Married in Lincoln

Lee Stewart, who has been farming south of town for a number of years, looking after the work on the farm as well as the duties about the house, which, by the way, he was well qualified to do, including the cooking of an excellent meal, found that after the day's work was done the lack of companionship was very monotonous. It so happened that a beautiful and accomplished young lady of Palmyra, a Miss Wesell, and Lee became acquainted some time since and their acquaintanceship ripened into courtship, with the result that on last Wednesday this young couple went to Lincoln and secured a permit to wed, being married there, after which they returned to Palmyra, where they remained with friends for a short time. They will make their home on the farm south of Alvo and now Lee's evenings will not be so lonesome, or the household duties so pressing. The Journal joins with their many friends in extending best wishes and congratulations to this splendid young couple for a long and happy life together.

Pioneer Called to Rest

Mrs. Nellie Elizabeth Kirkpatrick, wife of Charles Kirkpatrick, age 78, passed away on Saturday, February 16th, the funeral being held from the Methodist church in Alvo on Wednesday afternoon, February 20th.

Mrs. Kirkpatrick was born in Wisconsin, making her home there during her girlhood days, coming to Nebraska when a young woman, they residing on a farm near where the town of Alvo is now located. Here three children were born to her and her first husband, who passed away and was buried at Camp Creek cemetery four miles west and a mile south of Alvo. Later she was married to Charles H. Kirkpatrick, who with three sons of the former marriage are left to mourn her passing. The sons are Walter and Claude Barrett, of Los Angeles and Charles Barrett, of Pomona, California. Following their marriage some fifteen years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Kirkpatrick made their home in Texas for about two years and then returned to Alvo to reside.

Mrs. Kirkpatrick was a member of the Methodist church and a firm believer in the teachings of the lowly Nazarene, which she followed very closely and which were exemplified in her daily life. She had a large number of friends and was known as one of the self-sacrificing and loved women of the community. The funeral services were conducted by the Rev. R. J. McKenzie, pastor of the church at Alvo.

The Journal extends condolences to the husband and other relatives who mourn the passing of this excellent woman.

Card of Thanks.

We desire to take this means of thanking the many good friends for their words of sympathy and acts of kindness in our recent bereavement in the death of our loved one.—C. H. Kirkpatrick, W. E. Barrett, C. E. Barrett, C. L. Barrett.

PAY WASHINGTON TRIBUTE

Washington.—President Roosevelt and congress led the nation in paying homage to George Washington. Mr. Roosevelt observed the anniversary of Washington's birthday by motoring to Mount Vernon. There he silently placed a small wreath on the tomb.

Members of the senate and the house assembled at noon to hear in each chamber the annual reading of the 3,000 words Washington spoke in his farewell to congress.

Senator Austin read to the democratic controlled senate the historic document which expressed the hope of Washington that his counsel "might be productive of some partial benefit, some occasional good, and might now and then recur to moderate the fury of party spirit." Rep. Driscoll repeated Washington's advice to the house.

Bedlam broke out in the house when Driscoll concluded as Rep. Rich (r., Pa.) arose to suggest that the democrats follow the principles laid down by Washington. The democrats responded with loud boos and "no's."

PAMPHLETS ATTACKED

Topoka.—Pamphlets sponsored by the United States department of agriculture purportedly advocating reduction of wheat diets in favor of spinach and other less fattening foods drew fire of the Kansas senate. The senate adopted a resolution asking this be stopped.

Avoca Quintet Finishes Third Un-defeated Season

Close Season With a 50-20 Victory Over Dunbar—Honor Senior Member of Team.

The Avoca high school basketball team has just closed their third undefeated season when they won from the Dunbar quintet by the score of 50 to 20 to hang up this splendid record.

During the intermission at the half time Elmer Hallstrom, president of the Avoca board of education conducted impressive ceremonies to honor four of the Avoca players who are to graduate this year from the school. The seniors are Harvey Dehnung, center, Charles Stovall, John Maseman and Harlan Maple.

After the game the squad, parents and Superintendent and Mrs. Larson were guests at a dinner at the Golmer home.

Avoca, for the third season, didn't lose a scheduled game. Among their trophies is one for the Cass county tourney championship. They enter the Brock regional Class B meet top-heavy favorites to repeat their last year's victory.

For the past three years Avoca has gone through its playing schedule without losing a game, every time establishing itself as favorite in state Class B finals only to lose out in semi-final or final rounds.

The 1935 team stands an even chance to go through this season although Elk Creek, most consistent district rival again stands in their path.

Moratorium is Shorn of Part Dear to Cone

Senator Dafeo Leads Fight Thursday Against the Barring of Suits on Notes.

Deciding by a heavy vote that the old moratorium on mortgages that has served the people of the state for two years is good enough for another two years, the senate in committee of the whole Thursday cut section 2 out of H. R. 1. Without this section Representative Cone, introducer, had said the moratorium has been a hollow mockery. The section stricken prohibits suits on notes and requires the mortgagee to exhaust his remedy on the security.

On the ground that the old moratorium had been beneficial and that the additional matter in the bill would prevent loans, injure land owners and stop first and second mortgage holders from any recourse, and that it would endanger the bill by rendering it unconstitutional as imperiling contracts, the majority struck out the section and expressed a willingness to give the people the same law they have had for two years by extending it from March 1, expiration date, to March 1, 1937.

Dafeo, chairman of the judiciary committee, backed by Stewart, president pro tem, led the fight with a good following. The section opposed was stricken by a vote of 22 to 8.

Bullard, who favored retention of the section, called attention to a peculiar fact. He said the senate two years ago by a vote of 27 passed a bill to prohibit suits on notes in mortgage cases and the bill went to the house and was killed. Now the house places the same provision in a bill, once rejected by the house, passes it and send it to the senate which body accepted it two years ago and now rejects it, so times have changed.

Roll Call Is Printed.

The roll call on striking out the anti-note suit section in committee of the whole was ordered placed in the printed senate journal upon motion of Regan, as such records are not printed except by request. The roll call on the striking out of the section resulted:

Aye—Allen, Brodecky, Cady, Callan, Carsten, Dafeo, Gillette, Green, Howard, Jelen, McGowan, McMahon, Mattson, Neeland, Neumann, O'Brien, Price, Reynolds, Schultz, Stewart, Van Kirk, Warner—22.

Nay—Blossing, Brady, Bullard, Kaspar, Pedersen, Regan, Sullivan, Wells—8.

Absent and not voting—Crowley, Howell, Slepicka—3.

Wheat Signers Wait on Compliance Forms

Will Check With the 1935 Contracts in April or May in Nebraska.

Most Nebraska wheat allotment associations prefer to check compliance with the 1935 wheat contract in April and May, according to reports coming in to the state AAA office in Lincoln. A few are particularly anxious to get the wheat acreage measured as soon as possible, in order to take care of extra acres planted for pasture.

Compliance forms and instructions from the wheat section in Washington have not yet arrived in Nebraska, but representatives of the national office say these will be available early in March. District conferences and county schools will then be held to help associations and supervisors start the compliance program. Uniformity in procedure throughout the state will be required.

The wheat contract which 25,000 Nebraska growers signed in the fall of 1933, covers two crop years, the harvests of 1934 and 1935. Signers were asked to reduce their wheat seedings 15 percent below their base the first year and 10 percent below the same base this year. Land taken out of wheat may be used this year for pasture and forage but not for grain or seed production. In return, benefit payments are being made which will total about as much as the gross returns from the small wheat crop harvested in Nebraska in 1934.

HARVES IS FOUND GUILTY
Hastings, Neb.—Clifford Harves, 23, was convicted by a district court jury of leaving the scene of a fatal game in the Cass county tournament, between the Avoca and Murdock school teams, which was won by the Avoca lads, thereby making Murdock eligible for second place honors in the tournament out of a large list of entries. The tournament lasted four days.

The kittenball enthusiasts of Murdock are interested in the forming of a kittenball league in this vicinity and have petitions at numerous of the business places about town for the signature of those desirous of seeing such a plan carried out. With a lighted field available, Murdock has an opportunity of becoming one of the kittenball centers this coming summer, being one of the few towns to have such a playing field.
