

MANLEY NEWS

Fred Flaischman and family were in Omaha last Sunday, where they were visiting with relatives and friends for the day.

W. P. Cook, of Plattsmouth, was a visitor in Manley on Tuesday of last week and was calling on his old friend, Fred Flaischman.

Miss Mary Murphy was visiting for a number of days at the home of her brother, John Murphy, at Omaha, returning home late last week.

Fay Kestard, of Atchison, Kansas, has been very sick during the past week and David Brann went down to assist in the care of his friend.

Father P. Harte was called to Omaha on last Monday to look after some business and was also visiting with a number of friends while there.

Beverly Breckenfeld, of Omaha, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Breckenfeld, has been visiting with her aunt, Mrs. W. J. Rau, during the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Lee, of Chicago, were visiting in Manley last week, with their friend, Miss Sue Mockenhaupt. They all visited in Omaha for a day, with friends.

Theo Harms was over to Murdock on last Monday, where he went to attend the funeral of his friend of many years, the late William Lau, who died late last week.

Adolph Steinkamp, who has been so poorly for so many months, was quite a bit worse last week and had to have the services of Miss Sue Mockenhaupt, who is a graduate nurse. He was feeling some better a few days later, however.

W. J. Rau, who has been living in a mountain cabin for some time on account of his delicate health, with the coming of cooler weather, returned home last Monday evening and is feeling greatly improved and is back at work again looking after business at the bank.

Mrs. Joe Huse, of Jackson, accompanied by her daughter, have been visiting with friends and relatives in and near Manley, being guests of her sisters, Mesdames J. C. Rauth and Walter Mockenhaupt. They returned home last Thursday, Mr. Huse having driven down after the wife and daughter.

In a kittenball game between the second team of Manley and a like team from Louisville, which was played on the Manley diamond last Monday evening, the visitors were able to win over the younger team by a score sadly out of proportion. However, the lads were game and played a return game at Louisville on Wednesday of last week.

August Krecklow was over to Omaha on Tuesday of last week with a load of stock for the farmers of this vicinity and was accompanied by his friend, Anton Auerswald, who also had some business matters to look after in the big city. While they were away, Lawrence Krecklow was looking after the garage and C. E. Mockenhaupt was looking after the blacksmith shop.

Teddy Harms, Jr., who has been visiting for the past two weeks at the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Henry Peters, returned home on last Saturday, being accompanied by the grandmother, together with Edgar Peters and wife and Miss Leta Peters, who visited for the day and on their return were accompanied by Miss Evelyn Peters, who had been visiting in Manley for the past three weeks.

Many Drew Prizes

A large number of the scholars who attended the vacation preparatory and catechism school conducted by the St. Patrick's Catholic church, were awarded prizes at the church services last Sunday, following the close of the school sessions. The first prizes for girls and boys went to Gladys Hohman and Paul O'Brien. Second place among the girls was a tie between Catherine Sheehan and Clara Zoz, both of whom were awarded a prize, and Dorothy Miller drew third prize among the girls. Second place in the boys' group was won by Walter Zoz and third place was won by Leo O'Brien.

Remembers His Friends

John Crane and Harold Krecklow, as was stated in last week's Manley department, are visiting the Century of Progress and as a token of the love which Mr. Crane has for the friends back home, he sent little Jaekie Bergmann and the Rev. Father Harte each a tiny live turtle with its back painted red and the words "Century of Progress" painted across the shell. The recipients were overjoyed with the miniature turtles and played with them a good deal before placing them in the aquarium. It would seem that Father Harte was as much pleased with the remembrance as was little Jaekie.

Soon boats will be plying up and down the Missouri, hauling vast cargoes of freight.

Duck Shooting is Limited to 30 Days Duration

Distributed Over a Longer Season, Bags Cut to Five a Day on Some Species.

Washington.—The thinning flocks of wild ducks that annually wing across the grey winter skies of North America were given a chance Wednesday to stage a comeback. President Roosevelt has extended his new deal to them by revising hunting regulations to prevent wholesale slaughter.

The new rules were recommended by Secretary Wallace as part of a broad program for waterfowl conservation militantly advocated by Jay N. "Ding" Darling, noted cartoonist and chief of the bureau of biological survey.

Shooting seasons will be longer, but the number of days upon which the birds can be shot has been reduced. It is left to the discretion of state game departments to determine upon what days hunters may blast away. The maximum number is thirty.

Hunters with special permits issued free by the biological survey may shoot on baited premises—with limitations. Wallace can revoke the permits. There must be no shooting after 3 p. m. nor while the birds are resting on water or land.

Each permittee must record the number of persons hunting on baited premises, the number of each species killed, number of blinds, employed birds killed at each blind, kinds of food employed and intervals of feeding. Baiting of mourning doves is "absolutely prohibited."

The regulations ban hunting during the half hour before sunrise, but remove restrictions on shooting before noon on the season's opening day.

Daily bag limits were reduced from 8 to 5 and possession limits from 16 to 10 on the following "specially imperilled" species: Canvasback, red-head, elder duck, greater scaup, lesser scaup, ring-neck, blue-wing teal, green-wing teal, cinnamon teal, shoveler and gadwall.

All hunters over 15 will be required to carry a $1 federal hunting stamp, to be sold at postoffice in communities of 2,500 or more. Revenues from the stamp sale will be used in buying and leasing marshy areas for bird refuges.

State Game Warden O'Connell was not pleased with the assignment of the period Nov. 1 to 30 for Nebraska's open season on ducks. The state game commission had recommended Oct. 15 to Nov. 15. O'Connell said many ducks will have completed their flight thru Nebraska by the time the later season arrives, and hunters cannot shoot with much comfort in the late fall.

STUDY NRA CODE RESULTS

Washington.—A detailed study of the continuing effect of NRA codes on employment, payroll and working hours has been undertaken by the bureau of labor statistics. It is now gathering monthly reports on these items from signatories of the textile, cement, fertilizer and paint and varnish codes and plans soon to extend the survey to other industries. Officials expect the data so obtained to prove helpful in reorganization of the NRA, plans for which are now in the making.

In addition they are looking to the study to supply useful information in any governmental effort to settle the impending textile strike, although the survey was not applied to that industry with such a purpose in view. The inquiry is being made in co-operation with the code authorities involved, which, first of all supplied the bureau with a list of their complying companies.

GARDEN PRODUCTS GOOD

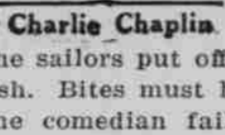

Scottsbluff, Neb.—Drouth will not hinder the Scottsbluff county fair from having an unusually good display of farm and garden products this season. Farmers who have land in the irrigated areas report that they will have any number of fine crop exhibits at the fair which will be held at Mitchell Sept. 12, 13 and 14. Exhibits of domestic, culinary and canned goods will be large. Plans are now being made for entertainment at the fair.

BEHIND the SCENES in HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD—Charlie Chaplin is almost as elusive as Garbo, but his fans caught up with him at Catalina the other day and sent the comedian scurrying to the shelter of his yacht. It happened like this: When Charlie isn't philosophizing with Paulette Goddard and his small group of cronies he likes to fish. The comedian's yacht dropped anchor a few days ago over at White's Landing—which is far enuf away from Avalon to escape the run of vacationers. So Charlie and one of the sailors put off in a small boat to fish. Bites must have been good, for the comedian failed to notice until too late that he no longer enjoyed the privacy of the ocean.

Then, suddenly, a flotilla of small boats descended upon him. They were manned by excited youngsters. Charlie ordered the sailor to row away. But the pursuers rowed just as fast. In fact, they were almost up to the comedian when he reached his yacht. Charlie probably is still wondering how so many kids materialized out of thin air. If it will help him any, they came from a Y. M. C. A. summer camp.

On Mae Clarke's birthday recently, her friends sent dozens of cheery wires in care of her publicity representative, Helen Ferguson. Mae has left the hospital, where she spent so many weeks following her breakdown and is now in a rest-home. Her best birthday gift of all is her doctor's assurance that she now is definitely on the mend and will be completely herself before long.

One of Hollywood's best-known women executives is to be married after a whirlwind courtship that reads like a movie scenario. She's Marcella Bannett, assistant to David Selznick at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, and her groom will be Dr. Marcus Radwin, well known Los Angeles medic. The pair met only three weeks ago. Deborah Lewin, filmdom's ace woman insurance agent, introduced them at a party. It's all set for wedding bells October 14th. There'll be a month's honeymoon and then, at Selznick's urgent request, the bride returns to her studio job.

Ann Dvorak got another disappointment. Her father's arrival from Philadelphia was delayed. . . . Maxie Rosenbloom is telling the world that he is through with the ring forever. The old acting bug has got him. He'll be in George Raft's next picture. . . . That panic in the haberdashery of Hollywood Plaza was caused by Eddie Cantor coming in to get a pair of trousers and casually stalking up and down the aisle in his shorts. . . . Jean Gale, of the Wampas Baby Stars and Tommy McLeod, Warner publicity man, have a bad case of romance or something. . . . Miriam Hopkins sails for New York August 26 with her adopted son and maid. She'll open the famous Elizabeth Marbury house, which she purchased last year, and it will be the permanent home of the youngster. . . . The newly redecorated Hayworth club is the latest play spot of the movie crowd. Soft dinner music and Doris Roach warbling hot songs later on. The place is frequented by the bigger names. . . . Another good eating spot, open to anyone and reasonable, is Thelma Todd's sidewalk cafe on the road to Malibu. Chicken cooked with peaches is a tasty specialty.

Consumers are Warned Against Price Rocketing

AAA Counsel Warns Against Being Stamped by False Rumors About Food Situation.

Dr. Frederic C. Howe, counsel of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, today warned consumers against being stamped by false rumors about the food situation but urged them to follow closely the actual drought lest they be victimized by unjustified price advances.

"Exaggerated reports are being spread as to prospective increases in the price of foods," Dr. Howe said. "That misrepresentation takes advantage of consumers and exposes them to raids by profiteers."

"But consumers should follow closely official reports on the movement of food supplies and prices. These will help them to buy wisely and economically, and to spot unwarranted price increases."

Some food prices will undoubtedly rise, Dr. Howe pointed out, partly in line with usual seasonal changes, partly because of drought-reduced supplies, as in the case particularly of meats and poultry products. But there will be food sufficient for the larger part of the usual American food requirements.

"We are going to give consumers every possible help in judging the fairness of price changes," the Consumers' Counsel stated. "We are going to do everything we can to develop intelligent buyer skepticism and tell the housewife how to feed her family well on low-priced but nutritious foods. We are inviting food merchants of Washington to tell us their side of food problems as they may develop."

"Through the Consumers' Guide—our own bi-weekly bulletin, the press, and the radio—we have been reporting for more than a year on changes in retail food prices and their relation to prices received by farmers, on food supplies and on ways of buying food intelligently. We will continue and expand this service."

The Consumers' Counsel's efforts in the face of rising bread and cotton textile prices last summer and fall, Dr. Howe said, had demonstrated the possibilities of checking price advances by informative publicity. By publicizing changes in bread prices in relation to ingredient costs, the public was kept informed as to justified changes. The majority of bakers co-operated and for nearly twelve months the price of bread has kept in close correspondence with legitimate price increases.

"The first defense against profiteering is the consumer who demands to be shown why he should be charged more for some product," said the Consumers' Counsel. "We want every consumer who is not satisfied with the explanation he is given for price increases to write us about them."
