

UNION ITEMS.

Elmer and Frank went to Nebraska City Sunday to take in a show at one of the theatres there.

Rev. B. N. Kunkel was called to Weeping Water last Friday, where he had some business matters to look after.

The firm of Rihn & Greene had a new sign painted on their window last Monday, which makes a very neat advertisement for their store.

Dr. C. F. Schmidtman and wife, of Omaha, were visiting for the day last Sunday at the home of the mother of Mrs. Schmidtman, Mrs. J. T. Reynolds.

J. C. Hansel and wife were at Nebraska City last Saturday, where they had some business matters to look after and also called on a number of their friends.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Banning and C. E. McCarthy and wife were in Omaha last Monday, where they attended the flower show and visited with friends.

Charles Ratcliff, of Nehawka, was a visitor in Union last Monday, looking after some business matters, and was also visiting with friends in Murray last week.

Jack Roddy departed last Saturday for Sloan, Iowa, where he went to join the Riggs show, which was to exhibit there Monday. He will work with the amusement company during the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Stone and son, George, were in Nebraska City last Sunday afternoon, where they attended a picture show. Others from here who enjoyed the show were Blair Porter and wife.

George A. Stites was looking after some business matters in Nebraska City last Monday forenoon, and had to hook a ride home with some one else, as his car broke down and he had to leave it there for repairs.

Mrs. Olive Murty, of Weeping Water, who has been visiting with relatives in Iowa, while en route home stopped off in Union for a visit with friends, calling on Mrs. Fannie Elkensberry and sister between trains.

Ray Becker was looking after business matters in Omaha last Friday, and the following day went to Lincoln on a similar business mission. He is well pleased with the volume of business that is coming to his new bulk and service station.

Mrs. Lottie Rosencrans, county relief worker and truant officer, was down from Plattsmouth on Monday looking after some business matters connected with the duties of her office as well as visiting with her friend, Miss Augusta Robb, who is a member of the official board of the county Red Cross organization.

Junior Gillespie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Gillespie, has been visiting for the past two weeks at the home of an aunt in Omaha, where he has been enjoying a very fine time. Last Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Gillespie drove over to the big town and after enjoying a visit for the day, returned home in the evening, bringing their son back with them.

Busy Appraising Lands
The committee for the appraising of lands which are being taken out of corn cultivation in Liberty precinct, composed of Charles Garrison, L. G. Todd, R. E. Foster and A. C. Pearsley, has been busy measuring up the lands and making appraisal of same in accordance with the instructions furnished by the government.

Many at Flower Show Sunday
The national flower show, which is being held in Omaha, is attracting large crowds each day, and on last Sunday, the second day, there were 39,000 people present during the afternoon and evening. With such a large crowd, it was well high impossible for one to get around and see all of the many exhibits, and those who did, were plenty tired from the exertion required. Admirers of beautiful flowers can spend a most pleasant half day and then not inspect all of the many exhibits, that fill the large coliseum and adjoining buildings. Among those from Union who were present Sunday were C. E. Morris and family, E. E. Leech and family, the family of R. E. Foster, including the girls, Phillip Rihn and wife, Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Todd and many others.

Conducting a Revival
At the Methodist church there has been in operation for some time a series of revival services, which have been in charge of the Rev. B. N. Kunkel pastor of the church here, and also the Rev. E. S. Pangborn, pastor of the Methodist churches at Nehawka and Weeping Water. Interest in the meetings has been increasing daily and there is a good attendance at each service. Some excellent singing adds to the interest and the discourses of Rev. Kunkel and Rev. Pangborn are well worth hearing.

Better make it a point to attend these services, for you will be benefited thereby.

Visiting with Friends Here
Edgar Morton, who has a large area of wheat land under cultivation in the northwestern part of the state that promises to return a good yield this year, and who is also interested in gardening in Texas, having been down there the greater part of the spring looking after the planting of his crops, which were growing nicely until last week, when a freeze came and ruined considerable of the vegetation, stopped here with his family, while en route back to the northwestern part of the state and called on relatives and friends for a short time. As the season is getting well advanced in the south for early gardens, Mr. Morton concluded he could accomplish more just now in Nebraska, and has left the frost-bitten gardens of the southland in other hands to come back up north and tend to his wheat crop. He was looking forward to finding conditions there very bright, and from the reports we have heard from that part of the state, he will not be disappointed.

Passing of Miss Laura Easter
Miss Laura Easter, who has resided in the neighborhood of Nehawka and Union during her entire lifetime and who has been a very active worker in social and church circles, as a teacher in the Baptist Bible school for a good many years, as well as a devout member of that church, was taken some weeks ago with a severe attack of appendicitis, and following the operation which was performed two weeks ago, showed good improvement, was suddenly taken with a severe pain in her chest and passed away a short time afterwards. As the pain came upon her, she called to a nurse, saying "I am dying." Immediately the house physician was summoned and did everything possible to revive the patient, but to no avail. It was found that a clot of blood had passed into the cavity of one of her lungs, causing death.

Miss Easter was born on a farm southwest of Union 46 years ago and had made her home in this vicinity ever since. Her father passed away a good many years and the deceased resided with her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Easter, who died last October. The funeral was held on Wednesday afternoon at the home on the farm and interment was in the Methodist cemetery at Wyoming. Rev. B. N. Kunkel, a close friend of the family, delivered the funeral discourse.

Ladies Aid Plans "Spring Fair"
The Ladies Aid society of the M. E. church will conduct a "Spring Fair" on the afternoons of Wednesday and Thursday, April 24 and 25, from 1:30 till 5:30 p. m.

The attractions will be a quilt display, a bazaar with practical articles on sale, a booth showing antiques as well as some of the modern pieces of art work, a brief program given each afternoon, and very "modern" refreshments will be served.

The patronage and co-operation of all friends of the church will be greatly appreciated. a4-3w

Woman's Club Book Review
The public was privileged to enjoy an excellent review of the book, "Anna Karenina," by the Russian author, Tolstoy, which was given by Mrs. John R. Pierson, of Auburn, last Friday evening at the M. E. church. In her summary of the lengthy novel, Mrs. Pierson brought out its salient points in most effective and clear-cut manner, without detracting from its more interesting features by her abridgment, and portraying in concise manner the moral of the story conveyed by the author in more detailed form.

Several musical numbers also added to the pleasure of the evening, these including several numbers on piano and cello given by Miss Alice Core and Miss Marian Navel of Nebraska City, and a song by Paul Davis, with Mrs. D. Ray Frans at the piano. The club members are very appreciative of the gratuities.

Passing of R. E. Taylor
Ruel Ellsworth Taylor, son of James Whitfield and Sareta Braley Taylor, was born in Meigs county, Ohio, November 1, 1861. There he spent his childhood and young manhood days. When 22 years of age, he came with his parents to Nebraska, arriving February 27, 1884, and has since made this state his home.

He was married to Floretta Grimes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Grimes, pioneer residents. April 6, 1898, one child, a daughter, Tilly, was born to this union.

He resided north of Nehawka for the past three years. He had been in failing health for a long period of years and on the last day of last December a decided change for the worse came, which culminated in his death March 28th, at 10:40 p. m. at the age of 73 years, 4 months and 37 days.

He leaves to mourn his departure, his wife, Mrs. Floretta Taylor, one daughter, Mrs. Tilly Schwartz, wife of H. A. Schwartz, of Nehawka, and three granddaughters, Ruth Joy, Velma May and Virginia Marie.

While he loved all the granddaughters, he always called little Virginia his "Sunshine." Two brothers, W. A. Taylor and S. M. Taylor, of Union, also survive.

He was preceded in death by his father and mother and two brothers, Henry H. and Rufus M., as well as one sister, Mary Leona.

In his going he leaves many other relatives and a host of friends.

DAMAGES OF $11,670 ASKED
Damages totaling $11,670 were asked in a petition filed in federal court at Lincoln Tuesday by Meredith H. Greene against William K. Keithley and Rue H. Frans, Syracuse, and Harry W. Elliott, Lincoln. The petition alleges that the defendants, representing themselves as officers of the Elliott 12-way syndicate, said they owned several oil wells that were flowing as much as 40,000 barrels of good oil per day in Rusk and Gregg counties, Texas. He invested in the company in May, 1931, and of damages asked $1,670 was the amount represented in the contract. Remaining is $10,000 exemplary damages.

RACIAL MANIFESTO ISSUED

Bucharest, Rumania.—A violently worded anti-Semitic manifesto was issued by eleven former cabinet ministers of Rumania advocating the introduction of racial correction measures in all forms of Rumanian activity. The manifesto came in the wake of a clash between Jewish students and ultra-nationalist undergraduates of the university who raided a Jewish ball, smashed windows and roughly handled the dancers. The protection measures advocated would include all trade and industry, government offices and the free professions. The clash climaxed a series of anti-Semitic outbursts throughout Rumania. The measures proposed in the former ministers' manifesto were similar to the Aryan theme of the Nazi constitution in Germany and were intended drastically to restrict the employment of Jews and other racial minorities of Rumanian citizenship. The ultra-nationalist movement, despite the disapproval of the nationalist peasant party, is fast gaining ground in Rumania.

ORDERS LIQUOR RETURNED

Omaha.—Municipal Judge Wheeler Tuesday dismissed charges of illegal possession and transportation of liquor against Isaac Koester, St. Joseph, and Ben Handler, former Omaha deputy sheriff, and ordered that liquor worth approximately $5,000 be returned to them by police.

Judge Wheeler declared all law-making power flows from the will of the people, and if a law runs counter to this will, the courts are justified in ignoring it. His ruling followed one Saturday in which he held the liquor law of Nebraska was still a law, as it had not been repealed by the legislature.

The judge reconciled these decisions by stating he believed it necessary to maintain some variety of liquor law, so that in cases where "criminal intent" was evident—such as sale to minors—the offenders could not escape unpunished. The people, he observed, never contemplated entire elimination of liquor control.

HIGH SALARIES REPORTED

Washington.—Salaries of $100,000 or more annually were reported to the securities commission by George Horace Lorimer, editor of the Saturday Evening Post, and Francis B. Davis, chairman of the United States Rubber company. Davis received $125,219, and Lorimer $100,000.

The reports were filed in connection with the application of United States Rubber, and the Curtis Publishing company, which controls the Saturday Evening Post, for permanent listing on stock exchanges.

Eagle M. E. Church.
D. J. Schuylerman, pastor; G. H. Palmer, S. S. Supt.
10 a. m. Sunday school hour. We had another gain in attendance last Sunday—will we keep up the good work? We are still running behind our crusade record of last year so we just have to do something about it. Our goal for this Sunday is 175. We can make it if we all come and bring our neighbors and friends. But we will fail if you are a "piker."
Morning worship at 11. Remember that church attendance is also important if we are to win this contest. Our attendance has been our weak point. There are too many of us who come to Sunday school and then hurry home to get dinner ready. Let's eat just a little later this Sunday and all stay for church!
Choir practice Thursday evening at 7:00 at the home of Mrs. Guy Jones. Let us all be there on time.
The pastor is in the midst of his Lenten season calling. His plan is to visit the home of every member of the church between now and Easter. This is a large undertaking so do not be "put out" if he should call at an unfortunate time.

Cass county is one of the finest agricultural centers in the state, improved farming conditions and better prices for farm products will react to the advantage of every town in this territory.

BEHIND the SCENES in HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD—That well known little bird tells me the friendship between Greta Garbo and George Brent lives. The Swedish star is still a freer is not as cool as Hollywood may bequent visitor to the actor's home in Toluca lake. She was there the very day that European rumors had her in Germany, and she has been there since.

In the future, motion pictures may entertain you and cure you of your diseases as well.

Dr. Royal Sorenson, of the California Institute of Technology, predicts that, some day, motion picture film may be used to store vast amounts of energy.

"This energy will be recorded on film just as sound is recorded now," declares the scientist. "The amount of energy will depend upon the amount of light striking the film's negative."

"In appearance, the developed film will closely resemble a cardograph, with millions of minutely shaded lines, too fine to be determined by the naked eye. These minute lines will be energy, and they will be recorded at a central laboratory and shipped to small towns and communities throughout the world."

According to the doctor, the energy will then be projected on patients suffering from illness just as motion pictures are projected on the screen today. Bringing benefits to thousands of men and women who might not otherwise be in a position to receive electro-therapeutical treatment.

Dr. Sorenson is advising movie-makers at R-K-O about scientific points in the production of Sir Rider Haggard's novel, "She."

The story printed here that James Cagney lends an attentive eye to the written wishes of his fans has borne unusual fruit. Recently the actor received a bulky petition signed by 478 citizens of San Francisco. They urge him to appear in more musicals like "The Footlight Parade."

This isn't at all displeasing to Cagney, for he has been taking voice lessons, and is musically inclined.

Maybe this costume will fill a need in many feminine wardrobes.

Jean Crawford has designed a "formal theater suit" for use, as she says, "on occasions when a décolleté gown is not essential but when more formality than offered by street clothes is required."

The costume is of black chiffon velvet, is severe and form fitting, is adorned at the shoulders with twin silver fox furs, and is accompanied by black shoes, gloves and an off-the-face hat.

Hollywood Ticker-Tape—

Clark Gable dropped out of the skies here the other morning, still dizzy from his experiences in Texas, where crowds of women practically mobbed his plane. He headed directly for Arrowhead Springs to rest up from it all. . . . Maurice Chevalier is sending flowers to Ann Sothern, but it was a brunette actress who accompanied him to the Cafe Roxy. Tommy Lyman, of that spot, once taught the French star pantime in putting over English songs. . . . W. C. Fields was in bed two days with a touch of the flu. . . . It was too sad about the death of Betty Bryson's child recently. . . . Constance Collier writes of Hollywood in "Second Impressions," her book which is almost completed. . . . An interview in a local paper misprinted Norman Krasna's salary as $13,000 a week, and the internal revenue department simply kept him busy explaining. . . . Gene Raymond has looked all over Beverly Hills, but can't find the house he wants. . . . John Stone, Phil Friedman and Eugene Ford, of the Fox outfit, are back from New York. . . . And Amos and Andy are taking up flying during their stay in Palm Springs.

What Should Miss 1935 Weigh?

Considerable controversy has been aroused over the recent edict of the American Society of Beauticians that the ideal American girl of 1935 should weigh 100 pounds. Feminine America has been thrown into confusion by this mandate which runs counter to the recent mode established by Mae West with her gay ninety revival. Marion Quigley, weighing 100 pounds, was selected by beauty experts in convention at New York, as the ideal girl. Feminine America views with panic this change in style, recalling the rigors of the 18-day-diet. After many have spent recent months adding pounds where they counted most, they are now faced with the possibility of having to take them off again.
