There is a maple tree in the yard at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Young which during the hot and dry part of the summer had its leaves wither and fall off. The tree seemed to be dead, but with the coming of the recent rains has leaved out again and seems to have taken a new lease on life, much the same as trees do in the springtime.

During the past week, two of the wells of Murray which never before had failed, went dry, one of them being that of Frank Mrasek, and the other the one just south of the barber shop. This one will be remembered by old timers, as it was in the barn of Dr. B. F. Brendel, before the advent of automobiles, when doctors had to make their calls by driving horses. The continued drought has caused many wells to fail this year that had never been known to do so before.
