Attend Plattsmouth Meeting
A number of the citizens of Greenwood composed a committee that visited Plattsmouth one night last week to attend a special Rehabilitation meeting at the court house, where plans were discussed of providing self-sustaining relief for unemployed heads of families, thus enabling them to help pull themselves out of the hole. Briefly the plan provides for raising of chickens, ample gardens to provide year 'round vegetable requirements and in some instances the supplying of hogs and a cow. It is part of the government's general plan for bringing about better conditions over the nation at large and relieving the number of people on relief rolls. Those from here who attended the meeting and heard the plan explained by a representative of the government from Lincoln were Dr. N. D. Talcott, George E. Bucknell, J. S. Gribbel and E. L. McDonald.

Enjoyed Social Meeting

The ladies of the South Ashland Woman's club met on last Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Martin Steinberg, southeast of Ashland. A large and very interested crowd of the women were in attendance and enjoyed very much a paper read by Mrs. E. A. Landon on the subject, "Washington Memorials."

New Freezer Progressing

The writer visited the machine shops of the Stradley Brothers and there viewed the new freezer now being completed for a party in Grand Island. The new freezer, which is the creation of Ed Stradley was in operation at the time of our visit, and as soon as the finishing touches can be put on it, it will be shipped out and work started on another one to go to a party at Beatrice. The construction of the machine requires a lot of precision work and the blue prints, which were drawn by Mr. Stradley are closely followed. The new machines promise to revolutionize the ice cream industry and it is to the credit of Greenwood that one of her fellowcitizens was able to plan them and execute their construction right here at home. Some of the earlier machines have been in operation for months and are giving excellent satisfaction, while the new improved models may be expected to work even better.

Came to See Zephyr Pass

J. L. Harrington, Burlington agent at Omaha, was a visitor in Greenwood last Saturday, coming to see the new fast train, the Zephyr on its initial long distance run from Denver, the western terminus of the road to Chicago, its eastern terminus. The total distance between the two points is 1,017 miles and it was expected to make the run in 15 hours or less.

Mrs. Holt Much Improved

Mrs. Walter G. Holt, who has been so ill for more than a month and not able to leave her room or bed, is reported as being some better at this time and it is hoped she will soon be able to be out again.

Enjoyed Entertainment

Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Etheredge were in Ashland last Sunday evening, where they attended a gathering at the Christian church of that place, the occasion being an entertainment put on by the glee club of the First Christian church of Omaha. The program included songs, readings and a short address and was very much enjoyed by all who were present.

Mothers and Daughters Eat

There was a banquet given at the Christian church building on Tuesday evening of last week, sponsored by the Ladies Aid and the Dorcas society of the church and in honor of the Mothers and Daughters of the church. A large crowd was present and a fine program was enjoyed, honoring the mothers as well as paying a deserved tribute to the daughters. Many addresses were made by the mothers as well as the daughters, paying special tribute to the mothers who have borne the work of the church and the home during the years when the daughters were growing into young womanhood.

Hold Memorial Service

Memorial service was held at the Christian church on last Sunday, being conducted by the Rev. W. E. Goings, pastor of the Christian church and attended by a large number of people who had come to honor the soldier dead as well as those still living who have served their country in time of need.

Watched the Zephyr Pass

Arrangements were made that all who wished might have opportunity of seeing the Zephyr, the new fast train of the Burlington pass through Greenwood on its trial run from Denver to Chicago Saturday and there was a large crowd present when the train breezed through town on its way eastward shortly before the noon hour Saturday. The total distance to be covered was 1,017 miles and the railroad officials had set the estimated time for making the run at 900 minutes or less, based on an average speed of 70 miles an hour, which as you well know is "going some." At times the train was running around 110 miles an hour, but of course had to slow down considerably at different places along the route.

Here at Greenwood, where a long stretch of very near straightaway is available and the track well ballasted, some particularly fast speed was possible. The switches in the Greenwood yards were all spiked and cars on the sidings were removed elsewhere. No one was allowed on the platform and a space was roped off on the west side of the track to allow spectators to view the flight, and it was indeed a flight as it zipped past the Greenwood station like a silver streak, its stainless steel surface gleaming in the sunlight.

Great preparation had been made for the non-stop run and all sidings were cleared of cars, while passenger trains were pocketed thirty minutes before the time set for passing of the Zephyr, in order that there might be no hitch in the plans. Several crews boarded the train when it left Denver to pilot it over different divisions of the road and large speed limit signs were displayed all along the right of way between Denver and

Chicago, ranging from as low as 25 or 30 on dangerous curves to as high as 115 to 125 on long stretches of well ballasted straight track.

The Burlington officials had arranged with Mayor Henry Wilkins and the members of the town board here to see that everything was done to make the flight safe and no one was permitted near the track or to in any way interfere with the passing of the train. Councilmen E. L. McDonald, J. S. Gribble, N. D. Talcott and George Bucknell were selected to see that strict regulations were observed at all crossings and arrange for suitable guards. The section men had spiked the switches and had all their cars and equipment in the car houses, locked up.

The passing of the train was an inspiring sight that will not soon be forgotten by those who paused from their daily duties to go and see it. It marks the realization of a dream of Burlington officials to create a train that would pass from one end of their great system to the other in the time between dawn and the falling of the shades of evening—offering a challenge to aeroplane travel for speed and dependability.

A "TOURIST'S" TRIBUTE

That man "K" may keep raving about "chicken pie" And "pot liker and good corn bread"— But there are some other dishes that missed his eye Ere Missouri "feeds" went to his head.

An fr'instance, there's "mulligan stew" that we "bo's" Claim should stand at the head of the line, With the prestige he's striving to hold for those Ancient relics of auld lang syne.

Why, there's stuff in that stew that would blush for shame In pot liker or chicken pie; And most of our "eats" that gave "5-7" fame Have been garnered from far and nigh.

"Varieties" brought in from barnyard and field, And prepared with our chef's greatest care, By a process considered to increase the yield In the merits of our bill of fare.

So, let "K" blow the horn for his famed chicken pie, And rave till his hair turns blue— He'll never attain to the height that I Claim is due sublime "mulligan stew." "XX"

No better town in which to reside than Plattsmouth.
