes the place of dependence upon brute strength, the desire to rule one's neighbor through force or cunning will cease. It is the nature of God's law to elevate, not suppress, the human race; to give life, and not to take it. His law holds universal jurisdiction over all points of equity, and His angels bestow all blessedness on those who obey His law. As one becomes better acquainted with the demands of divine Mind, one begins to settle personal disputes by first correcting one's own thought. Starting with God, the source of all intelligence and good, one may establish friendly relations with others, for there is but one common origin and basis of all harmonious action.

Intelligence has already established an impartial and wholly practical answer to all questions; and when the entire human family submits to God's government, there will be no cause for distrust, fear, or strife, and there will be no unsettled disputes among men. Then will the prophecy of Isaiah be fulfilled, namely: "The mountain of the Lord's house shall be established in the top of the mountains, and shall be exalted above the hills; and all nations shall flow into it. . . . And they shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruninghooks; nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more."—The Christian Science Monitor.

Missouri River to Benefit from Roosevelt Plan

Development Advocates Expect a Favorable Report Soon; Norris Agrees.

Washington, April 26.—President Roosevelt will send to congress, probably within a week, an outline of future national development which will forecast continued Missouri valley improvement on a giant scale, supporters of Missouri river development said today.

Scuffing at reports that the findings of the president's cabinet board would be detrimental to the Missouri, these river advocates said they expected to find the study would substantiate their contention that this valley is the most fruitful field for development of any of the country's water sheds.

Central Agency Expected.
The Missouri and all other water sheds except the Tennessee will be placed under a central agency as a result of this report. Proposals such as that of Senator Norris for a separate authority, or development separately under the reclamation bureau, will be abandoned.

Far from injuring the Missouri projects, however, this action will react to its benefit, since it will provide a more flexible development program and will avoid the evil effect of congressional enactment of the numerous similar bills patterned on Norris' which were introduced immediately after his.

Weaver and Child Cheered.
Former Governor Weaver of Nebraska and C. E. Child of Omaha, members of the Missouri Valley association, and other waterways leaders who are here preparatory to the opening of the annual rivers and harbors congress next week, today joined in expressions of confidence of the administration's intention to push the huge Missouri development program initiated by the Fort Peck, Mont., project.

"I believe that there is the rosiest future ahead for the Missouri," said Weaver.
"Not only has congress authorized the channel development but the corps of army engineers has given a sweeping approval to the program. Congressmen Agree."

"In addition, the public works administration has approved the development by allotting funds to Fort Peck and committing itself to its completion. I think the Missouri people may look forward with confidence to the report which will be sent to congress."

Members of congress from Missouri valley states similarly expressed themselves. It was stated on behalf of Senator Norris that the proposal is thoroughly agreeable to him. Secretary Ickes and other officials concerned in the study today referred all inquiries to the White house.

American Envoy Asks Japan About China

But Washington Is Silent on Crisis in Far East—Foreign Capitals Are Anxious.

Tokio, April 26.—United States Ambassador Joseph C. Grew visited Foreign Minister Koki Hirota at 12:30 p. m. today to discuss Japan's recent declaration of policy concerning China.

The visit of the American envoy was in accordance with instructions from Secretary of State Hull in Washington.

Previously it was understood the state department had asked the United States embassy in Tokio for a careful translation of Tokio press statements, but no official request had been made for formal diplomatic representation.

Foreign Capitals Anxious.
The strained international situation caused by Japan's pronouncement of a "Monroe doctrine" policy toward China was brought before President Roosevelt Wednesday, but Washington remained silent.

It was one of the subjects for discussion between the chief executive and Secretary of State Hull, but the secretary was unable to call at the White house during the day.

What step, if any, the United States would take on the delicate question was awaited anxiously in London, Tokio, Nanking and other capitals.

In the meantime, comment was caused by information reaching congress that Mr. Roosevelt would ask it for power to decide when to reinforce the navy, bringing it up to treaty-limit strength.

A Blunt Reply.
A spokesman for the Japanese foreign office bluntly replied to requests for explanation of the declaration by saying: "Our statement has been made. Let others read it as they will."

The British request for elucidation was conveyed to Foreign Minister Hirota by Ambassador Lindley this afternoon.

Great Britain surveyed the situation anxiously but did not comment herself. The London press generally displayed worry and hostility toward Tokio's attitude.

Consul-General Speaks.
In Geneva, Masayuki Yokoyama Japanese consul general, said Japan did not want to drive westerners from the aFr east and intended to respect treaties.

"Japan nevertheless," he added, "cannot accept and will oppose any form of assistance to China which is contrary to peace in eastern Asia." Chi-Tai-Hu, Chinese minister to Switzerland, declared at Geneva that Japanese imperialism seeks to enclose all China and veto the rights of foreign nations.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

To Reorganize Golf and Country Club for Season

J. W. Holmes Named as President and Rev. G. A. Pahl as the Secretary of Association.

From Friday's Daily
The reorganization of the golf and country club was taken up last evening at a meeting of those who have been interested in this work in the past and today the drive was on to secure members for this worthy while community enterprise.

The organization was perfected by the election of J. W. Holmes as president and Rev. G. A. Pahl as secretary who with their committee are planning the active work of placing the club back in its old spirit.

The country and golf club has in the past been a much enjoyed and popular part of the social life of the community, providing a place for a great many delightful social events in the summer season which without the club and its beautiful grounds would be impossible to have.

The golf course at the Plattsmouth club grounds is one of the best in this section of the state and where the members can have the facilities of the club house for luncheons or other social gatherings if they wish.

The movement to place the club back on its feet should have the support of all those who have enjoyed it in the past and those who may desire the same opportunity in the future.

AN UNKNOWN ARTICLE

One of the residents of near this city was a visitor at Omaha on day this week, while there decided to secure some articles that were needed on a farm. The party visited one store and inquired for a milk strainer and the request was regarded with considerable astonishment by the clerk, who suggested that a milk separator was the article needed and no strainer could be found. Several stores were visited with the result that no strainer could be found. One clerk asked why strain the milk when it comes fresh from the cow. The party had to give up the hunt for the strainer and return to this city where one was secured at a local hardware store where the merchants are a little closer to the needs of a farm.

FIND PRE-INDIAN RELICS
Pawnee City, Neb.—With discovery of a tiny cathinite pipe and of scrapers, arrow heads, drills and broken pottery by the busiet, investigation of pre-Indian home sites near Table Rock was pushed under direction of George H. Gilmore of Lincoln, directing the work for the state historical society.
"It is safe to say these will be the most productive sites of any uncovered in Nebraska," he said. He invited Dr. Earl H. Belle, Lincoln archeologist, to view the diggings Saturday.
Also found in the house site, where excavation is yet incomplete, were pieces of painting chalk, perfect arrow heads, bowl handles and other articles. Some of the material is from Pipestone, Minn., quarries. Other was brought here from the Nehawka vicinity where important finds have been made.
The digging conducted by Gilmore, T. N. Russell and Table Rock school boys is on a farm owned by Charles Rabstefnek east of Table Rock. A number of house sites like the one being investigated have been
