

Session of Congress will be Long One

Members Prepare to Take Up Work of Session That Will Probably Last for Months.

Democratic leaders forecast at Washington Friday a long and probably momentous session of congress, but conceded that, like the republicans, they still were mystified as to the essential features of the administration's program.

Word reached them that the president planned to couch his annual message, to be delivered personally next Friday, in general terms, and then, following his established custom, make specific recommendations on the various issues now foremost.

Would Extend Crop Loans.
Arrangements for the president's appearance before a joint session of the senate and house on the second day of the new congress were completed by Representative Byrns (Tenn.), who is to be the next speaker. Byrns indicated the session may last until July.

Meanwhile, Chairman Jones (dem. Tex.) of the house agriculture committee said he planned to urge extension of crop loans to farmers for another year because of the drought in the middle west.

Strategy to strike a "bargain" on the soldiers' bonus, if the democratic high command considers such a move warranted when the $2,200,000,000 issue comes to a head, is being studied tentatively by some administration leaders in congress.

No Roosevelt Word.
They emphasized they had no hint from the White house. Though there is much talk of possible "compromises" the president has made no statement of his attitude on them. But with sentiment among returning members heralded as so strong for bonus payment, these leaders, as one put it, are hoping to "make the best bargain we can."

A dozen or more methods of paying the bonus are expected to be proposed in congress. They will range from limited payments to needy veterans all the way to issuing new currency to pay all the bonus certificates in full immediately at an estimated cost of $2,200,000,000.

WEAVER NOT DISCOURAGED

Omaha.—Former Governor Arthur Weaver, Falls City, Neb., president of the Missouri River Navigation association was unperturbed after reading the report of Secretary Ickes' commission of nine nationally known engineers which seemed to throw doubt on the practicability of further work in making inland rivers navigable.

"Our program is practically completed," said Weaver. "The approval of the Fort Peck project insures a nine foot instead of a six foot channel as far north as Sioux City. That is all our present plans call for." Weaver indicated that the report of Ickes' commission was not nearly so hostile as many members of his organization had expected.

The Ickes commission, Weaver declared, lacked information as to the economic value of the project.

"It is merely a square deal for the agricultural west which has for years been paying its share of water development in other sections of the country," he said.

Why Liquid Laxatives Do You No Harm

The dose of a liquid laxative can be measured. The action can thus be regulated to suit individual need. It forms no habit; you need not take a "double dose" a day or two later. Nor will a mild liquid laxative irritate the kidneys.

The right liquid laxative will bring a more natural movement, and with no discomfort at the time, or afterward.

The wrong cathartic may often do more harm than good.

An approved liquid laxative (one which is most widely used for both adults and children) is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, a prescription. It is perfectly safe. Its laxative action is based on senna—a natural laxative. The bowels will not become dependent on this form of help, as they may do in the case of cathartics containing mineral drugs. Ask your druggist for Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

CONFIDENCE COMES FIRST

The most potent force for recovery is confidence—on the part of industry, property owners investors. By the same token, lack of such confidence creates and perpetuates depression.

The San Francisco Call-Bulletin recently observed there are now some ten billion dollars ready to be loaned to business for improvement and expansion—when there is sufficient confidence to justify the risk. The money is now in the banks, but bankers would obviously be unfaithful to their trust if they loaned money without feeling strongly that they can do so in safety.

There are now signs that confidence is returning—that problems are being ironed out, that industrial leaders and public officials are reaching a common ground. If that is true, it will be a blessing for all the people.

O'Gara Pushes Campaign for Speaker Post

Solons Discuss Nominations to Come Before Caucus; Minority Members Are Few.

Lincoln, Dec. 27.—Hotel lobbies here and the corridors of the state capitol gave substantial evidence Thursday of the approach of the legislative session, which starts at noon on New Year's day.

In small groups the advance contingent of lawmakers could be seen slapping backs and discussing nominations to come before the pre-session caucuses New Year's eve.

W. H. O'Gara (D.) Laurel, veteran of seven terms in the house, arrived Wednesday night to press his campaign for the speakership. He was preceded by a week by Representative Trenmor Cone (D.), Valley, another speaker aspirant.

Call on Scene.

Senator John S. Callan (D.), Odell, said today he was out of the race for president pro tem. of the upper chamber and would rather return to be chairman of the finance committee he held two years ago, also arrived Thursday.

Hugo S. Srb, Dodge, a member of the 1933 senate, was renewing acquaintances in a hotel lobby, and expressed hope of being attached to the 1935 session as secretary of the senate. Jack Nelson, Lincoln, another candidate for the position, was a capital visitor on Wednesday. The secretary is an employe and not a member of the senate.

Few members of the minority Republican party were in evidence, but Senator-elect Charles E. Allen of Cozad arrived Wednesday with Platte valley alfalfa growers and dealers to protest the lifting of an embargo against Idaho and Oregon hay.

The legislative chambers have been cleaned up, desks polished, and name cards have been placed on the desks and on the grill of the electric voting machine.

Call on Cochran.
The invitation Wednesday of Governor-elect R. L. Cochran to meet visitors in his temporary office at the capitol brought a flood of acceptances Thursday.

Cochran, on his return Thursday morning from Omaha, found a full reception room. His secretary, Theo Osterman of Central City, greeted many of the guests and took many applications for jobs, and then the governor-elect took up the task himself.

Before noon the appointment schedule for the day was filled. Still silent about selections for various important appointive state offices, Cochran said he would have no such announcement Thursday.

Rudolph Brazda of West Point was at the capitol with the admitted hope of winning appointment as state tax commissioner. W. H. Smith of Seward, the incumbent, and W. B. Banning of Union are those most frequently mentioned as possible appointees.

Brazda was a district appraiser for the HOLC when Osterman was state appraiser for the organization. Erazda also is a former clerk of Cuming county.

ABANDON RELIEF WORK

Butte, Mont.—Relief work in Silver Bow county was abandoned while strikers waited for word from the state relief director, who already has said their demands for increased wages and other advantages could not be granted. There were no disorders and no picketing. About 600 men abandoned their jobs, asking a minimum of $12.50 for each five day week, additional allowance for dependents, regulation of truck hiring, among other things.

GOAL OF REORGANIZED NRA

Chicago.—Dr. Max J. Wasserman, senior agricultural economist for the agricultural adjustment administration, asserted that an increase in production, stabilization of new price levels and the end of price fixing will probably be the goals of the reorganized NRA. Doctor Wasserman, an assistant professor of economics at the University of Illinois, led a discussion of the NRA at the opening session of a meeting of the American economics association.

"It is a mistake," he said, "to assume recovery can be made in one step." Of three necessary steps he said, two already have been taken. These, he said, were the clearing away of the debris of the depression and the opening up of the channels of trade.

"Among the obstacles which had first to be cleared away," he said, "were the long hours and low pay conditions, unfair competitive practice, cutting of prices below profitable levels, production of shoddy products and the breakdown of the credit system. The codes have made for a vast improvement in these conditions."

Price increases, he said, have been partly borne by some manufacturers and not entirely passed on to the consumer.

ANNE D. GOULD IS MARRIED

Harrison, N. Y.—Anne D. Gould, great-granddaughter of the railroad building Jay Gould, was married to Frank A. Meador, San Saba, Tex., an actor. Driving from a New York night club in a taxicab, the couple roused Town Clerk William Wilding, who issued the license at 3 a. m. Irving Sirkin, driver of the taxi, was a witness to the ceremony performed by Justice of the Peace Mintzer.

Neither Mintzer nor Wilding was aware of the bride's identity. "Sure, she wrote her father's name, Jay Gould, on the blank," said Mintzer, "but we didn't connect it up with the Jay Gould."

"See it before you buy it."

Private Liquor Sale is Proposed for This State

Wright Says That Bill Provides for Commission of Three to Control the Industry.

Omaha.—Attorney General-elect Wright Thursday night revealed the administration's liquor control bill which he drafted under direction of Governor-elect Cochran will provide for private sale of liquor in Nebraska, both by the drink and by the bottle, under strict state supervision.

The proposed bill, he said, provides for creation of a state liquor commission of three members, which would have authority over the liquor industry in the state.

The administration also proposes a new bill, allowing for a stouter brew, to replace the present 3.2 percent measure. The new beer bill, which may possibly be written into the hard liquor measure, would allow licensed brewers to manufacture and market beer of whatever "natural" strength, not spiked, they might choose.

"Our idea is that beer and hard liquor should be dispensed separately and that drinking of beer should be encouraged in preference to hard liquor consumption," Mr. Wright explained.

Licenses for sale of hard liquor for consumption on the premises would be granted to hotels, restaurants and other establishments approved by the commission. He stressed that hotels and restaurants would not have a monopoly of licenses for consumption on the premises.

The number of licenses issued to a community would be determined on a population basis, he said, and the number of "on sale" licenses in Omaha probably would be considerably smaller than the number of saloon licenses in pre-prohibition days.

He indicated a lesser number of "off sale" licenses would be issued. A three man commission was favored, he revealed, because a smaller board would be less unwieldy than a larger one and could handle all matters more expeditiously.

Altho it will be designed as an administration bill, the measure probably will be sponsored at the next session of the state legislature by representatives and senators from all parts of the state. Some of them already have been asked to permit their names to be used, it was reported here Thursday night.

Several other liquor bills, some of them providing for a state store system, are expected to be introduced.

POWER PLANT FORBIDDEN

Denver.—The tenth U. S. circuit court of appeals issued a temporary injunction forbidding the city of Independence, Kas., to construct a municipal light plant with federal funds.

The Kansas Gas and Electric company filed a complaint in the Oklahoma federal court against the city, seeking to prevent the use of funds provided by the PWA. The case was dismissed and the electric company then sought the temporary injunction in the court of appeals.

"The injunction shall be in force and effect pending the final determination of the appeal of the gas company from an order of the Oklahoma district court dismissing the action," the circuit court order said.

Any woman who does anything which a little electric motor can do is working for 3 cents a day.

Sales Tax is Revived as Raiser of Revenue

Pushed Forward Again From the Republican Side of the House of Representatives.

Washington.—The sales tax, veteran of half a dozen congressional conflicts, was pushed forward again from the republican side as a method for raising funds to meet "increasing" expenditures. The advocate of the tax—a 2 1-4 percent levy on manufacturers' sales—was Representative Treadway of Massachusetts, ranking republican on the house ways and means committee, which originates all tax legislation. Estimating his plan would raise 450 millions a year, Treadway took cognizance of reports that democrats were not anxious to advocate new taxes, by saying: "To increase expenditures at the rate which has been done and as probably will be continued in the incoming congress, without levying any taxes, is the height of financial folly."

He said he already had filed his sales tax bill with the house clerk for introduction on opening day, Jan. 3. Under his plan 50 per cent of receipts could be turned over to states.

"In hope that the states' governments will see the advisability of leaving this form of taxation to the federal government."

House democrats have pointed out that the administration has not yet closed the door to new taxes. The house ways and means committee is awaiting a report and suggestions from the treasury on a special survey of the revenue situation. Some house members think it will be advisable to extend 416 millions in taxes—the nuisance levies on such things as radios, refrigerators, automobiles and the like—which otherwise will expire at the end of the present fiscal year. An inclination to step in and prevent a 20 millions reduction in some other levies after June 30 also has been evidenced. Specific taxes in the latter class are bond and stock issues and admissions.

George Shackley, well known resident of the vicinity of Avoca, was in the city Saturday and called at the Journal to renew his subscription.
