

May Double CCC to Aid Relief Plan

Talk of a Million Men by New Age Limits Is Heard at Capital; Details Withheld.

A plan to more than double the size of the civilian conservation corps Friday was under serious consideration by President Roosevelt as part of a broad winter work relief program by the administration.

There were simultaneous indications, however, that his program is not yet complete. Singly and in groups, the president summoned cabinet officers and advisers to go over the plans. Both he and these officials held in close confidence any sections of the program that had been agreed upon.

Think Plan Likely.

The civilian conservation corps proposal was described by officials in nonquotable fashion as likely of adoption by the president. The extent of the increase in the corps was said to have been not yet fully decided upon, but a figure of one million men was the one mentioned most frequently. The CCC now has upward of 350 thousand enrolled.

Several other changes also were described as likely in the corps, such as changing the ages of enrollment to allow a broader range of relief benefits to flow from it. Under the present law, the corps would expire on March 1.

May Abolish Crossings.

In the field of work relief and public works, one of the types of work said to have been virtually decided upon was grade crossing elimination. The national resources board mentioned this as a desirable phase of public works and suggested the use of 500 million dollars in this manner.

A wide range of other activities also were embodied in the relief plans before the president.

Also closely connected to these was his economic security program, embodying unemployment insurance and at least consideration of pensions. A step toward an expanded work program—the transfer back to the states of the old and unemployable persons—brought a demand today from Senator Borah, Idaho's republican independent, for immediate enactment of old age pensions.

Tells of Trip to National 4-H Club Meet

Cass County Young Women Have Great Experience on Trip to Great Chicago Meeting.

(By Virginia Trively)

Our trip was so interesting that I want to tell you some of the things we did and some of the good times we had.

The Nebraska delegation left Omaha at 7:15 p. m. Saturday, December 1, on the Northwestern "Corn King" for Chicago. It had been about ten years since I had ridden on a train, and I had never ridden on a Pullman. It was great fun climbing into an upper berth and trying to dress there.

Sunday morning when we heard the black-faced porter call "Six o'clock, girls," we certainly hated to get up, for we had just shut our eyes in peaceful slumber. Perhaps you wonder who I mean by we—I mean my team-mate, Frances Meier and myself.

We arrived in the "windy" city at 8 o'clock Sunday morning. We went right to the Harrison Hotel and registered. Frances and I had the darlingest room imaginable. We really hated to part from it Thursday. After eating breakfast at the Harrison, the Protestants went to the Central Church and heard Dr. Shannon speak. At the Central Church, a pleasing feature was the vesper choir of eighty voices.

If I don't mention some meals, don't think we didn't eat them. We certainly were well-fed. At 1:00 we went on a fifty-mile tour of the city. On this tour we saw many of the important and interesting points within the city. I think I enjoyed this tour as much as anything during my stay.

Frances and I remained at home in the evening in order that we might study and rest for the next day's contest.

On Monday—the contest. Of course we did other things, but this was of supreme importance. For was this not the reason we had made our trip there? There were ten teams there for the Home Furnishing contest. The contest was conducted something differently than it was here in the state. We had only ten minutes to judge a class and no time to study our reasons. One thing I did like about the contest, however, was that we could sit down and give our reasons to the judge.

At noon we were entertained at luncheon at the Stock Yards Inn by courtesy of Sears, Roebuck and Co. Imagine how large quantities of food it took to feed 1500 delegates as well as quite a few state leaders, especially if they all had appetites like mine. At three o'clock we were present at the dedication of the new Boys and Girls Club Building. The old one was destroyed by fire. Wilson's Packing company went to a great deal of trouble in getting entertainment for us. They had moving pictures, famous jugglers, a movie star and some of the most famous sports people. It was a wonderful program, and they served us a lovely banquet.

I think I appreciated the souvenir I received from Wilson's as much as anything. I had at least one person from nearly every state represented (there were some forty states present) write in my autograph book, and I will always treasure it. About 8:00 we left Wilson's for the International Livestock Exposition. When we arrived, Frances and I were told that we were winners in our contest, and we had to ride around the large arena in a wagon pulled by six beautiful horses. You can imagine how thrilled we were.

On Tuesday the girls went to Field's Museum of Natural History. Here we saw prehistoric exhibits and the Hall of the Stone Age Man. One thing I delighted in at Field's Museum was that each of us was permitted to go into the tomb of an Egyptian mummy. After we went through Field's we went to Adler's Planetarium for a demonstration. I certainly enjoyed this too, for I like anything connected with the firmament.

At 1:00 we were guests at luncheon of the Chicago Mail Order company. They had a good orchestra and a pleasing style show for our enjoyment. Our souvenirs were blue mirror and comb sets and were very nice.

In the evening the club members annual banquet was held at the largest ball room in the world, and one of the most beautiful—the Stevens. I have never seen a more elaborate room. It was simply gorgeous. The play "Spirit of American Music" which was presented that night was written especially for this occasion.

casian. There was an interesting program besides this. Each of us received a jar of stuffed dates.

Wednesday morning we went on an educational tour through the McCormick works, tractor works, and show rooms. We were guests of the International Harvester company at luncheon. In the afternoon we went to the Matinee Horse Show. There I saw my first polo game, and I must say that I found it very fascinating. That afternoon we saw the Style Show which was in charge of Nebraska this year. The scenery for this event was beautiful.

In the evening we went to the Museum of Science and Industry and saw their feature exhibit: Five Thousand Years of Farm Tools. Most of these demonstrations were too chemical for me to understand, but I delighted in watching the man in the diving suit actually show how steel was cut under water. I also was very thrilled at the chance to go down into the coal mine. Perhaps this was the most educational trip we took.

Thursday we went to Montgomery Ward and Company for a tour of their plant. They took us through their different departments, and I became very interested in their test department where they test every article before sending it away. I also was interested in their shipping department. Here they had packages and boxes all ready to be mailed to Egypt (Africa, and all parts of the world).

At noon we were guests of Montgomery Ward & Co. at the Edgewater Beach Hotel in the Marine dining room. I can truthfully say that I was more impressed by the beauty and splendor of this place than any place we had been. The lovely chandeliers, the soft carpets—they were all very nice, but what I enjoyed most was what we could see from the window by which we sat. It was a windy day and the breakers rolled up to the beach; there was a ship out on the lake; and we could see the navy pier. I realize that "pretty as a picture" is an overworked group of words, but it seems to be the only fair description.

In the evening we had our last good time together—a Dutch treat in the Auditorium Hotel. Here we were awarded our prizes.

The Nebraska delegation left for home at 9:00 Thursday night and we arrived at Omaha about 9:50 the next morning.

It was a glorious trip! Here's hoping that next year's Nebraska delegation has the splendid time we did. Here's to many more such trips!
